GIBSON SCORES LACK OF ACTION ON BURLINGAME

Will Take Over Inquiry if City Heads Delay, He Asserts.

POLICEMAN RETAINS SILENCE AS DEFENSE

Commissioners Decline to Accept Reply as Sent by Man Accused.

BLANTON PROMISES TO DELIVER WOMAN

Representative Asks Square Deal for Mrs. Blalock if She Appears.

Representative Gibson, of Vermont, chairman of the subcommittee of the House District committee investigating District affairs, last night threatened to take the Burlingame case out of the hands of the District Commissioners and Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, chief of police, unless these officials stop "buck passing" and show an inclination within a reasonable time what disposition they intend to make of the charges against the police captain.

"The District Commissioners and Maj. Hesse are apt to find themselves enmeshed in the backwash of public opinion, too, if the subcommittee is forced to take over the investigation of the charges preferred against Capt. Guy E. Burlingame by Mrs. Helen Blalock, a local palmist," Gibson warned.

Wanted It Handled Locally.

Representative Gibson said his committee turned the Burlingame case over to the District Commissioners and Maj. Hesse because its members believed the people of Washington desired to see the case handled by local officials.

If the local officials now handling the case fall down on the job, however, then the subcommittee will undertake to decide whether or not Capt. Burlingame should be exonerated of the charges preferred against him, Gibson said.

Chairman Gibson said he was familiar with the report that the Commissioners yesterday "passed the buck" in the Burlingame case to Maj. Hesse.

A few minutes after noon, the hour the Commissioners had fixed as the time limit within which the accused police captain must submit whatever statement he wished in reply to charges made against him by Mrs. Blalock, Maj. Hesse, accompanied by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride and Assistant Corporation Counsel Ringgold Hart, entered the office of Commissioner Dougherty, where the Commissioners were holding a board meeting, and sought to deliver Burlingame's reply.

Reply Refuses Explanation.

Burlingame made the reply it had been forecast he would make, declaring that "I am called upon at this time neither to express nor 'wish to make' any statement whatsoever" in connection with the Blalock charges, and "do not consider I should be called upon so to do unless and until some appropriate occasion or proper reason

VIRGINIANS DISCUSS THIRD PARTY PLANS

Democrats Against Smith in an All-Day Session Call State Convention.

MAY NOMINATE TICKET

Lynchburg, Va., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The conference of anti-Smith Democratic leaders today issue a call for an anti-Smith convention to nominate, if deemed proper, a State ticket for the election in November. A committee of ten delegates, one from each congressional district, was named to have charge of calling the convention, the place and time and the basis of representation.

Frank Lyon, of McLean, Va., anti-Smith leader of the Eighth Virginia District, and one of the leaders issuing the call for today's conference, was named chairman of the convention committee. J. Calvin Moss, of Lynchburg, was named vice chairman and L. F. Powell, of Richmond, secretary-treasurer.

The action came after an all-day session behind closed doors and was in the form of a resolution unanimously adopted by the hundred or more anti-Smith district, county and city chair-

CHEST PASSES MILLION MARK IN FINAL DRIVE

Day's Subscriptions Total $110,664.93, With Budget at $1,080,183.70.

NATION'S EMPLOYES ARE GENEROUS GIVERS

Team Workers Are Driven to "Chestometer" in Real Hay Wagon.

Workers in the Community Chest campaign for $1,343,348.93 must raise $263,165.23 by the time of the final report, or "victory," dinner at the Mayflower Hotel at 7 o'clock tonight if they are to arrive at their goal within the time fixed.

With only the metropolitan group solicitation and Government units reporting yesterday, a total of $110,664.93 was announced, which, added to the audited figures of $969,518.77 previously reported, brought the grand total up to $1,080,183.70. This included $14,020 from the group solicitation unit and $1,400 from the governmental unit.

Gifts from the Government workers continue to arrive in large numbers, but there are so many of them, it is stated, that it is difficult to get the totals listed and audited in time for the daily reports. Frank R. Jelleff, chairman of the group solicitation unit, promises a surprise for tonight's meeting. Charles J. Bell, chairman of the budget committee and an active worker on the special gifts committee, declared yesterday that he would guarantee the special gifts committee reaching its quota, which has been unofficially set at $725,000. This means that this committee must report approximately $60,000 in gifts tonight.

All Must Work, Says Delano.

"Attainment of our goal by tomorrow night means that every worker must labor constantly between now and that time," Frederic A. Delano, president of the Community Chest, said yesterday. "Workers must go back and see people they have missed, and must manage, by some means, to see every prospect on their lists, in order that an adequate report may be given.

"I do not think that Washingtonians have yet realized just what the chest means. Certainly if they stopped to think that they are giving, not to one, but to 57 organizations, they would be more liberal, especially as the chest relieves them of the worry of 56 of the 57 appeals they would otherwise answer were the chest not in operation."

The Rev. Dr. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of First Congregational Church, principal speaker at yesterday's meeting, likened the efforts of the workers for the last day to the story of Ruth, the gleaner, in the Bible. He declared that they would have to glean for the remainder of the fund, but expressed the belief that they would be successful.

Dr. Pierce Makes Final Appeal.

"If the Chest has done nothing else for Washington, it has started a lot of conversation in the right direction," Dr. Pierce said. "It has also given a lot of people a chance to exhaust their usual line of excuses as to why they should not give and has led to a larger appreciation of organizations, each by the other. The Chest is also demonstrating that it is possible to do the impossible for, when such a plan was mentioned in the past, there always were those who declared it could not be put through."

Dr. Pierce closed by urging every worker to help make the final day the biggest of the campaign.

The team captained by J. H. Gaszner, with $4,046, was high yesterday and rode to the "Chestometer" in a real hay wagon, where the "mercury" was painted to the new height. The team was supplied from the prize-winning horses owned by Chestnut Farms Dairy and, being city broke, did not run away, as did a pair on the previous day.

Another $200 was added to Chest funds yesterday when W. W. Spaid purchased the oil painting, a copy of a "Bierstadt," painted and contributed by Mrs. M. H. L. Silmarth, 80 years old, and still painting, for the Chest fund. M. O. Chance was the auctioneer.

Many in 100 Per Cent Class.

Firms are coming into the 100 per cent class in a rapid flood, and the demand for the 100 per cent posters has the delivery department busy.

John Poole, campaign chairman, stressed the need of thorough coverage of prospect lists by workers.

"With only about 27,000 prospects seen in Washington to date, or at least only that number of pledges received, it means there are at least that many more who can give," Mr. Poole said. "It is our part of the campaign to see that every one of them has an opportunity to do his or her share for the chest."

Mr. Poole will preside at tonight's victory dinner at the Mayflower and the talks will be made by the reporting chairmen. The dinner will be informal.

Annapolis May Do Likewise.

Success attained by the Community Chest of Washington to date has inspired Annapolis with a desire to raise funds in a similar manner, according to a letter received from Simon S. Martin, secretary of the Annapolis Cham-

COL. LINDBERGH TIES 2 NATIONS IN AIR LINE LIST

Blazes Mail Trail Into Managua, Nicaragua, From Honduras.

CRISTOBAL, CANAL ZONE TO BE TODAY'S GOAL

Circles Marine Corps Field; Greeted by U. S. Minister; Avoids Receptions.

Managua, Nicaragua, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today tied two more Central American countries into the rapidly extending air mail service. He landed his amphibian plane here at 3:45 p. m., Eastern standard time, after a flight which began at Belize, British Honduras, at 9:10 a. m. The first 125 miles to Tela, Honduras, were flown in one hour and a half and after refueling he covered nearly 500 more miles.

In two days the aviator who first demonstrated the time saving of air travel in countries adjacent to the Caribbean has put in operation two-thirds of the new route from Miami to Panama which hereafter is to have fortnightly service. Yesterday he visited Cuba before settling down for the night at Belize.

Neither mountains nor rebels presented difficulties to Lindbergh during the overland portion of his flight today. Last year some apprehension was felt when he flew across northern Nicaragua, but that section now is quiet. Despite the colonel's efforts to make the present journey a purely business affair he was greeted by crowds here fully as enthusiastic as those which feted him last night in Belize.

Flies 800 Miles Today.

Tomorrow he faces an 800-mile flight to Cristobal, Canal Zone, by way of Costa Rica.

Lindbergh had flown over Tegucigalpa and San Lorenzo, Honduras, and Corinto, Nicaragua, during his four-hour flight from Tela. By this circuitous route which he took for the purpose of looking over the terrain he required an hour and a half more than had been expected.

He circled the Marine Corps landing field once and then brought the big airplane down to a perfect landing. The crowd on Archibald Field did not equal that of a year ago when more than half the city turned out to see him.

Greeted by U. S. Minister.

American Minister Charles C. Eberhardt was the first to greet the aviator as he stepped from the cockpit. Brig. Gen. Logan Feland and many other marine officers and Rear Admiral David F. Sellers, together with most of the civilians of the American colony, were present. After congratulations had been briefly given, Col. Lindbergh entered an automobile with the ambassador and drove to the American Legation, where he will spend the night.

The colonel made a special point of his request that no receptions, entertainments or other functions be prepared in his honor. He plans to hop off for the Canal Zone early tomorrow morning.

Takes an Hour's Nap.

Col. Lindbergh went to his room for an hour of sleep as soon as he reached the legation. He was very tired after his seven-hour flight which was broken only by a brief stop at Tela.

Later he visited the aviation field and looked over his plane before returning to the legation for dinner with the ambassador and half a dozen friends. He retired early with the hope of getting a good night's sleep before continuing his flight at daybreak. He plans to make a brief stop at Puntarenas, Costa Rica, and another at David, Panama, and probably will arrive at France Field, in the Canal Zone, early tomorrow afternoon.

His plane today brought no mail for Managua nor will it tak any away tomorrow. A bill has been introduced in Congress to permit the Pan-American Airways to carry Nicaraguan mails but it has not yet passed either house.

Col. Lindbergh said flying conditions throughout the entire distance were splendid. He believes the route taken through Honduras, Nicaragua and Costa Rica is the most feasible at present between the United States and Panama, although a direct flight from Havana to Panama is shorter, there is the hazard of the long ocean flight and, moreover, no business can be picked up en route.

Faint S O S Heard; Ship Believed Lost

Steamer Manchester Hits Unidentified Craft Off Eddystone Light.

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—A faint S O S crackled across the air at 3:37 o'clock this afternoon and broadcasting was suspended for half an hour while a vain effort was made to determine the identity of the vessel in distress. When no further communication was received service was resumed, all stations being cautioned to keep on the alert for a possible repetition of the distress call.

Plymouth, England, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The steamer Manchester Commerce, which sailed from Houston, Tex., on January 18 for Bremen and Hamburg, collided today with an unidentified vessel off Eddystone Light in a dense fog. The Manchester Commerce reported that she searched the vicinity but found no trace of the other boat and it was feared that it had foundered with all hands. The Manchester Commerce was not damaged seriously and she proceeded on her voyage.

CRUISER BILL PASSED, PLANE CARRIER ADDED, IN SENATE, BY 68 TO 12

Final Attempt at Delay Is Crushed; Only Borah Amendment Seen.

VOTE COMES AFTER HECTIC FLOOR ROW

SCORES OF PROPOSED CHANGES VOTED DOWN

Congress Leaders Expect Ease in Obtaining $13,000,000 to Start Building.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

By the overwhelming vote of 68 to 12 the Senate yesterday passed the bill for 15 steel cruisers and 1 airplane carrier to be laid down in three years at a cost of $274,000,000.

All attempts to amend or weaken or postpone the building program were smothered by adverse votes. The Borah amendment, as modified by Senator Reed, of Missouri, calls for a codification of sea rules in warfare by treaties with foreign powers, if such parts can be negotiated, and this was accepted and adopted by a vote of 81 to 1. It does not affect the cruiser bill.

The final vote was taken after intimations from White House circles that President Coolidge did not approve of the bill, and that the question of a possible veto could not yet be answered. But in view of the circumstances, the expressed desire of the President to see cruiser building begun and the overwhelming majorities for the bill in both houses it is not believed that a veto will be considered.

Final decision in the cruiser fight came after a hectic day in the Senate enlivened by injection of the anti-Catholic issue into the proceedings by Senator Heflin, who defied his colleagues to vote on his amendment relative to "the Roman flag," as he called it.

Heflin's amendment would have provided that no flag shall fly above the Stars and Stripes on any occasion. Senators Hale and Swanson had accepted the amendment to facilitate passage of the bill, but after Heflin had injected the religious issue into the debate the opponents of bigotry smothered the amendment 68 to 10.

Vote Repudiates Heflin.

It was the first formal record vote repudiating Senator Heflin and his religious campaign which he has been waging for many months.

The final vote on the cruiser bill came at 5 o'clock.

The roll call on the bill was as follows:

Republicans—Capper, Cousens, Curtis, Dale, Deneen, Edge, Fess, Gillett, Glenn, Goff, Gould, Greene, Hale, Hastings, Johnson, Jones, Keyes, McNary, Moses, Norbeck, Oddie, Phipps, Pine, Reed, of Pennsylvania; Robinson, of Indiana; Sackett, Schall, Shortridge, Stelwer, Thomas, of Idaho; Vandenberg, Warren, Waterman, Watson—34.

Democrats—Ashurst, Bayard, Blease, Bratton, Bruce, Caraway, Copeland, Edwards, George, Gerry, Harris, Hawes, Hayden, Heflin, Kendrick, McKellar, Mayfield, Neely, Overman, Pittman, Ransdell, Reed, of Missouri; Robinson, of Arkansas; Sheppard, Simmons, Smith, Steck, Stephens, Swanson, Trammell, Tydings, Tyson, Wagner, Walsh, of Massachusetts—34.

Total—68.

Republicans—Borah, Brookhart, Burton, Frazier, McMaster, Norris, Nye—7.

Democrats—Black, Dill, Thomas, of Oklahoma; Walsh, of Montana—4.

Total—12.

The first test of the day came on an amendment by Senator Norris to cut the number of cruisers down to nine, by providing for three instead of five

2 Navy Men Escape Submarine Under Sea

Dread Menace Is Held Overcome by Using Safety Masks.

Aboard U. S. Mallard, off Key West, Fla., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—For what is believed by naval experts to be the first time in the history of the sea, man today escaped from a sunken submarine without outside aid, by use of a safety device.

In a series of tests being conducted near Smith Shoals, 11 miles off Key West, two men attached to the tender Mallard twice made their way safely from the sunken submarine S-4, lying in 40 feet of water, to the surface of the sea.

Using oxygen-inflated masks, which covered their heads, the men first made their way to the surface from the escape hatch, and a few moments later descended into the submarine again and succeeded in escaping from the motor room. In further tests they hope to make their way to safety from the torpedo room and other compartments of the undersea craft, in the hope of proving that danger to lives of officers and sailors attached to the submarine branch of the Navy may be overcome in case of accident.

The S-4 is the same craft that was rammed and sunk by a Coast Guard boat off the New England coast some time ago with the loss of a number of

NEW CROSS-COUNTRY MARK SET BY FLIERS

Hawks Is at New York 18 Hours 21 Minutes 59 Seconds From Los Angeles.

IS DELAYED BY WEATHER

New York, Feb. 5 (United Press).—Capt. Frank Hawks and Oscar E. Grubb, his mechanic, who left Los Angeles, Calif., just before dinner time last night, were in New York today in plenty of time to change their clothes, dine and go to a theater.

They had crossed the continent in their Lockheed airplane faster than any other man before them had made the coast to coast journey and are the third pair of fliers to make the trip without stop.

Hawks and Grubb took off from the Metropolitan Airport at Los Angeles at 5:37:30 p. m. yesterday and it was just 31 seconds before 3 p. m. today when they brought their red and silver Air Express to the earth at Roosevelt Field, Long Island. Their elapsed time was 18 hours 21 minutes 59 seconds, or 36 minutes and 1 second better than the previous record of 18 hours 58 minutes held by Art Goebel.

Lieuts. Oakley Kelly and John Macready, Army fliers, were the first to fly without stop across the continent. Their time from New York to San Diego, Calif., was 26 hours 50 minutes 38 seconds in a flight made May 2 and 3, 1923. Kelly and Macready flew from East to West. The other two flights were from West to East.

Mrs. Edith Bowie Hawks ran out to greet her husband, embracing him as he stepped from the plane. Hawks ar-

MACHINE GUN BOAT TO GUARD OYSTERS

62 TONGERS ARRESTED

Newport News, Va., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Harry R. Houston, Virginia Commissioner of Fisheries, tonight said that he hired a special boat and would place 25 men and several machine guns aboard it and send it into the York River early tomorrow to preserve order there.

His action, he said, was because of efforts of York River tongers to defy the recent ruling of the Virginia Fish Commission to allow oyster planters two years in which to remove plantings from grounds which a recent survey revealed to be public.

Gloucester Point, Va., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Sixty-two Gloucester oyster tongers were arrested today on charges of unlawful tonging and on their appearance before a magistrate here tonight their hearing was postponed until Friday morning in order to allow their counsel, C. S. Smith, jr., to be present to represent them.

In addition to the 62 tongers arrested, it was learned tonight, three captains of buying boats were served with warrants charging them with purchasing stolen oysters.

The 62 tongers, who were arrested were released under $50 bond each for their appearance at the hearing Friday.

The arrests followed the tongers' fulfillment of a promise to ignore a recent decision of the Virginia Fish Commission which allowed private planters

Baron Von Huenefeld Dead; Flew Atlantic in Bremen

German Was One of Trio Who Made First East-to-West Flight Over Sea.

Berlin, Feb. 5 (U.P.).—Baron Gunther Von Huenefeld, who rode in a tiny space between the huge gasoline tanks of the airplane Bremen on the first westward flight across the Atlantic Ocean, died at 10 p. m. here tonight.

Death came in a prosaic manner to the cold-eyed man who became "the desperado of the air" when he started a flight which had cost the lives of many brave men with a revolver as his only "life saver."

Von Huenefeld died after an operation which had been performed in an effort to relieve an old stomach ailment. He previously had undergone two such operations, which failed to cure the trouble. The end came in the West Sanitarium, where President Ebert and Hugo Stinnes had died. Physicians announced that the operation was successful, but the man who dared the Atlantic storms "died of shock."

The many who have died on the westward path over the Atlantic seemed only to increase the contempt of this slim-faced, monocled baron for the dangers which lay ahead of him and his copilots, Capt. Hermann Koehl and Commandant James Fitzmaurice. Von

BARON GUNTHER VON HUENEFELD.

Huenefeld was a strange, even fantastic figure among those who had dared to put out into the heavens toward America.

There was none of the brawn or bold-

Mrs. Moses Chosen to Lead Senate Ladies Lunch Club

Mrs. Edward E. Gann Made Honorary Member, Settling Question.

In what was said to be an exciting executive session, Mrs. George H. Moses, wife of the scrappy senator from New Hampshire, was elected president of the Senate Ladies Luncheon Club yesterday morning.

Her election ended a controversy that has had Washington social circles agog for the last two weeks. Ordinarily there is no question as to who shall head the club—the wife of the Vice President assumes the office automatically.

But this time it was different, because Vice President-elect Charles Curtis is a widower. One faction in the club wanted to see Curtis' sister and official hostess, Mrs. Edward E. Gann, elected president of the club. Another faction opposed this proposal on the ground that the office should go only to wives of Vice Presidents or senators.

In the meeting behind closed doors yesterday, the latter faction triumphed by electing Mrs. Moses. At the same time the ladies of this faction agreed to a resolution permitting the lady whom the Vice President recognizes as his hostess to become an honorary member of the club, but without the right to vote.

Emerging from the meeting, the wives of the senators told reporters that the election had been postponed for a year. Two hours later there was a "leak" and the result of the meeting became known.

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge attended the meeting and remained for the luncheon that followed in the Senate Office Building. Mrs. Frederic N. Sackett, wife of the senator from Kentucky, was reelected secretary.

...h year. This was decisively beaten, ... to 12.

After the record vote on the Norris ...endment, Senator Schall, blind senator from Minnesota, made a stirring appeal for adequate defense.

"I want to go on record for an honest ... God Navy and not a Navy of paper," he said. Referring to the World War, the senator said: "Great Britain got a third of the earth, France filled her ..., Italy filled her pocketbook and we got prohibition."

An amendment by Senator Norris, ...posing a naval limitation conference ...ween the United States and Great Britain and authorizing the President to suspend construction of cruisers during such negotiations was decisively beaten 70-9.

An amendment by Senator McMasters to draft wealth and Members of Congress for active service in the next war was shouted down without a roll call.

Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, sought to obtain unanimous consent for a change of phraseology in the bill, but was met with an objection from Senator Walsh, of Montana.

The bill provides that the President may suspend construction of warships after an agreement to limit armaments has been reached with foreign powers in case such course is later desired.

Mr. Reed wanted to substitute the word treaty for agreement on the principle that no agreement could be binding until the Senate ratified it. But Mr. Walsh said he wanted the President to have the power to suspend naval building after such agreement had been reached and before ratification.

Treaty to be Substituted Later.

Substitution of the word treaty will be made when the Senate and House conferees polish details of the bill, it was later indicated, although senators do not regard the change imperative.

The Borah amendment as modified by Senator Reed, of Missouri, provides that the Congress favors a treaty or treaties with all the principal maritime nations regulating the conduct of belligerents and neutrals in war at sea, including the inviolability of private property thereon. It is also provided that such treaties be negotiated, if practicably possible, prior to the meeting of the conference on limitations of armaments in 1931.

Senator Bingham's amendment for three airplane carriers instead of one was defeated viva voce. Other amendments were in many cases not pressed to a vote.

Galleries were packed to overflowing while the afternoon debate proceeded. Vincent Massey, the Canadian Minister, was an interested spectator in the diplomatic gallery.

Fireworks by Heflin.

Senator Heflin's amendments provided unexpected oratorical fireworks and at one point it appeared as if the rules against unparliamentary language might have to be invoked.

The amendment itself was seemingly harmless, as it dealt simply with a Navy regulation providing for the hoisting of the flag with the cross at times of religious service aboard ship.

But Heflin made a speech about it, reviving his anti-Catholic campaign, and other senators, including Bruce, Walsh, of Massachusetts; Caraway, Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Tydings were drawn into the debate.

Senator Borah said the amendment was harmless, but the discussion of it had rendered it most objectionable to him and to the people of the country, in his opinion. Senator Blaine wanted to snuff out the debate by moving to table the amendment, but Mr. Borah and others asked to be allowed to go on record in a straight vote on the motion raised by Mr. Heflin.

"The Pope's cross is on the flag," Heflin shouted, in defying his colleague to go on record in what he termed "a new test of red-blooded Americanism."

Bruce charged that the "true moral character" of Heflin was coming out, and this brought sharp caution from Senator Moses, in the chair.

"A man has the constitutional right to make a damn fool of himself," Tydings said in paying his respects to Heflin, "but when men in nightgowns ever dictate to me how I shall vote I know they drag me out of the Senate." Other references to "the work of an ignorant brain," which Tydings used in his defense of religious tolerance, preceded the test vote on the so-called anti-Catholic amendment.

Senator Hale Explains.

After the vote Senator Hale explained that he had accepted the amendment before it assumed the form of a religious issue and was therefore compelled to vote for it.

Supporters of the bill gained further strength during the day despite reports from the White House that President Coolidge was displeased with the Senate's action in maintaining the time clause.

It was made clear that Mr. Coolidge is not in favor of the bill in its present form. But it was added at the White House that the President signs many bills not altogether to his liking and that the President's displeasure should not be understood to mean positively that he will veto the cruiser bill.

However, the President is understood to feel that the Senate has misunderstood his position all along and has unnecessarily taken a position in opposition to his wishes.

The President's desire to strike out the time clause, it was explained, did not mean that he wished to delay cruiser construction. He was ready to recommend appropriations for beginning work on a substantial number of ships at once, it was added. Furthermore, the President is understood to believe that the Senate could have passed the cruiser bill long ago if that body had acceded to his wishes.

Appropriation for beginning work on the ships would in that event have been already available, it was explained, whereas now the matter of appropriation, as well as the fate of the bill is uncertain, according to Mr. Coolidge's view as explained yesterday.

Senate and House leaders anticipate no complications in getting the appropriations to begin work on the ships. An initial appropriation of $13,000,000 would not seriously affect the budget, according to Treasury Department officials.

Morgan, Gives Hospital 2 Downtown Buildings

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—J. P. Morgan has given the New York Hospital two downtown office buildings on Maiden lane and John street, valued at approximately $2,000,000.

A deed filed in the register's office today showed that the fifteen-story Jewelers Building and the twelve-story Anderson Building had been conveyed to the hospital entirely free of encumberances. The Morgan interests acquired the Jewelers Building in 1912 and purchased the Anderson Building two years ago. They are in the center of the financial district.

New York Hospital and Cornell Medical College are creating a new medical center along the East River between Sixty-seventh and Seventieth streets.

NEW BRITISH SHIPS TO WAIT, IS REPORT

EFFECT HELD IN DOUBT

London, Jan. 5 (A.P.).—Reports that Great Britain was about to postpone construction of two cruisers this year as a gesture of disarmament in answer to the United States naval program, were published here today. No confirmation was obtainable from any official source, and one report that the postponement decision was arrived at yesterday at a cabinet council, met a semidenial.

It was understood, however, that the official attitude was that Great Britain should refrain from rocking the naval disarmament boat, especially while the American cruiser bill was before the Senate in Washington. The parliamentary corresponent of the Evening Standard, however, stated that the admiralty and the treasury department were not "seeing eye to eye" on the subject, and that other cabinet ministries might have to umpire the divergent views of the two departments. It was understood that the treasury favored postponement of the 1928 construction program.

It was pointed out that Sir Austen Chamberlain, the foreign secretary, in replying to recent questions in the House of Commons respecting the progress of the limitation of armaments, has adhered rigidly to the answer that the problem was receiving close consideration. He has added that the government was studying the question in all its aspects, but that it was not ready to make any fresh proposals to the United States.

Japan's Plans Unaffected.

Tokyo, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Tentative approval by the United States Senate of the three-year time clause in the pending cruiser bill aroused some comment in Japanese naval circles today.

A spokesman for the naval ministry expressed the opinion that the Senate's approval of the cruiser bill, with the time clause, would not affect Japan's present naval program although it might affect building plans after 1931.

He said much would depend upon the outcome of the conference on naval limitation which is due to convene that year to revise the Washington conference agreement.

He was asked if he thought the Senate action might accelerate the date of convening of the new conference. He answered it was impossible to tell; that it was probable Great Britain and Japan would welcome an earlier date to facilitate their making plans for the future.

Urged by Illinois House.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The Illinois House of Representatives, by a unanimous vote, today passed a resolution introduced by Representative Bederman, of Chicago, memorializing the United States Senate to pass the naval cruisers bill.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Feb. 5.—The Danville Ministerial Association, acting on a suggestion contained in a letter from the Federal Council of Churches, has voted against passage of the cruiser bill with the time limit clause. The resolution expresses the hope that the building of the cruisers need not be undertaken at all. Similar bodies all over the country are being asked to take such action, it is understood.

Republican Wins Election to House

Special Vote in Missouri Shows David Hopkins Victor by 2,760.

St. Joseph, Mo., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—David W. Hopkins (Republican), St. Joseph, tonight was elected representative in Congress from the Fourth Missouri District by a majority of about 2,760 votes over his Democratic opponent, Mayor Louis V. Stigall, of this city.

Mayor Stigall conceded the election of Hopkins when complete unofficial returns were reported from 198 of the 200 precincts of the congressional district. The Republican candidate carried four of the six counties in the district in the special election.

Hopkins, who is now superintendent of schools here, will take the seat in the Seventieth Congress made vacant by the death of Representative Charles L. Faust, Republican, who was re-elected in the general election last November. Election is for the unexpired term and the new term beginning March 4.

OHIO'S CONVICTED TREASURER QUITS

Governor Forces Buckley's Resignation, Threatening Impeachment.

HAD REMAINED ADAMANT

Columbus, Ohio, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Impeachment proceedings against State Treasurer Bert B. Buckley, under conviction in Federal Court for attempted bribery and conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law, were halted tonight when Buckley submitted an unconditional resignation to Gov. Myers Y. Cooper.

The governor announced that he will officially accept the resignation tomorrow morning and that State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy will take charge of the treasury pending the appointment of a successor.

Meanwhile a disbarment action was ordered instituted at Cincinnati against two attorneys, John L. Schrimper and Adolph Gruber, with whom Buckley was found guilty of conspiring to arrange a system of "tipping" Cincinnati breweries when Federal raids were to be made. Schrimper, along with the brewmaster of the Jackson Brewing Co. at Cincinnati, is awaiting sentence upon a plea of guilty. Gruber was granted immunity for his testimony which aided in the indictment of the State treasurer.

Buckley's attorneys have filed a motion for a new trial, and, pending the outcome, the treasurer refused to resign when requested to do so by Gov. Cooper last night. Impeachment proceedings were immediately instituted in the house of representatives.

The house went ahead this morning with the appointment of a committee to handle the proceedings when Buckley remained adamant in his refusal to resign. Later in the day, however, he conferred with his attorneys and submitted three resignations to the governor before the latter was satisfied with his attitude. The first two resignations had conditions attached to them, one of them holding off the effective date until February 18. These Gov. Cooper refused to accept on the ground that Buckley would have to step out of office unconditionally so as not to impde the naming of a successor.

2 NAVY MEN ESCAPE SUBMARINE IN TEST

niski aboard. The Mallard stood by for an emergency.

Taking their positions in the conning tower, where an air pocket had been formed by the inrushing water, the two men donned their masks and prepared for an escape from the submarine, a feat which naval experts said never before had been accomplished without a safety device.

Opening the safety hatch, Koloniski made his way to the surface, and a moment later was followed by Lieut. Momsen. Elated over their feat, the men immediately descended into the undersea craft again, and this time succeeded in escaping from the motor room.

The men will next attempt to make their way safely from the torpedo room. Lieut. Comdr. P. H. Dunbar, in charge of the work, expressed great satisfaction over the experiments today and declared they had been a "huge success."

The tests will be continued until Friday unless it is found that they can be completed before that time. Weather conditions today were ideal.

The artificial lung used by the two men who yesterday came to the surface through the escape hatch of the submarine S-4, submerged to a depth of 40 feet, is the same device recently tested here and in lower Chesapeake Bay. In quiet water men have come up from a bell sunk to as great a depth as 155 feet.

Plans for the experiments with the S-4 in Southern waters contemplate gradually increasing the depth from which men will attempt to reach the surface. The artificial lung is a development of submarine expests of the Navy and the department has ordered a considerable number for experimental purposes. An order also has been placed for the manufacture of 700 of these devices for issue to submarine personnel. The latter will embody some minor changes in the way of improvements based on experience in their use. Other orders will be placed as necessary to equip all submarines, but these will await further reports from the special board conducting the present tests so that any additional changes required may be made.

LEADERS IN SPANISH REVOLT FACE PRISON

MANY REBELS ARRESTED

Ciudad Real, Spain, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Long prison terms but no executions are believed to await those convicted of leading the revolt of the First Artillery Regiment here last week, which ended without a shot being fired. Official investigation of the affair is said to have shown that younger elements in the artillery corps induced their chiefs to start the movement, which came to an abrupt end when it appeared that the rebellion had no followers in the rest of the country.

Advices from Valencia today said the reported revolt there was only a breach of discipline between two parties of officers over the attitude of Military Governor Castro Girona toward former Premier Sanchez Guerra. The latter now is on a warship, to which he was transferred from prison in order to keep visitors from him. Gen. San Jurgo has succeeded in establishing order in the city.

Many arrests have been made in Madrid, including Gens. Aguilera, Cuelpo, Llano and Canalejas, as well as several civilians.

Paris, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Madrid, and emanating from Fabra, the Spanish news agency, said tonight that the reports of a mutiny aboard the Spanish warship Don Jaime, were not well founded.

London, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—An Exchange Telegraph dispatch quoting a special correspondent at Hendaye, on the Franco-Spanish frontier, states that rumors were received there today that a mutiny had broken out aboard the Spanish cruiser Don Jaime. No details were available.

The Spanish Embassy last night issued the following statement:

"In accordance with the latest news received from Madrid, the Spanish Embassy is authorized to state that during the unrest in Spain of the last days, already passed, there was not a single shot fired by any one and, therefore, there was not even a single person wounded."

Boy Run Over by Auto.

Purcellville, Va., Feb. 5 (Special).—Billie Reed, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reed, of Purcellville, was struck and run over by an automobile this afternoon. The boy had alighted from a car and was crossing the street when hit. The driver of the car was Mrs. Henry Taylor, of Lincoln.

TRIBESMEN BOMBED; AMERICAN IS AVENGED

Groups Held Responsible for Death of Missionary Punished by British.

85 CAMEL RIDERS KILLED

Jerusalem, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Advices reaching here today stated that tribesmen responsible for the recent raid in Koweit territory, during which the Rev. Henry A. Bilkert, American missionary, was murdered, have been severely bombed by the British air force.

Eighty-five camel riders of the Mutair tribes were killed by bombs thrown in punishment from the planes, it having been established, it was stated, that the Mutair tribe, together with the Ateeleh and Harab tribes, were the murderers of Mr. Bilkert and the aggressors against the Irak tribesmen in the Koweit territory.

Mr. Bilkert was a native of Kalamazoo, Mich., and went to Irak four years ago. He was shot and killed by raiders while motoring in Koweit, near the Irak border. In the car with him was Charles R. Crane, former American minister to China, who escaped unscathed as a chauffeur drove off under a hail of bullets. The same raiders also attacked a party of Irak herdsmen, killing 20 of them, wounding many and then decamping with 4,000 sheep and numerous horses and cattle.

All three of the tribes were reported to have evaded the control of Ibn Saud, king of the Hedjaz.

Reports in the hands of Emir Abdullah say that the Wahabites have been gathering against Transjordania, in addition to Irak. The emir, visiting the eastern frontier, has asked the Transjordan tribesmen to move to other places because of the threatened attack.

Numerous Wahabite agents accused of buying arms have been arrested by the Aman police.

Trousseau Sum Small, Girl Ends Her Life

Richmond City, Tenn., Feb. 5 (A.P.). Lack of what she considered the proper sum to spend on her trousseau caused Miss Della Kirpatrick to kill herself at her home here, according to her father, Dr. J. A. Kirkpatrick.

Miss Kirkpatrick died last night of a self-inflicted bullet wound. Dr. Kirkpatrick said that she told him yesterday she was to marry a young man from Kansas City and asked for money for a trousseau. He gave her money, but not as much as she asked. As he left the room she shot herself, according to her father.

Progress in Telephone Service During 1928

As a public utility we have an obligation to furnish adequate, dependable and satisfactory telephone service. Our accomplishments during the year 1928 bear testimony to our efforts to carry out this policy.

Additions and replacements were made to the company's plant and equipment in the District of Columbia involving gross expenditures of more than $2,600,000; also, further substantial improvements were made in the quality of the service furnished.

The 1928 program, among other things, included:

¶A new seven-story building which will contain 68,000 square feet of floor space was started. This building will house the new dial central office equipment which will supply service to the downtown area now served by Main and Franklin.

¶16,453 miles of wire were added, making a total of 551,628 miles now in use. 42 miles of underground duct for cables were laid, making a total of 1186 miles. 99 per cent. of all telephone wires in the District of Columbia are now in cables which protect the service from interruption by storm.

¶26,951 telephones were installed, and 20,176 disconnected, making a net increase of 6775 telephones for the year. In the District of Columbia there is now one telephone to every 3.4 people.

¶Service connection charges—the charges made in connection with the installation and change in location of telephones—were substantially reduced, thus encouraging the installation of more telephones, which increases the value of the service to all subscribers.

¶The Information Service was further improved, resulting in a saving of time and in greater convenience to our subscribers.

¶The speed and accuracy of handling both local and out-of-town messages were substantially increased. On calls to many out-of-town points, one can now give the number to the operator and secure the connection without having to hang up the receiver.

¶Experienced employees of the company made a total of 3000 visits to the private branch exchanges of subscribers for the purpose of keeping their operators advised as to improved operating practices.

These were some of the things done during the year 1928. But there is no standing still in the Bell System. Better and better telephone service at the lowest cost is the goal. Improvements constantly going into effect now are but the foundation for the greater service of the future.

RUMOR PUTS STONE IN CABINET AGAIN

HOOVER RESUMES FISHING

By CARLISLE BARGERON
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 5.—With the definite information that Henry L. Stimson is to head President-elect Hoover's Cabinet as Secretary of State, the Cabinet speculators attached to his party have become frantic.

The hottest report to come out of the camp today was that Harlan F. Stone, United States Supreme Court Justice, is to return to the Attorney Generalship and give Secretary of the Navy Wilbur a chance at the Supreme Court and that subsequently upon the retirement of Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, Mr. Stone will return to that bench.

About the only tangible thing upon which to base such a rumor is that Justice Stone was down here fishing for several days with Mr. Hoover. And it so happens that they are old fishing companions.

Secretary Wilbur's tenure was made shaky by the insistent reports from California that his brother, Ray Lyman Wilbur, had obtained a two years' leave of absence from Stanford University to serve as Mr. Hoover's Secretary of Interior. Presumably Mr. Hoover would not have the two Wilbur brothers in his Cabinet, so if California reports were to be accepted as true the frantic speculators had to find a judgeship for the present Cabinet member and not knowing of any circuit or other vacancies they turned their speculative minds toward Justice Stone.

Cates May Be Slated.

That Justice Stone would willingly leave his present lifelong judgeship is unthinkable. Nevertheless, the word has come out from Mr. Hoover that some surprises are in store, so it may be that this is one.

The truth is believed to be that Ray Lyman Wilbur is not slated for the Cabinet, despite the persistent reports from California. Certainly Senator Reed Smoot, of Utah, who is now a house guest of Mr. Hoover, is working on him to put Louis S. Cates, of Utah, in as Interior Secretary. At least, in the absence of any comment from Mr. Hoover, Cates is believed to have just as good a chance as Wilbur.

So many names are bobbing up in these last days, however, that the Cabinet speculation is admittedly becoming involved. For example, if Stone is to return to the Department of Justice, then another place, the war portfolio must be given to Col. William J. Donovan, because all of the speculators seem to think that he is safe.

The belief grows that there are to be hold-overs in the Hoover Cabinet other than Secretary Mellon, but whether they will be Wilbur, New and Jardine remains to be seen. The day by day tid-bits here put Jardine in one day and take him out the next.

May Show Independence.

Charles S. Barrett, retiring president of the Farmers Union, called on Mr. Hoover a few days ago to urge Jardine's retention, but afterward he appeared very much discouraged. There are indications now that Mr. Hoover may have disliked Barrett's talkative mood before he called upon him and purposely gave him no information that would encourage him.

Few Presidents-elect have taken the precautions that Mr. Hoover has to keep his appointments secret. One practical reason, of course, is that he does not like politicians running to him and arguing against men on whom he has definitely made up his mind.

But there is believed to be another and more important reason and that is that in its final make-up it is believed the Cabinet will reveal Mr. Hoover to have returned to that independent role which the Republican politicians feared in the preconvention campaign and which intrigued millions of voters in the campaign.

There is reason to believe that at least two of his appointments will typify this independent attitude. It is backed up, too, by some happenings down here which rather reveal Mr Hoover as somewhat solicitous of a certain group that, although supporting Smith in the campaign, because it had always been Democratic, was nevertheless warm toward Mr. Hoover so much so that it leaned over backward in its support of Smith to insure that Hoover got what might be called fair play.

Communications between this group and Mr. Hoover are believed to be frequent and there are indictations to believe that it knows more about what Mr .Hoover has in mind than some of the stanchest, hide-bound Republicans.

A string of visitors was crowded in to see Mr. Hoover today in the few hours that he spent in the executive offices. They were Gilchrist Stockton, of Jacksonville, a prominent Hoovercrat in the recent campaign and one who may play a part in Mr. Hoover's forthcoming administration; National Committeeman Vits, of Wisconsin; Mrs. Bertha D. Baur, national committeewoman, of Illinois, and others. In the afternoon Mr. Hoover went fishing just off Miami Beach.

INQUIRY INTO TARIFF TWO-THIRDS ENDED

WOOL LEVY TOPIC TODAY

(Associated Press.)

Two-thirds of the task of taking testimony on the advisability of readjusting tariff rates has been completed by the House ways and means committee.

By hearing more than a score of witnesses on the section of the 1922 tariff act relating to jute, hemp and flax and their products, the committee yesterday concluded consideration of the tenth of the fifteen sections comprising that law and cleared the way for opening a three-day hearing today on duties on wool and wool products.

More than 50 witnesses have asked to present their views on the wool schedule, one of the most complicated of all in the law.

Testimony yesterday dealt with a score or more of products of flax, hemp and jute and the raw materials.

A. G. Ritchie, of New York, on behalf of the National Council of Importers and Traders, sought a reduction to 25 per cent in the 35 per cent duty on unfinished linen handkerchiefs. He contended the domestic industry was in a deplorable condition, both with regard to manufacturing and marketing.

C. W. Brown, of Trenton, N. J., representing the linoleum industry, urged a duty of 40 per cent in place of 35 per cent on inlaid linoleum, to meet British lower labor costs. The industry, which employs 9,000 persons and has a pay roll of $20,000,000, he said, "is suffering from increased imports of this type of floor covering.

Agitated Supporters Accuse Soviet Chiefs of Placing Him in Danger.

STILL MAY BE IN RUSSIA

London, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—After almost a week of constantly conflicting reports, the exact whereabouts of Leon Trotzky, one-time leader of the Red army, still is a mystery.

Although reports have been received from many quarters that Trotzky was leaving Soviet Russia either for Turkey or Germany, there appeared great doubt tonight as to whether he actually has left Russian territory.

One of the most sensational of these reports, that he was being exiled from Russia, was that he was aboard the Soviet vessel Kransy Flott which was among numerous vessels forced to take refuge in the Black Sea during a terrific storm in that region.

Berlin, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Kovno, Lithuania, dispatches to the Telegraph Union today relayed a report that Leon Trotzky, former commander of the Red army, who has been banished, arrived in Moscow today.

The former war commissar was said to have arrived in a saloon car under strong escort and to be held in a suburb of Moscow until arrangements are completed for his leaving Russia.

The Moken Zeitung reiterated today its statement that the Soviet government had asked German authorities for permission for Trotzky to enter Germany.

Moscow, Feb. 5 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency learns from highly reliable sources here that Leon Trotzky, the former leader of the red army, arrived at Constantinople on January 26. His departure from Russia, which took place before the date officially announced, was started in secrecy to prevent demonstrations.

The followers of Trotzky, in the absence of any information concerning him, are greatly agitated. In a secret circular which they issued he was proclaimed as the greatest proletarian revolutionary leader, and the Politbureau, the body responsible for the decision to exile Trotzky to Constantinople, was charged with "handing his life over to the first white guard assassin, who is perhaps already engaged in hunting him in the wild mountains on the Turkish border."

A dispatch to the Associated Press from its correspondent in Constantinople, dated February 5, stated that no trace of Trotzky could be found in Constantinople, and the belief there was that he was still in Russia.

VON HUENEFELD DIES; CROSSED ON BREMEN

ness in his slender body which usually is associated with men who battle the fury of storms. There was little of the daring of a Nungesser or a Coli written in his face, and only on a foggy night at Baldonnel Airdrome, Dublin, when his final decision to start for America was made, did Von Huenefeld's full spirit of determination reveal itself.

He did not even know how to pilot the heavy Junkers monoplane if his services should become necessary in an emergency. He was merely extra weight on a most hazardous flight where every ounce counted, yet it was the spirit of Von Huenefeld, who had cast his life and fortune into a desperate gamble, that urged the sturdy Koehl and the reckless Fitzmaurice to the supreme test of men and machine.

Von Huenefeld had gambled as carefully as possible, however, and he had one of Germany's greatest pilots and one of Ireland's outstanding aviators in the best machine Germany could produce. The flight to Greenley Island, in the Straits of Belle Isle, Labrador, is written in aviation history close to the records of Lindbergh.

It was such a gambler who died in Berlin tonight, less than a year after the Bremen landed, April 13, 1928. The revolver Von Huenefeld carried in the Bremen in case his flight should fail was characteristic of his short career in the aviation field. It was the spirit of win all or lose all.

Von Huenefeld first came into world prominence as backer of the Bremen flight, but it had been freely predicted within the last year that he would be one of the outstanding figures of Germany's economic aviation endeavors.

He was a stanch monarchist, apparently embittered by the turn of the wheel in German politics. He was a close friend of the former Crown Prince of Germany, and shortly after the war accompanied the prince into exile. He was an amateur painter, but seemed to take more interest in aviation than he had shown in any project after the war.

When the Bremen left Berlin on the morning of March 26, 1928, the flying nobleman announced that he would circle over the former kaiser's residence a Doorn, Holland, and drop a message.

After his return from America, where the Bremen crew was given a great reception, Von Huenefeld started on extensive aviation projects. He learned to fly his own plane and last fall made a long tour from Germany to the Far East, India China and Japan. At Tokyo his plane was slightly damaged and he left it there, returning to Germany by train.

Von Huenefeld was born in Koenigsberg, May 1, 1892.

ABSCONDING BAPTIST LEADER GETS 5 YEARS

Only 1 of 20 Indictments Is Used in Sentencing Clinton S. Carnes.

ROSE FROM EX-CONVICT

Atlanta, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Clinton S. Carnes, who rose from former convict to a position of prominence as treasurer of the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board and decamped after nine years leaving a shortage estimated at nearly a million dollars, pleaded guilty to embezzlement here today and was sentenced to from five to seven years imprisonment.

His plea was accepted on recommendation of board officials who said Carnes had turned over all his resources for restitution; that it would save the State a long, expensive trial and that justice would be served by the sentence because of his age. It was added that Carnes had agreed to aid in untangling the board's acounts, on which auditors have been working since he disappeared last summer.

Only One Indictment.

Only one of the 20 indictments returned against him—that charging misappropriation of $80,000—figured in the proceedings. The State announced that the others would be dismissed if the 51-year-old former layman did not seek a pardon or parole before the expiration of his minimum sentence.

Carnes, who had been confined to the county jail since his arrest last September in Winnipeg, Manitoba, appeared in court in custody of deputy sheriffs, accompanied by his attorneys and younger son, Robert. His only participation in the brief formalities was to sign the indictment.

Judge Virlyn B. Moore passed sentence with the statement that it seemed "inadequate," but that he assented to the solicitor general's recommendation in view of the circumstances and recommendations of the home mission board, "which is most directly involved financially."

It was as an obscure auditor that Carnes first became affiliated with the Home Mission Board. A year later, in 1919, his business ability won for him the post of treasurer.

Joined Baptist Church.

Then he joined the Capital Avenue Baptist Church, became chairman of the finance and buildings committee, was invited to membership in several clubs and established a home in the fashionable Druid Hills section. He became the head of several private business enterprises here.

On August 15 last he disappeared and ten days later a search was started in the belief he had met with foul play. Auditors soon were set to work on his books.

Coincident with the discovery of a shortage placed by the examiners at $953,000, it developed Carnes had served two prison sentences.

Receivers for his personal properties later reported Carnes had been the financial benefactor of two girls seeking careers in motion pictures.

W. C. Redfield Heads Bank.

$100,000 Gift for Poor, Once Spurned, Accepted

Warsaw, Feb. 5 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Deciding that a $100,000 gift in the will of an American woman for poor Jews in the city is too large a sum to be frowned upon, the city council of Bidgorc, formerly Bromberg, Province of Posen, voted today to accept the gift.

Reversing its former decision, the city council after a prolonged debate as to whether the fund left by Mrs. Leonard Cohen of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., was to be accepted, agreed with the local Jewish community that there are "poor Jews" in the city for whose benefit the American endowment fund might be employed. In previously rejecting the fund, the council said there were no poor Jews in the town. Local leaders, however, argued that there was an old folks home which needed repair and other Jewish institutions for the sick and needy requiring assistance.

DRY FUND IS PERIL TO DEFICIENCY BILL

House and Senate Conferences Refuse to Yield on $24,000,000 Item.

DEATH OF MEASURE SEEN

(Associated Press.)

Death of the deficiency appropriation bill with its controversial $24,000,000 increase in prohibition enforcement funds was regarded as a possibility last night as conferees of the Senate and House ended negotiations in a stubborn deadlock over the dry fund.

At the second conference yesterday, spokesmen of the Senate insisted again that the House vote on the $24,000,000 fund added to the bill by the Senate. House conferees reiterated that the House by a majority of 99 had refused to vote on the dry fund and had demanded a conference upon it.

Chairman Warren of the Senate appropriations committee indicated after the collapse of the conference that he would make a report on the situation to the Senate at an early date. He did not say whether he would ask reconsideration of the item.

The increase was voted to the bill by the Senate by an overwhelming majority on motion of a dry, Senator Harris (Democrat), Georgia. It was done over the protest of Secretary Mellon, who said the Government was not ready to use the money. Before the House acted, the Secretary wrote another letter declaring the Senate amendment tied the hands of the President—who was empowered to use the money—and, as worded, the funds could be allotted to only a part of the agencies charged with dry law enforcement.

Senator Harris is ready to oppose any reconsideration of the proposal by the Senate. House leaders insist they will give no ground and will not yield to the demand of Senate conferees for a separate vote on the dry increase. As a result, leaders of both the Senate and House were dubious last night over the outlook for passage of the bill at all. The measure also contains $75,000,000 for tax refunds.

SLAYER OF BRENNAN, PUGILIST, CAPTURED

Piolo, Who Fled Sing Sing During Term for Killing Fighter, Confesses.

PROSPERITY AIDS IN FALL

Elizabeth, N. J., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The slayer of Bill Brennan, heavyweight pugilist, was in jail today after being a fugitive from Sing Sing Prison for two years.

Joseph Piolo, who disappeared mysteriously from prison on the night of March 3, 1927, was arrested here last night as a suspicious character. Detectives had been watching his movements for more than a week. Their suspicions had been aroused by his apparent prosperity with no visible means of support.

When approached in a cafe he said he was James Lavelle, of Newark. Detectives said they found a pistol in his pocket. An automobile he had been driving was registered in Union County under a fictitious name. Police said his identity as the escaped convict was established through police records.

The prisoner gave a detailed account of the manner in which he escaped from Sing Sing. He said that under cover of a heavy fog he slipped out of his cell carrying his mattress. Making his way to the top of the wall, he said he held the mattress before him and leaped into the Hudson River.

Swimming a distance of about three city blocks, he said, he climbed ashore and was away before the siren on the prison sounded warning that a prisoner had escaped.

Piolo and four others were indicted for shooting Brennan in his New York cabaret in July, 1924. Piolo pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the first degree in October of the same year and was sentenced to Sing Sing for twenty years.

Bill Brennan, Chicago pugilist, who was at one time a contender for the heavyweight championship, retired from the ring in 1923 after being knocked out by Luis Firpo. Jack Dempsey knocked him out twice, once in six rounds in 1918 and in 12 rounds in 1920.

After quitting the fight game Brennan became proprietor of a cabaret known as Tia Juana. On the night of July 15, 1924, Brennan was in his establishment when five men entered and opened fire on him. As Brennan fell James Cullen, a State trooper, went to his assistance and was shot, dying later from the wound.

The killing of Brennan was believed to be the outcome of a quarrel with Piolo, who had been ejected from the cafe for using abusive language to a woman. Piolo was under indictment for the slaying of his brother, Santos, when arrested for the Brennan killing.

The plane, piloted by Frank T. Courtney, British flier, covered the short course in 41¼ seconds. It flew 12 feet above the speeding motorcycle, ridden by Joe Stern, racing driver. Stern's last mile was clocked in 19 3-5 seconds, a speed of 128 miles an hour. Courtney said his plane, with the throttle wide open, had made 135 miles an hour.

HEIGHTS OBSERVES 35TH ANNIVERSARY

Citizens Join With Federal and District Officials in Celebration.

GIBSON IS CHIEF SPEAKER

Citizens of Columbia Heights last night joined with officials of the Federal and District Governments in celebrating the thirty-fifth anniversary of the Columbia Heights Citizens Association. The celebration, which included numerous speeches, an elaborate entertainment program and community dancing, was held in the ballroom at the Arcadia.

The principal addresses were made by Representative Ernest W. Gibson, of Vermont, member of the House District committee, District Commissioners Proctor L. Dougherty and Sidney Taliaferro and J. Clinton Hiatt, president of the Columbia Heights Citizens Association, all of whom lauded the high ideals and civic spirit of those who aided in the development of a semi-barren waste land of twoscore years ago into one of Washington's most thriving and prosperous communities.

Frederick J. Rice, chairman of the anniversary committee and one of the sponsors for the celebration, acted as master of ceremonies. The Rev. George F. Dudley, of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, read a paper on the "Early Days of Church in Columbia Heights," and W. B. Todd, a former president of the association, spoke on "The History of Columbia Heights."

Musical selections were given by the Washingtonians, a quartet composed of Mrs. Frederick J. Rice, Miss Edna Jones, Dr. F. Christie and Roland Comley, accompanied by Miss Grace Shannon; the Novelettes, a girls' jazz orchestra, and William T. Pierson, composer.

The following served as a reception committee: Miss Elizabeth A Hayden, chairman; J. Clinton Hiatt, Dr. and Mrs. Seneca B. Bain, William C. Strauss, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Todd, Mr. H. V Speelman, Mr. Frank M. Barnes Mr. W. W. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Swanton, Mr. Ernest L. Chaney, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Clayton, Mrs. Margaret Hopkins Worrell, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Carty Mr. and Mrs. W. BURLINGAME CASE IS GIVEN TO SUPERINTENDENT OF POLICE shall have occurred to warrant the expression upon my part."

But the Commissioners would have none of it. They would not even receive it from Maj. Hesse, because, they said, it was not accompanied by a report or any recommendation by the police chief. They suggested that Hesse hold the Burlingame letter for whatever "reasonable" time he might require to formulate a report or recommendation.

Report Expected Today.

Hesse intends to resubmit the Burlingame reply to the Commissioners today, but just what he will recommend he insisted late yesterday he had not determined, although he conferred with Bride for an hour late in the day. Hesse said he would work out his report at his home last night.

Burlingame will not be suspended from duty on recommendation of Maj. Hesse. He will not be cited before the trial board on recommendation of the police chief. These two important decisions have been decided on by the police chief, it was said authoritatively.

While these things were developing in the District Building, the mystery which has surrounded the whereabouts of Mrs Blalock promised, for a few moments at least, to lift, and put a new complexion on the case.

Asks for "Square Deal."

Representative Blanton, of Texas, told reporters that he would tell the district attorney where Mrs. Blalock could be found if he was given assurances that the palmist would be given a square deal.

But, he declared, he would not give the district attorney, or the United States marshal, who is armed with a United States subpena calling for Mrs. Blalock's appearance, any information about where the woman could be found if "she is going to be made a goat in this case."

Informed of Blanton's statement Assistant District Attorney William I. Collins, assigned to the Blalock-Burlingame case by District Attorney Leo A. Rover, immediately sought to communicate with Blanton by telephone, but the representative's office did not answer.

Later Collins' assurances that Mrs. Blalock would receive every consideration to which she was entitled and would not be made a "goat" was transmitted to Blanton by his secretary, but Blanton failed to make good his promise and disclose the hiding place of Mrs. Blalock.

Would Change Entire Case.

Should Representative Blanton produce Mrs. Blalock the present complexion of the case would be materially changed. The Commissioners and Maj Hesse then would be in a position to cite Capt. Burlingame before the police trial board, inasmuch as he would be able to face his accuser. Assistant District Attorney Collins, too, would be able to proceed with the matter, which, it is said, will be presented to the grand jury immediately adequate evidence can be developed through the personal testimony of Mrs. Blalock.

Burlingame, of course, has a strong defense against trial board action, and would be well within his legal rights to refuse to appear before the board so long as there was pending any move to involve him in criminal action.

Some of the friends of the accused captain profess to believe that it is Blanton's purpose to force the police captain before the trial board, where he could appear as Mrs. Blalock's counsel. It was recalled that Blanton acted as counsel for Policeman Staples in the sensational trial before the board last year. Blanton, however, yesterday told reporters that he did not intend to act as Mrs. Blalock's counsel before the trial board.

Just what Maj. Hesse will say in his report to the Commissioners today is not known Apparently he has been able to find a course in conformity with his desire and with propriety. He wants Mrs Blalock produced and the whole affair brought to a head as quickly as possible, believing that the whole Police Department is being injured by the publicity attendant on the Blalock charges. What he can do to bring it to a head is another matter He and other police officials insist they do not know the whereabouts of the palmist although they would like very much to know.

Burlingame's letter was addressed to Maj. Hesse, and was in reply to a letter sent him by the police chief at the direction of the Commissioners last week, inviting him to make answer to the charges contained in a photostatic copy of an affidavit made by Mrs. Blalock and typewritten letters he is said to have written her. The reply of the police captain follows:

Burlingame's Reply.

"Sir: This will acknowledge the receipt of your communication of February 2, 1929, together with the enclosure therein of photostatic copy of an affidavit made by Mrs. Helen F. Blalock before Florence Clifton, notary public in and for Taylor County, Texas, on the nineteenth day of January, 1929, and copies of seven certain letters alleged, as you advise, to have been written by me and further identified by the dates and signatures thereon as in said communication indicated. I herewith return them to you in accordance with the request you have expressed. I note, however, you write: 'The Board of Commissioners direct you (meaning me) to submit to me (meaning you) such explanation or statement in writing' as I may wish to make, 'in connection with the foregoing on or before Tuesday, February 5, 1929, at noon.' With the greatest respect for that authority you represent as my superior officer as well also that of the honorable Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia, at whose direction you have written me as you state, I am convinced you will agree with me that I am called upon at this time neither to express nor 'wish to make' any statement whatsoever in connection with the matters your communication suggests, and do not consider I should be called upon so to do unless and until some appropriate occasion or proper reason shall have occurred to warrant the expression upon my part of that explanation your letter apparently invites, particularly in the present status of the inquiries now instituted, as I am informed by the public press not only upon the part of the United States attorney in and for the District of Columbia, but also of other committees, boards and investigating bodies—neither the purpose nor the result of which has been communicated to me. Upon the happening either of that appropriate occasion or proper reason, I will then take advantage most gladly not only of your kind suggestion, but that of the honorable Board of Commissioners as in your communication expressed. I am further convinced you thoroughly understand that this reply is dictated neither by any unwillingness to accede to your personal wishes with reference to any matter which may advance the best interests of the force for which we have both struggled for so many years nor refusal to cooperate with our honorable Board of Commissioners whose direction in this regard your letter indicates you have obeyed."

In discussing the case yesterday, Representative Blanton said:

"I became interested in this case as a public official, as a member of a subcommittee that is trying to clean up things here and make Washington a wholesome place to live in. Now that I have turned over to the District attorney and to the Commissioners the evidence I obtained, I am through. It is now up to them.

"As for Mrs. Blalock, I am going to turn her affairs over to a law firm here. When Congress adjourns, I am going back to Texas to practice law.

"If I should come back here two years from now, and if I have the time, I will again use my efforts to improve conditions here."

Ultimatum Issued Gen. Booth, Report

High Council Said to Insist That He Make Reply by Friday.

London, Feb 5 (A.P.).—It was stated on high Salvation Army authority late today that the high council has sent Gen. Bramwell Booth an ultimatum that Friday is the latest day on which it is prepared to wait to hear his representatives' arguments against his deposition.

During the day an intimation had been received that Gen. Booth's advocates might not be prepared to present his case as early as Friday, but in some army circles it was stated that the general was ready a month ago to submit his case and therefore it was difficult to see any reason for further delay.

Should the general plead that he was not ready, the council intends to ask the court to lift the injunction restraining it from deposing the general and electing his successor.

DE VALERA ARRESTED ON ENTERING ULSTER

WAS ON WAY TO BELFAST

Belfast, Northern Ireland, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Eamon de Valera, Irish Republican leader, today reentered the limelight, which had not played upon his activities in the Irish Free State for some time, by attempting to cross the Ulster border in contravention of an order of seven years' standing. Tonight he was lodged in Belfast Jail to answer for his attempt in court tomorrow.

Neither De Valera nor the crowd of admirers who had assembled to greet him seemed greatly surprised when the Ulster police took him from the Dublin-Belfast train at the border station of Goraghwood. He had intended to address a political meeting and to open a Gaelic college in Belfast.

The ban against De Valera entering upon Ulster territory has stood for seven years wihtout revocation. The last time that the Republican leader was arrested was prior to the general election in 1924 when he was taken into custody at Perry while trying to enter a Sinn Fein meeting. During his stormy career in Irish politics he was sentenced to be shot to death in 1917 for his part in the Easter week insurrection. The sentence was commuted to servitude for life, but he was soon after released under the general amnesty. De Valera spent the first three years of his life in New York City and had visited the United States on several occasions in later life.

De Valera traveled north in a first-class compartment with a number of friends and as soon as the train stopped at Goraghwood, two members of the Royal Ulster constabulary entered his compartment and asked him to leave the train. De Valera, seemingly unperturbed by the unexpected interruption of his journey, calmly took his hat and traveling case from the rack and stepped to the platform.

The entire party entered a small room attached to the office of the station master and during a half-hour wait for an automobile maintained a general conversation while smoking cigarettes. Then there was another long delay at police headquarters at Desbrook while instructions were obtained from Belfast. The police courteously offered tea to De Valera which he declined, although he sat by the fire chatting with them until he finally was conveyed to Belfast by motor.

Coolidge Asks Congress For More Army Money

(Associated Press.)

President Coolidge yesterday recommended to Congress that $6,560,415 be made available to cover supplemental estimates for miscellaneous items for the War Department for the past and current fiscal years.

Among the recommended appropriations were: For the payment of obligations incurred by the Army Air Corps for the purchase of new airplanes and equipment, $3,350,000; for undesignated ammunition storage facilities, $1,402,344; for armory drill pay for the National Guard and for the disposition of the remains of American soldiers buried in Russia and Alaska, and expenses incident to their removal to this country, $82,235.

Austrian Loan Funding Is Signed by Coolidge

(Associated Press.)

President Coolidge yesterday signed the Austrian debt settlement resolution providing a plan for funding of the loans extended by the United States to that nation during the reconstruction period following the World War.

The amount of the debt, $24,620,968, will be paid in 35 equal annuities beginning in 1943, or, at the option of Austria, in 40 annual payments of varying sizes beginning in 1938. The settlement terms also authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to cooperate with other creditor governments to enable Austria to float a loan of not less than 725,000,000 Austrian schillings for rehabilitation.

Federal Employes Are Victims of "Power," Green, A. F. of L. Chief Declares.

BROOKHART GIVES VIEW

Some "unseen power" seems to block action on legislation which would advance the interests of Federal employes despite the readiness of a majority of the membership of Congress to pass favorably upon it by an overwhelming vote, declared William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, at the twentieth birthday dinner, entertainment and dance of Federal Employes Union, No. 105, last night at the City Club. The organization is composed of women employes of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

In an arraignment of the failure to give Government employes what they deserved in the way of salary, retirement annuity and similar benefits, President Grene declared it was the purpose of the American Federation of Labor "to cooperate with Federal employes in obtaining what is justly theirs, and to continue our work until we make Uncle Samuel a fair and humane employer of labor.

"We will not stop until every employe of this great Government shall be paid a salary commensurate with the prestige of the American Government," said Mr. Green. "That standard has not yet been set in America." He stated further that next to a living wage, it was the purpose of the A. F. of L. to assist every man and woman working for the Government to be guaranteed an income through retirement allowance in their declining years."

Senator Smith Brookhart, of Iowa, who is sponsoring legislation for Federal workers in the upper house, gave as his explanation of the "invisible power" that financial interests make use of "special privileges," some of which, conferred by law, are utilized to divert from the workers their just compensation.

THIRD PARTY PLANS OCCUPY VIRGINIANS

men attending the conference. Announcement of the decision, the first official announcemet given the public from the session, was delivered to newspaper men in written form shortly after 6 o'clock tonight. Delegates immediately began preparations for their departure.

No comment was given to the text of the resolution calling a convention to nominate a State ticket "if deemed proper." This was regarded in some circles as a policy of watchful waiting to determine the policy of the Democratic and Republican parties in the State before a decision was made in regard to a third ticket in the State elections this year. The resolution urged those who participated in the anti-Smith movement to refrain from committing themselves by participation in any primary, mass meeting or conventions of old political parties.

Discussions Remain Secret.

Whether the conference discussed a possible coalition with the Republican party, entrance into the Democratic primary or repudiation of Democratic State and national leaders, factors indicated by anti-Smith leaders in statements during the past week, was not made known.

Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, in a letter to the conference today, said he saw three courses open to members of the organization, but that he himself held the position of an independent Democrat, openly declaring that he was not a Republican, but at the same time refusing to accept the present State or National Democratic leadership.

Expressing appreciation for the anti-Smith movement, which he aided in organizing, Bishop Cannon told the conference in his message he was speaking "only for myself as one of hundreds of thousands of anti-Smith Democrats." He gave the three courses he saw open to the group at the present time as follows:

Lists Three Courses.

1. They can absolutely sever their ties with the Democratic party and declare themselves to be members and supporters of the Republican party for the future.

2. It is proposed that, having accomplished their purpose to defeat Gov Smith, the anti-Smith Democrats should now be satisfied—should be content to follow the Democratic State party leadership as in the past, and should enter the August primary of the Democratic party without any conditions or stipulations.

3. The only other course open to anti-Smith Democrats is to remain, for the time at least, as independent Democrats, openly declaring that they are not Republicans but that they can not accept the present State or national party leadership with all that would be implied in such acceptance under present conditions.

"Again, speaking for myself," Bishop Cannon said, "this third position is the position which I hold today. I will not accept the Smith-Raskob leadership, nor will I accept any State leadership which upholds and supports that national Smith-Raskob leadership, or which denies equal party loyalty to the anti-Smith Democrats."

Bishop Cannon added that he would not put himself in a position where he would be obliged to support any one for State offices—especially governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general—whose record has not been for years personally and politically dry, or who has "denounced and reviled" anti-Smith Democrats, or who does not agree that anti-Smith Democrats did not surrender their genuine Democratic principles in their efforts to defeat Gov. Smith. He said that probably the Hoover vote in Virginia was equally divided between Republicans and anti-Smith Democrats, and that the 143,000 Smith voters probably included a clear majority of voters wet in sympathy.

Art Slander Trial Is Begun; Expert Defends His Ruling

Sir Joseph Duveen Declares Kansas City Woman's Supposed Da Vinci Would Be Worth Four or Five Millions if Real; He Is Sued for $500,000.

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Sir Joseph Duveen, art dealer who is being sued for $500,000 by Mrs. Andree Lardoux Hahn, of Kansas City and Paris, on the ground that he said a painting she owns is not an original Leonardo da Vinci, testified this afternoon that if the painting was an original it would be worth "four of five million dollars."

The painting "La Belle Ferroniere" (the blacksmith's daughter) was brought into the courtroom under armed guard today, but has not been introduced as evidence as yet. During the night it is kept in a safety deposit vault.

Mrs. Hahn, who says her family came into possession of the painting nine years ago and that at one time it was owned by one of Napoleon's aids, based her suit on a newspaper statement credited to Sir Joseph in which he said the painting was not an original and that the original was in the Louvre in Paris. His statement, she says, caused a pending sale of the painting to the Kansas City Museum of Art to be disrupted.

Sir Joseph does not even believe the Louvre picture is an original, he indicated in a letter written in 1920 in answer to a query by John T. Harding, Kansas City financier. The letter which was introduced in evidence today, said:

"I have in no way changed my opinion about the picture ascribed to Da Vinci of which you sent us a photograph (the Hahn painting). I am convinced that it is an old copy of the picture in the Louvre. I do not think it is contemporary but is a little later than the Louvre picture. As to the authorship of the picture you wrote about, I do not know who painted it, but the Louvre picture is not passed by the eminent connoisseurs as having been painted by Leonardo Da Vinci and I may say that I am entirely in accord with their opinion."

Sir Joseph said he had made mistakes as to who painted certain pictures but that he had never mistaken a copy for an original. He said he had been offered but one genuine Da Vinci. That was fifteen years ago. The offer was from a woman from Russia. He said that although he made an enormous offer for the picture, which, he indicated, was close to $1,500,000, the woman decided to sell it to the Czar of Russia, which she finally did. The czar presented it to the state. That was the last Da Vinci held by a private individual, he said. He said he had been offered fifty paintings purporting to be the original "La Belle Ferroniere."

It was brought out in the questioning of Sir Joseph that he had judged the Hahn picture from a photograph. Mrs Hahn. It was indicated, will attempt to show that finger prints on the painting she owns are those of Da Vinci.

Sir Joseph was the only witness at the opening session of the trial today.

two years in which to remove oysters from grounds they had planted. Last night at a meeting in Achilles, Va., the tongers declared their "answer to the fish commission" would "be written in the York tomorrow."

Today they invaded grounds in which planters had placed oysters and began tonging, declaring the commission's ruling to be based "neither on law nor justice." Seventeen tongers' boats entered the disputed territory shortly before noon and began taking oysters from the grounds.

Until early afternoon the tongers continued unmolested.

T. J. Blake, a planter, however, obtained warrants later charging the tongers with illegally removing oysters. Warrants were served by Sheriff H. E. Hill. There was no disorder when the arrests and hearings were at first scheduled for tonight, but were continued on plea of the tongers.

Oyster grounds in dispute were found to be public in a recent survey of the territory. Planters contended that they had obtained the grounds through assignment from the State, and were not responsible for the error, and that they had planted these grounds in good faith. Planters petitioned the commission for a two-year period in which to remove oysters that had been planted. The commission in a ruling last Saturday allowed this petition.

Tongers took the position that the grounds were public and that they should be allowed to immediately enter and begin tonging.

The action of Mr. Blake today in swearing out warrants against the tongers was announced as a distinctly private prosecution and in no wise an action of the State.

Repair of Garbage Plant Is Planned

Work, Costing $25,000, to Improve Conditions at Reduction Station.

Remodeling of the District garbage reduction plant at Cherry Hill, Va., will be begun immediately, Maj. D. A. Davison, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, announced yesterday, following an inspection of the plant by himself and Morris Hacker, superintendent of the District Refuse Department.

Approximately $25,000 will be spent on improving the plant this year, Davison said, and the first part of the work will be designed to improve the sanitary conditions and general working conditions for the employes as well as to increase the plant efficiency.

The plant last year, through the sale of grease, brought the District in $185,551. The grease obtained from the garbage brought $2.56 a ton. This year the price is higher and a larger income is expected. Revenue from the grease more than paid for the operation of the plant.

Street's Resident Bars Bright Light

Twenty-fourth Street Dweller Gets City Heads to Install Smaller Lamps.

Twenty-fourth street northwest, from Massachusetts avenue north to Kalorama circle, will not be as brightly lighted as District officials planned to have it, because it is held residents of the street do not want it too bright.

Placing of new lights along the street was begun several weeks ago by the District electrical department and the Potomac Electric Power Co.

Asa E. Phillips, a resident, noticed the type of posts being placed in position were like those used along highways carrying heavy traffic, and persuaded District officials that they ought to use a different type of light, on a post 6 inches shorter, and reduce the contemplated number from seventeen lights to thirteen. Phillips deposited a check for $200.06 with the District to defray the expense of removing the first posts and substituting the second type and the substitution was agreed to.

Veterans Demand Formal Dress Ball

Leader Induced to Change Original Plans for Annual Affair.

Attempts to overturn established conventions by banning formal dress from a ballroom floor were hastily abandoned last night by George W. Phillips, executive secretary of the District of Columbia Department, Disabled American Veterans, and chairman of the committee in charge of the department's annual ball, in the City Club, tonight.

Phillips had anounced the ball as an informal event, with evening clothes strictly prohibited. The dance was planned to be "the largest informal affair of its kind ever given by a veterans' organization."

The anouncement, however, was followed by a storm of protest. Phillips' office in the Earle Building yesterday was besieged by prospective guests demanding that his dictum be set aside. Protests poured in by telephone and mail. Phillips late yesterday hurriedly called together his executive committee and explained the situation. They voted unanimously to abolish the plan of compulsory informality and to allow the dancer to select his own attire.

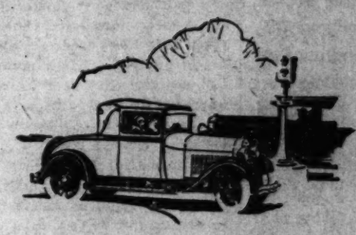
There are many reasons for the ease of steering the new Ford



THE new Ford is exceptionally easy to steer because of the well-proportioned weight of the car, the steel-spoke wheels, the coordinated design of springs and shock absorbers, the size and design of the steering wheel, and the simple mechanical construction of the steering gear.

The Ford steering gear is of the worm and sector type used on high-priced cars and is three-quarter irreversible.

In simple, non-technical language, this means that the car responds easily and quickly to the steering wheel, yet there is no danger of the wheel being jerked from the hands of the driver by ruts or bumps in the road. A light touch guides the car, yet you always have that necessary feel-of-the-road so essential to good driving.

Strength of materials and careful workmanship give unusual stability to the Ford steering gear and housing.

The steering worm, for instance, is splined to the steering worm shaft and is stronger, of course, than if a single key were used to hold the shaft and worm together. The steering worm sector is forged and machined in the same piece with its shaft.

The housing of the steering gear mechanism is made of three steel forgings, electrically welded together. This housing is then electrically welded to the steering column. Such a one-piece steel unit is naturally much sturdier than if several parts were used and bolted or riveted together.

Throughout, the steering mechanism of the new Ford is so simple in design and so carefully made that it requires practically no attention.

The only thing for you to do is to have the front steering spindles, spindle connecting rods, and drag link lubricated every 500 miles and the steering gear lubricated every 2000 miles. This is easy to do because of the high pressure grease gun lubricator fittings provided for these parts.

For this work, you will find it best to consult the Ford dealer. He has been specially trained and equipped to help you get the greatest possible use from your car over the longest period of time at the least trouble and expense.

The Film that is found by dental research to discolor teeth and foster serious tooth and gum disorders

Film on Teeth

How it acts—what it does

Film discolors teeth and then destroys them.
Dentists urge a special way to remove it.

DENTAL science in studying the commoner tooth and gum disorders finds their chief source to be a coating on teeth known as film. Film, too, is the cause of dull discolored teeth.

Thus removing film from teeth is the first step in having gloriously white and healthier teeth. Dentists urge you to employ the special dentifrice known as Pepsodent.

Film—Its Dangers

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel this film. It absorbs stains from food and smoking and turns white teeth dull. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays.

Film hardens into tartar. Germs by the millions breed in it. And germs, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Film must be removed each day. Ordinary brushing fails to do it successfully. So dentists urge the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent.

First, Pepsodent curdles film, then removes it in gentle safety to enamel. No other way will make teeth as sparkling white. Write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 1104 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, or ask your druggist for full-size tube. Find out, without delay, how white your teeth really are.

AMERICAN SAFETY AT SEA.

The passage by the Senate of the cruiser bill by a vote of 68 to 12 is sufficient indication of the determination of Congress to provide suitable national defense, whether other nations are disposed to agree to naval limitation or not.

President Coolidge has given no intimation that he would disapprove of the bill if it were presented to him with the time limitation included. The overwhelming vote in the Senate, following a similar emphatic vote by the House, makes it evident that the bill will become law, with or without Executive approval.

The Senate approved of Senator Reed's amendment stating that Congress favors the making of treaties with maritime powers regulating the conduct of belligerents and neutrals in war at sea, including recognition of the inviolability of private property. The amendment expresses the hope that these treaties may be concluded before the arms conference that is to be held in 1931.

This amendment will probably prove a dead letter, not because it is undesirable, but because of the difficulties that stand in the way of making the proposed treaties. The principal nations have snarled themselves up in the convenant of the League of Nations, and before they can make treaties with the United States defining the rights of belligerents and neutrals they must find a way out of the impracticable scheme set up by the covenant, whereby it is proposed that there shall be no neutrals in any future war.

This is only one of the many false steps taken by the Paris conference in framing the covenant of the League of Nations. Probably the covenant will hang over the nations until war comes and blasts the misbegotten scheme into shreds of paper. Nations will fight for their rights when necessity drives, and those nations which find their rights depending upon neutrality will try to be neutral, notwithstanding their pledge in the covenant to join the belligerents. Then they will become involved in war to maintain their neutrality and the covenant will disappear. Once the covenant has been wiped out, the nations can resume a sensible effort to establish the respective rights of belligerents and neutrals in war on the sea.

Negotiations to define belligerent and neutral rights would soon show that an attempt to establish the "inviolability of private property" is impracticable. These questions have been thrashed out many times by competent students of sea law. Modern shipping conditions make it impossible for a belligerent to make nice distinctions between public and private property. The belligerent has the right to visit and search a merchantman, but he can not exercise the right of search satisfactorily at sea, when a great ship with thousands of tons of cargo is held up. Private property can not be made inviolable without sacrificing the right of the belligerent to make good prize of a ship carrying goods to or from the enemy, directly or indirectly.

But this question becomes academic, along with the proposal to define the rights of belligerents and neutrals, so long as most of the nations are bound to become belligerent at the behest of the League of Nations.

The only point that concerns the average American citizen is the security of American life and commerce on the high seas. This point is disposed of by providing for modern 10,000-ton cruisers carrying 8-inch guns and flying the American flag. With those ships in commission, American life and property will be tolerably safe against aggression on the seas, no matter how ardently a belligerent might desire to capture a fine Yankee merchantman and its rich cargo.

REAPPORTIONMENT—DANGER!

Now that the cruiser bill has been disposed of, the Senate should pass the reapportionment bill. The right of the people to equal representation in the House and the right of the States to an equitable voice in the election of the President are denied by the failure of Congress to apportion the number of representatives to the population.

The recent suggestion that aliens should not be included in the census figures for the purpose of apportionment of representatives is a sample of the absurdities to which modern reformers will go in their attempt to foist their nostrums upon the people. The suggestion is said to be made in behalf of the prohibition law, as it is feared that if an honest reapportionment should be made there will be a gain of representatives from wet States. But the Constitution can not be violated in this fundamental matter of equal representation, even at the behest of the Antisaloon League. The Constitution provides that the whole number of persons shall be enumerated, excluding Indians not taxed.

The tranquillity of the United States depends upon honest adherence to the rule of equal representation in the House of Representatives and in the Electoral College. If the Hoover-Smith contest had resulted in a close verdict, with only a few electoral votes deciding the issue, the country might have been in the throes of a violent controversy over the denial of certain States of their just representation in the Electoral College. The election of a President is a matter of such supreme importance that the country can not afford to disturb the arrangement by which the States are given their just share in the election. More than one American statesman has expressed the opinion that if this republic should fall it will meet its end in consequence of a struggle over the Presidency. It ought to be evident that the denial to States of their rights in the choice of a President might be sufficient to provoke a controversy so bitter and so difficult of solution as to imperil the Government.

Faithfulness to the Constitution and the Government requires the Senate to pass the reapportionment bill.

CANADIAN DISCRIMINATION.

A well-defined difference of opinion between the Shipping Board and the Departments of State and Agriculture is expressed in a joint report submitted to the Senate Tuesday on the subject of diversion of shipping from American to Canadian ports. The Shipping Board and the two departments were joined in a study of conditions by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which functioned more or less as a neutral in furnishing statistical data, and which sides with the departments. All agree that there is diversion of shipping from American to Canadian ports, but the departments assert that its volume is not such as to warrant the Government in offending Canada by attempting retaliatory measures. The Shipping Board, however, takes the position that no matter what the volume of diversion may be it is up to the United States to protect its own shipping by modifying American rules to conform with Canadian practice.

In some respects the report loses force because of the division of opinion. The study was undertaken at the request of the Senate, according to a resolution passed last May, and while no action is anticipated during the present session in view of the imminence of adjournment, the matter may come up for discussion in connection with the tariff bill now being formulated by the House ways and means committee. If the report had been positive in its recommendations, one way or the other, action in the matter might more readily have been obtained. Under the circumstances, both those who believe that the United States should adopt retaliatory measures against Canada, and those who believe otherwise, will find comfort.

The report concedes the inequality of the arrangement by which Canadian ports are favored in the matter of mail rates, grain inspection, preferential customs regulations, and preferential schedules dealing with other parts of the British Empire. Against this situation, however, it is pointed out that a far greater volume of Canadian products is shipped through American ports, largely offsetting any disadvantages which American rail lines and shipping companies may suffer by reason of British imperial preference. In its minority report, however, the Shipping Board asserts that "the right to a remedy rests on basic principles which justify their application and enforcement irrespective of statistical information concerning the extent of the consequences resulting from their violation."

A way has been opened for further debate on and consideration of the subject of diversion of shipping from American to Canadian ports. The friendship that exists between the United States and Canada should not be endangered by hasty or ill-conceived action, but, on the other hand, the shipping industry is entitled to every protection with which the Government can surround it. Congress must be the final judge of whether action is advisable or necessary.

FLYING SCHOOLS TO BE RATED.

Upon recommendation of its committee on commerce, the Senate has passed a bill to provide for examination and rating of flying schools by the Department of Commerce. The bill fills a need that was not foreseen when the air commerce act of 1926 was enacted. It has apparently no opposition and will probably become law.

The measure calls for "necessary examination and rating of civilian schools giving instruction in flying, as to the adequacy of the course of instruction, as to the suitability and air-worthiness of the equipment, and as to the competency of the instructors." Under its provisions the Department of Commerce would have the duty of rating aviation schools just as airports are rated at present. It would not interfere with the rights of States to license schools of flying.

Aviation schools are developing rapidly throughout the country. Within the last three years the number has increased from a very few to 250. In an effort to capitalize the growing popularity of aviation, some of these institutions are undertaking using unlicensed pilots and unreliable planes. There is at present no method of protecting the public from the risks involved. A large percentage of aviation accidents results from student flying, or from use of unsuitable and unsafe planes.

Since the bill would not make rating compulsory it will not be a panacea against fake flying schools. But it will make possible establishment of responsible aviation schools which are subject to strict regulation and inspection. The school which does not invite inspection and rating will no doubt suffer in reputation, and in time should be crowded out by institutions the public can trust. The person who has the ambition of learning to fly will not be relieved of the necessity of finding out for himself the competency of the organization to which he intrusts his instruction. But the relative standing of the schools will give him a sound basis on which to make his selection.

INDUSTRIAL ADJUSTMENTS.

When two men agree to settle their differences out of court, they save the time, money and temper of every one concerned. Similarly, when rival business concerns or organizations look to arbitration for the solution of their difficulties, they usually obtain mutual satisfaction from the decision of the arbitrator, and they make it possible for the law courts to devote their attention to other matters. Self-government is as beneficial in business and industry as it is in national life, as many groups have discovered.

Dr. Harrison E. Howe, of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, suggests that the chemical industry set up an unofficial arbitral court to lighten the burden of litigation which he says is sapping its resources. "Any one who comes into contact with a patent system," he says, "is straightway impressed with the numerous ways in which both applications and granted patents can be used to obstruct, as well as further, industrial progress. Nothing can so sap the resources of a company as to engage in serious patent litigation which may extend over a period of years. A part of the delay is undoubtedly due to the well-nigh superhuman task imposed upon the court, for judges who are not trained in chemistry and chemical technology face the tremendous job of unraveling highly scientific testimony filled with complex statements and conflicting opinions."

The radio patents case, recently argued before the Supreme Court of the United States, may be cited as an example. Hundreds of pages of involved scientific testimony were presented. The case lasted over a period of years during which the stability of the radio industry was threatened. Had there been an expert tribunal established to adjudicate disputes within the industry, the patent question might have been disposed of many months earlier and the time of the court saved. Dr. Howe's suggestion to the chemical industry might be adopted with profit by all industry.

War by machinery won't be so terrible if somebody will invent a machine to do all of the saluting.

When senators speak of the dam bill, they may or may not mean the McNary-Haugen bill.

TOO STRENUOUS EXERCISE

By HORACE W. SOPER, M. D.
(Member of the Gorgas Memorial Institute)

The rigid course of training necessary to develop proficiency in football, rowing and track work results in splendid muscular development at the expense of the heart muscle. The great strain incident to competitive athletics has also a demoralizing influence on the nervous system. For the modern man, a system of exercises that would keep him physically fit without overstrain is the desideratum.

Francis Bacon in his essay on studies suggests that "impediment in the wit may be wrought out by fit studies; like as diseases may have appropriate exercise; bowling is good for the stone and reins, shooting for the lungs and breast, quiet walking for the stomach, riding for the head and the like."

We marvel at the splendid condition exhibited by lions, tigers and other carnivorous animals. Their mode of life is responsible for this good condition. Their muscles are exercised in pursuing their prey. Furthermore, after a gorge they rest for a long period of time, thus storing up energy. During these resting periods they are in the habit of indulging in a great deal of "stretching," a habit still followed by the domesticated cat and dog.

Observation of the jungle animals laid the foundation for the work of Edwin Checkley, a popular writer in the early nineties on the subject of physical training. Checkley emphasized what he called "the natural method" that one could use in his daily vocation without the employment of appliances. He stressed correct posture, formation of the habit of deep breathing and various exercises that tend to stretch the muscles and joints of the body. After a time this habit becomes fixed and one is unconsciously keeping his muscular system alive all day long. I can testify as to the great value of Checkley's method. Stretching and deep breathing exercises can be carried on by the bed-ridden patient.

Baseball, tennis, swimming, skating and games of like character are best for the young. Horseback riding and golf are to be preferred for the older man or woman. Not many generations ago the man of 60 was relegated to the chimney corner, while today you will find him on the golf links.

Swimming is perhaps the best all-round developer of all the exercises. It is impossible to swim well without breathing correctly. I have seen many a frail clerk attain a splendid physique and perfect health by swimming in our local natatoriums. Nor is this form of exercise limited to the young. Some years ago I prescribed swimming for a corpulent woman, aged 60. She was sound physically but her muscles were soft and flabby from disuse. At the age of 64 she was the winner of the annual mile swimming contest in the Mississippi River.

I have been asked in what respect horseback riding differs from other exercises. In the first place the competitive element is eliminated in riding and the muscles in the body not used in walking are brought into play. Most riders experience a peculiar feeling of exhilaration not found in other forms of exercise. The exercise that one actually likes to do is apt to be more beneficial than those done under protest.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mysterious Venus.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Venus, brightest and most beautiful satellite of our sun, is now on evening exhibition in the firmament, setting in the west around the hour of 9. This planet is sometimes only 26,000,000 miles distant from our earth; then invisible, because the sunlight illuminates the side of Venus turned from us. The side of Venus turned toward us is in darkness.

We who dwell upon earth know very little about conditions upon the surface of Venus. So dense is her cloud-mantle, so brilliant are her rays, that the surface of Venus is hidden even from the eye of a most powerful telescope. Accordingly, we do not know positively respecting her axial rotation. The day of Venus may be 24 hours long, or 24 days, or 225 days. Our own day is 23 hours, 56 minutes and 4 seconds in length. We have little information regarding what is concealed beneath the brilliance and clouds of the planet Venus; but we need no telescope to see and admire the beauty and brightness of this solar satellite. The ancient Greeks called her "Hesperus," when she was shining brilliantly in the evening sky. CHARLES NEVERS HOLMES.

A Theory of Plant Nutrition.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Some months ago in a communication which you published I called attention to the statements made in the soil congress of 1927 which verified conclusions previously reached that municipal garbage and sewage wastes, if properly treated, are far more valuable as fertilizing materials than the value shown by taking their nitrogen content as an index. These conclusions were reached on the basis of conceptions as to the nature of plant food which were clearly stated by Julius Stoklasa, of the Technical Institute of Prague, at the soil congress. As the report of the proceedings of the congress recently published does not contain Prof. Stoklasa's paper, it seems desirable that publicity be given to one of his most significant statements. He says: "It is not true, as usually believed, that the carbon dioxide present in the air is sufficient for the building up of the plant materials."

As conclusions from two tables showing that fertile soil gives off from one and a half to two times as much carbon dioxide as less fertile soil and three to four times as much carbon dioxide as unproductive soil, he calls attention to "the large amounts of carbon dioxide given off by the soil" and to the "fundamental importance it must have for the nutrition of the plant. The plants do not assimilate only the carbon dioxide of the atmosphere but also the carbon dioxide coming from the soil."

To "dirt farmers" and all others who have failed to get satisfactory results from the use of chemicals, this paper, which gives a coherent and workable theory of plant nutrition, is of the utmost value; but unfortunately it is only now available in the limited number of abstracts made for the use of the congress. Memories of Lincoln.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In a few days the minds of millions in all the civilized countries of the world will be turned toward memories of America's first great martyr—the immortal Lincoln. Here in Washington thousands will visit the shrine erected to his memory.

The first time I saw Abraham Lincoln was in September, 1859. I was a cub reporter on the Indianapolis Atlas, an evening paper owned and published by John D. Defrees, the first Public Printer. Mr. Lincoln was to speak in the city and I was assigned to report the speech for the Atlas. In those days newspapers did not print speeches verbatim as they now do. The reports were more in story form. The main topic of the speech was the Dred Scott decision of the Supreme Court, and the "Squatter Sovereignty" idea of Senator Douglas. I can, even after the lapse of the years since then, recall some of Lincoln's expressions. He had risen to national fame at that time, and his name was being discussed as probable head of the ticket of the new Republican party.

Nothing that Lincoln said in the speech could possibly be construed as pressing himself for political honors. It was devoted to loyalty to the Union and the Constitution, to the struggle going on to make slavery national instead of sectional. It was a speech lofty in tone, clear in its expression, and of exalted devotion to liberty. He literally tore the squatter sovereignty idea into shreds, and scattered the shreds to the winds. "This could not be a land devoted to liberty," he said, "if the slavery of one race were made national."

The last time I saw Lincoln he laid a martyr to his love for the Union. His body was lying under the dome of the State capitol at Indianapolis. For eight hours the throng steadily passed by it, while a great chorus of voices and a large band alternated in singing or playing funeral dirges. I passed the body in company with Col. Richard W. Thompson, afterward Secretary of the Navy in the Garfield Cabinet. As we paused a moment the choir sang:

"Servant of God, well done!
Thy glorious warfare is past;
The battle is fought, the race is won,
And thou art crown'd at last."

Who can forget Abraham Lincoln?

To Reduce the Enemy's Strength by Half, Double Your Own Troops.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

LET us suppose you are a layman, searching for the needle of truth in a haystack of evidence.

You cut your finger and observe a flow of red blood. As the flow decreases the liquid loses color and becomes like water. Eventually it hardens and forms a covering for the wound.

The white cells of the blood have multiplied at the point of need. You have discovered that nature uses these white cells to form the compound with which she mends and patches.

Having discovered so much, you say to yourself: "If nature uses these white blood cells to mend and patch, isn't it probable that she also uses them as a defense in all cases of trouble?"

Further study proves your surmise correct. When the germs of disease enter the body, there is a battle royal.

If the white cells are numerous enough and vigorous enough to repel the invaders, the disease germs are killed and the patient recovers. If the white cells are insufficient in number or vigor, the disease germs triumph and the patient dies.

"In that case," you say, "the strategy of defense is obvious. Just find a way to increase the white cells and the patient can overcome any kind of disease."

It seems obvious, yes; but the truth of it was discovered but a little while ago and is not yet universally accepted.

Metchnikoff perhaps deserves credit for the original discovery, but the sponsor of the theory in this country is an Alabama doctor who formerly labored for Uncle Sam in various parts of the world.

To print his name here would be advertising, but he need not resent the omission, for history will make amends.

He and others who accepted his theory experimented to find the drugs most effective in multiplying the white cells and selected mercury, arsenic and quinine.

The drugs are administered by injection into a muscle or vein and within 24 hours increase the white cell count 25, 50 and 100 per cent.

Men of science are not given to enthusiastic statements, but those who have written to the medical journals to report their successes achieved by increasing the number of white cells can not be prosaic enough to conceal the miraculous nature of the cures.

They cure asthma, tuberculosis of the bone, infected conditions that result in boils and carbuncles, iritis and other eye diseases, chronic discharging sinuses, malaria and what not—and with the same theory and another drug they decrease the mortality rate of pneumonia by 75 per cent.

Lay readers should know the value of their white cells, for they shield as well as cure.

If you must be exposed to disease, have your white cells increased artificially and thus double your defenses.

CHILDREN'S EYES.

Most parents try to keep close watch of the health of their children, says the New York Times. Modern child study lays stress on the building of a sturdy physique, and proper diet, rest and play are among the important points to watch. Until a child starts to school his eyesight receives little attention unless trouble is plainly seen, and sometimes even after he enters his vision is disregarded. The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness is anxious for parents to have the eyes of children of preschool age examined, as it has been found that many defects becoming troublesome later might have been found and cured by early treatment.

One boy, attractive and intelligent, was described by his first teacher as hopelessly incompetent. His parents were puzzled and unhappy about his surprising dullness, but it never occurred to them that it was caused by defective vision. When he was by chance shifted to another class the new teacher suspected the cause of the difficulty. After he had been correctly fitted with glasses he had no further trouble in keeping up with his comrades.

New methods for the examination of very young children's eyes have been found practicable. If parents will avail themselves of this addition to optometric knowledge many children will be spared needless suffering from eye trouble.

Inscrutable Antarctic.

Baltimore Sun: Once a fashion starts one can expect to find exponents of it which hitherto passed unnoticed, but it is nevertheless surprising to read that an Antarctic club has been formed in London to which explorers in the far South are eligible. And 34 survivors of 11 expeditions are already enrolled. Eleven expeditions! Why, the dreary continent begins to take on the vivacity and congestion of a summer resort. But reflection leads to the conclusion that the numerous attendance in recent years is proof of the inscrutability of the South Polar neighborhood. All those excursions went and came, and still no one knows much about it.

To Improve the Nation.

Buffalo News: All can agree with Dr. Butler when he says that the public mind needs a constant spur to self-examination and self-criticism. That is the surest way to correction. Any one can stand off and criticize the other fellow from New Year's day to the next Merry Christmas without accomplishing much more than to make a bit of noise in the world. The individual who can sit down and criticize himself is the one who is going to make the world just a little better in his own person, at least. If that one person can be multiplied by 100,000, the result is going to be a progressively better nation.

Conspiracy.

Philadelphia Inquirer: Conspiracy is always difficult to prove. The Government has done well to drop this charge against various persons in New York indicted for violations of the Volstead act. It has found that juries will seldom convict in such cases. The reason is clear. The purpose of charging conspiracy is to make it possible to try the defendants, not for a misdemeanor, but for a felony, and thus impose upon them a heavier penalty. Such policies naturally defeat themselves. In the days when a man could be hanged for stealing a sheep his fellows would declare him innocent in the face of the fact.

VATICAN MAY SIGN CONCORDAT SUNDAY

Document, as Outlined, Ends Territorial Issue in Simple Manner.

INDEMNITY TO MISSIONS

Rome, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—A new outline of the probable settlement of the long-standing problem of relations between the Pope and the Italian state was given out in Vatican circles today with the understanding that it would be signed next Sunday and publicly announced two days later.

In some respects the new basis appears more practical than the solution first suggested for enlarging the present papal territories, the only accession to which the Pope is represented as agreeing is a minor rectification of the present Vatican confines on the side of Porta Cavalleogieri. It was reported, however, that he does not accept an indemnity of 2,000,000,000 lire (approximately $105,000,000) to be devoted to foreign missions, for the Italian occupation of the Pontifical states.

Complications Are Avoided.

The addition of Villas Doria and Abembelek to the Vatican gardens with the intervening territory would have produced complications because several thousand persons live in this area. The Pope always has maintained that when an agreement was reached he would insist as a fundamental clause that he "should have no subjects."

According to the latest reports, the Pope would preserve the apostolic palace of the Vatican with the present garden rectified so as to make possible the erection within them of a railway station which would give him access to the world. He also would retain the palace of the chancellery, the Lateran palace and the papal villa at Castel Gandolfo, all of which would enjoy extraterritoriality. These properties with their invaluable collections of artistic, archeological and historical objects would be recognized as the absolute property of the Holy See.

Pope's Freedom Acknowledged.

The Pope also would be acknowledged as a free and independent sovereign with his person proclaimed as sacred and the exercise of his ministry would be without any control or interference and the Holy See would be at liberty to communicate with the Catholic world either directly or through Italian channels free of any charge.

If it is true that Premier Mussolini has agreed to sign a concordat with the church which will include an application of the canon law in its integrity, it will be of interest to see how it will work in practice, because so far all other countries, even the most Catholic—Spain, Austria and Bavaria, have declined to accept the more stringent measures of the law.

Out-of-town readers of The Post who will be here over the inaugural ceremonies will be on the lookout for a place to stay. Now is the time to advertise your vacancies. Phone Main 4205 and ask for Miss Harvey.

Commons in Uproar At Shout of "Liar!"

Bury's Remark That Miners Can Not Be Had Causes 15-Minute Racket.

London, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Cries of "liar" punctuated an uproar which broke out in the house of commons today and lasted for 15 minutes. It ended only when Winston Churchill suggested that the question which had raised the rumpus be put over until tomorrow.

Col. Howard Bury, secretary for mines, started the uproar when he alleged that 2,000 miners were needed in South Wales but could not be obtained. David Kirkwood and Joseph Westwood, laborites, challenged the statement. Kirkwood shouted "liar," several times while Westwood said the remark was an insult to the miners and to the Prince of Wales.

Col. Bury disclaimed intention of insulting any one. Then Mr. Churchill asked a question concerning the dispute, but the opposition shouted to him to "sit down and let the speaker deal with it."

But the speaker called on Mr. Churchill, who made his suggestion of a postponement and the house quieted down.

McCoy Is Rumored To Succeed Stimson

Efforts at South American Mediation Will Aid Him, Information Has It.

Coincidental with reports that Gov. Gen. Stimson of the Philippines is to be included in the Hoover Cabinet came information yesterday that Brig. Gen Frank R. McCoy, now American member of the Bolivian-Paraguayan Conciliation Commission, will succeed Gov. Gen Stimson and will become a major general when Maj. Gen. Charles D. Rhodes retires February 10.

While Brig. Gen. McCoy is eighth in seniority on the brigadier generals' list, his recent good service as president of the Nicaraguan election board, it is thought, will jump him over his seniors and into the governor generalcy. He has been eligible for retirement for five years, and could retire for his Philippine duties with the highest possible military rank in peace time.

There are friends of Brig. Gen. McCoy who believe, however, he would prefer the higher military rank than the governor generalcy, and while there have been reports of opposition to his appointment to the islands position, nevertheless it was believed last year he would have been appointed for that post instead of Gov. Gen. Stimson had he not been on duty in Nicaragua.

Revenue Chief Held Final Authority on Inventories

(Associated Press.)

The United States Court of Claims has ruled that the Commissioner of Internal Revenue has authority to determine the basis of inventories used by business concerns on tax returns.

Judge Nicholas J. Sinnott, in an opinion handed down here, ruled that Commissioner Blair's word regarding inventories is final and would not be reviewed by the courts.

SCHOONER CREW OF 8 IS SAVED IN SURFBOAT

Mystery Surrounds Grounding of Lumber Ship Off Norfolk.

WEATHER NOT TO BLAME

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Master and crew, eight all told, of the four-masted lumber-laden American schooner Bainbridge were brought to safety this morning in the surfboat of the Nags Head Coast Guard Station, from their craft, which piled upon the outer bar, 200 to 300 yards off shore, before daybreak, and which now is fast stuck in the sand with heavy seas buffeting her.

Five of the Bainbridge's crew were brought ashore on the first trip, and the remaining three on the second. They were at the Nags Head Station this morning, being warmed and fed by their rescuers, and, according to information trickling up the Weather Bureau seacoast telephone line, they will remain at the station until the sea moderates and they can return in safety to their vessel and save their belongings.

Though the Bainbridge is full of water and far inshore, an effort will be made by Coast Guard cutters to save her. The cutter Manning, commanded by Lieut. Comdr. E. Zoole, was being made ready this morning to run to Nags Head, which is 75 miles south of Virginia Beach, and the cutter Mascoutin, Boatswain C. L. Jordan in command, previously ordered to proceed today from Norfolk to Charleston, will come inshore at Nags Head on her South to lend the Manning a hand if the latter is unable to pull the Bainbridge off unassisted. There is deep water nearly to the outer bar at Nags Head and the two cutters will be able to come in close to the stranded schooner.

The Bainbridge, which is of 496 net tons, was bound from Jacksonville to Providence. She sailed from the Florida port on January 29.

Cause of the stranding is not known. There has been no weather, shipping men said, to account for it.

Former Anna Gould Fights Doctor's Fee

Duchess Refuses to Meet $6,000 Asked in Bill After Paying $1,480.

Paris, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The Duchess de Talleyrand-Perigord, the former Anna Gould, is contesting a doctor's bill which was presented after her husband's long illness a year ago. During the illness the duke called in an old family physician, Dr. Grunberg, who collected 37,000 francs or $1,480, but presented a bill for 150,000 francs, or $6,000.

Shortly after the duke's recovery, Dr. Grunberg died and his widow continued the suit which had been filed against the duchess. The duchess is fighting the suit on the ground that Dr. Grunberg was not an illustrious physician and was not entitled to huge fees. She also claimed that in addition to the $1,480 she gave him an automobile.

The court, in a quandrary as to what action to take, decided that it had better consult medical men and appointed two of them to look into the circumstances and to bring back a report on what Dr. Grunberg's services really were worth.

Wife of Hoot Gibson Given Divorce Decree

Los Angeles, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Hoot Gibson, cowboy of the films, today was divorced by Helen Gibson, who obtained the decree on the grounds of desertion. "He left me a year ago last month and refused to come back," Mrs. Gibson said. "I asked him to but he would not listen."

Mrs. Gibson was given the custody of their 5-year-old daughter, Lois. The court ruled that she should get $150 weekly from her husband until she had received $30,000. The actor's true name is Edmund R. Gibson. He married Mrs. Gibson in 1921.

Louis Kaufman, KDKA Announcer, Near Death

Pittsburgh, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—A voice that has been heard by millions of radio listeners from the Arctic wastes to the frozen stretches of the Antarctic is stilled for the present. It is that of Louis Kaufman, chief announcer of Westinghouse Station KDKA.

Kaufman, a victim of pneumonia, is reported as "sinking rapidly" at his home here.

Prospective Oxford Student Arrested

Theft Attempt Laid Against Youth About to Sail Abroad Next Week.

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—A prospective Oxford student, son of a wealthy contractor, was held in $25,000 bail today, accused of attempting to steal photographic supplies which, he said, he had no money to buy.

The student is George Kaplan, jr., 19-year-old senior at Columbia University, who was to have sailed next week for England to take a scholarship at Oxford. He was arrested in a West Forty-second street office building last night after the manager of a photographic supply company had surprised him in the firm's offices with $750 worth of lenses and cameras in a bag. Kaplan said he had been admitted by a scrubwoman to whom he had identified himself as a member of the firm.

In court Kaplan was well dressed and seemed more worried about the presence of newspaper reporters than what happened to his case.

Two fine cakes

and a new cake-making secret

If you have been in the habit of using only butter in your cakes, it may, at first, be a little hard to understand how Crisco can make cakes that you simply can't tell from butter cakes. But it's true!

One taste of Crisco just as it comes from the can will tell you why. Did you ever imagine a shortening could be so sweet and fresh?

Now, don't you understand why more and more fine cooks are using Crisco alone in all their cakes? Especially so when you discover how quickly and thoroughly Crisco blends with the other ingredients, giving you lighter, more tender cakes with a nice, even texture.

Date Cake

¾ cup Crisco
1½ cups brown sugar
4 eggs
3¼ cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups dates, stoned and cut in small pieces
¾ cup milk

Cream Crisco and sugar together. Add well-beaten eggs and mix well. Mix and sift flour, baking powder, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt and add alternately with the milk to the first mixture. Beat thoroughly. Add dates and mix well. Pour into a greased tube or loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) 50 to 60 minutes. Cool. This cake may be frosted, if desired.

Featherweight White Cake

¾ cup Crisco
1 cup sugar
½ cup milk
2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
3 egg whites
1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream Crisco. Add sugar gradually. Stir in alternately milk and sifted dry ingredients. Fold in thoroughly stiffly beaten egg whites. Add vanilla. Turn batter into 2 greased layer cake pans. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.). Ice with any desired icing.
(To make it into a Lady Baltimore Cake, use a filling of dates, figs and nuts moistened with lemon juice, and ice with boiled icing.)

These recipes have been tested and approved by cooking authorities. You will get best results by using level measurements and the ingredients specified.

CRISCO is used in the Cooking School now being conducted by this paper in the Ambassador Theater

Mrs. Frances Northcross, in The Post Cooking School, makes a point of modern methods in cooking. Naturally, then, she uses Crisco, the modern shortening. Not only is Crisco easy to use; in addition, it helps you secure better, surer results.

Crisco is the registered trade-mark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Ogden Mills, father of Ogden L. Mills, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, made bequests of $1,000,000 to charitable, church and art institutions by his will, filed for probate in Duchess County, N. Y., late today, and, in addition, made deathbed bequests of $1,360,000 largely to the same institutions.

After disposing of real and personal property here and in Paris, France, by specific bequests among his son and two daughters, he left the residue of the estate to be divided equally among them. They are named executors without bond or liability.

The two daughters are Beatrice, Countess of Granard, who lives in London, and Gladys Phipps, wife of Henry Carnegie Phipps, New York.

Institutions Which Benefit.

The institutions named in the will and the amounts they are to receive include:

Home for incurables, New York City, $500,000; Mills Memorial Hospital, San Mateo, Calif., $100,000; American Museum of Natural History, New York City, $100,000; Metropolitan Museum of Art, New York City, $100,000 and art objects; New York Zoological Society, $50,000; Harvard College, $100,000, to be added to its endowment fund, and Phillips Exeter Academy, Exeter, New Hampshire, $50,000.

Counsel for the executors said a codicil had been drawn to the will, which death prevented Mr. Mills from signing, but which his heirs were to execute as though it were part of the will. In this unsigned codicil five institutions were given the following amounts:

Home for Incurables, $500,000; Mills Memorial Hospital at San Mateo, $100,000; American Museum of Natural History, $40,000; Harvard College, $100,000; Grace Cathedral Corporation, San Francisco, Calif., $250,000, less such gifts as he had made during his lifetime.

O. L. Mills Given Residence.

Ogden L. Mills was given the New York residence. Art objects, in which the younger Mills is given a life interest, are to go to the Metropolitan Museum at his death. The estate at Staatsburg, near Poughkeepsie, N. Y., which was Mr. Mills' legal residence, passed to the son under Mrs. Mills' will and the father gave Ogden L. all the furnishings therein.

Beatrice, Countess of Granard, was given all the shares in the company which owns his Paris residence and all the contents except certain art objects which are to go to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

To the rector, wardens and vestrymen of St. James Church, Hyde Park, N. Y., Mr. Mills left $20,000 in trust to be used to keep his mausoleum there in repair and the graves of Gov. Morgan Lewis, Mrs. Lewis and their children and the churchyard in order.

Mr. Mills died of pneumonia on January 29. He was 72 years old. The value of the estate has not been determined.

Federal Building Gets Health Test

Measurement of Temperatures Being Made to Better Work Conditions.

Tests to make Federal offices more comfortable and healthy for employes in winter and decrease fuel cost through supplying them with increased humidity, were begun in the Interior Department Building yesterday, by the medical inspection division of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks.

The tests will include measures of humidity and temperatures with special recording instruments and thermometers, before and after humidifying machines are installed in rooms, and will determine whether the latter will make work of clerks comfortable in lower temperatures and justify their installation in all buildings.

The humidifying process in general consists of installation of jets forcing moisture in the air. No particular system is contemplated as yet, pending the outcome of the tests. Officials explained that even air admitted from a window usually has not the desirable moisture content and a large percentage of this moisture is immediately driven off by artificial heating.

NEW CROSS-COUNTRY FLIGHT RECORD MADE BY CAPT. HAWKS

rived in fine physical condition, although tired from his all-night flight, but Grubb had been affected by fumes from the motor. He was weak, and staggered as he left the machine.

"If I had gotton any sort of a break from the weather," said Hawks, "we'd have made the flight in 16 hours. The plane can do it.

"We ran into bad weather at Roswell, N. Mex., and from that time we were hardly ever out of the clouds. We went up above the clouds, after finding rain under them, and for nearly twelve hours we were flying that way. We could see the stars sometimes and sometimes they were hidden and we flew blind.

"Our altitude varied from 8,000 to as high as 14,000 feet as we went up and came down to avoid the worst of the storms.

"About 8 a. m. today we came out of the clouds once but there was nothing under us but forests. Later we saw the ground again somewhere. Perhaps it was over West Virginia.

Worst Flying in East.

"But we were hardly out of the clouds before we were back into them again and from West Virginia to the Atlantic seaboard we found the worst flying conditions of the whole trip. We finally came out over southern New Jersey, picked up the coast line, and flew up the coast where the weather was better.

"Our Wasp motor hit perfectly throughout the trip. We kept it running at 1,700 revolution per minute, which gave a computed ground speed of 150 miles an hour. Sometimes the wind was on our tail and we made at one time as high as 190 miles an hour.

"The special motor cowling on the plane, I think, was a big success in cutting down wind resistance, giving additional speed and reduced heating of the motor.

"We used about 22 gallons of gasoline an hour."

Hasty inspection shewed the plane had burned about 400 gallons on the trip, and had about 50 gallons of its total fuel load of 450 gallons left on arrival.

Hawks was nattily dressed for the flight—far different from the oil-stained, roughly-clothed aviators seen often at the end of long hours of flying. He wore a great raccoon coat instead of a leather flying suit, and when he removed it he revealed a gray business suit, still well pressed, gray spats and neatly polished shoes.

Hawks said he ate only one sandwich and drank only a little water on the flight.

Grubb, who never has been in the East before, forgot to bring his overcoat, and he shivered in the breeze at Roosevelt Field as soon as he removed his leather flying suit.

He soon recovered from nausea and unsteadiness caused by the motor fumes, and was eager to get about the business of seeing the sights of New York.

The fliers' route, they believed, although they could not be certain, carried them last night from Tucson, Ariz., over Muskogee, Okla.; Van Buren, Mo.; Parker, Ill.; Portsmouth, Ohio, and brought them out after daylight near Morgantown, W. Va., thence across Pennsylvania, near Harrisburg or Reading, and then into southern New Jersey.

Congratulated by Goebel.

Bartlesville, Okla., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Col. Arthur Goebel, holder of the West-East transcontinental nonstop flight record shattered today by Capt. Frank Hawks, said he was glad to hear his record was broken because "it will give me something to shoot at next summer."

"I congratulate Hawks" Goebel said, "and you can tell him that he has given me something to shoot at and I will be found trying it in a short time."

Goebel, who is recovering from a major operation, said he will go to Los Angeles and will make plans "for going after some of the existing records just as soon as I can recover my health and arrange for another plane."

Goebel recently announced he hoped to make arrangements for a nonstop round the world flight. He would refuel his plane in the air.

The previous West-East record, set several months ago by Goebel, was made in the "Yankee Doodle" which crashed in a later attempt, killing its pilot and passenger.

FINAL ARRANGEMENTS SET

The committee on the inaugural charity ball, meeting yesterday morning at the Transportation Building, approved a long list of persons selected to serve as patrons at the ball. Invitations will be mailed out within a few days. The list includes prominent persons and their wives from the Cabinet, Supreme Court, embassies, and other leading Washington citizens.

No names of members of Congress appear on the list because the large group of Senators and Representatives could not be incorporated without unduly swelling the number of patrons.

The ball committee completed final arrangements for checking facilities at the ball, and continued discussion of plans for decoration of the Washington Auditorium. The lower floor of the auditorium will be decked out with flags, and a scenic setting of waving trees and vines over lattice work will be constructed above.

Representatives of newspapers, press associations, photographic syndicates and moving picture newsreel companies covering the inauguration will be assigned places near the platform on which President-elect Hoover will take the oath of office as President of the United States, it was announced.

In addition, special sections of the grandstand seats along the line of march of the parade have been reserved for newspaper men. It is estimated that more than 800 photographers will assemble in Washington to take pictures of the ceremonies.

AT THE AMBASSADOR THEATER

EVERY successful business is operated on the budget system. Conducting and managing a home is one of the greatest and most important business undertakings that has ever been established. To be successful, therefore, every home should operate on a budget. It is because we, as a banking institution, are vitally interested in the home and all that goes toward making it a place of happiness and contentment, that we advocate the use of the budget system. Under this plan expenditures are intelligently governed according to income. A certain amount is allotted weekly or monthly for each division of household and personal expense and a definate amount set aside regularly for savings.

It is just as important to learn how to spend wisely and manage your home economically and successfully as it is to learn how to be successful with your cooking. You will get the greatest benefit from the lectures of Mrs. Northcross if you put her budget plan, as well as her advice on cookery, to practical use.

We will be glad to help you arrange a budget to fit your household needs.

HOGAN OBTAINS OIL VOTES FOR STEWART

MAILS OUT 500 LETTERS

As a result of the seconding on the part of Frank J. Hogan, prominent local attorney, Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, will have additional support from many quarters when he and John D. Rockefeller, jr., battle for the control of the corporation March 7 at Whiting, Ind.

Hogan, who represented Stewart in the recent oil cases, has written approximately 500 letters to his personal friends asking them to send him their proxies in support of Stewart, whose reelection as chairman of the board is challenged by the Rockefeller interests.

"Already I have received several replies, and am very gratified by the response," Mr. Hogan said last night. "Twenty of my friends who already had sent their proxies to Rockefeller have revoked those, and have sent me their proxies for Mr. Stewart. I am hoping to receive many more.

"I am particularly gratified with the response of my Washington friends, and from their assurances I feel that I am safe in saying that Washington shareholders are overwhelmingly for Stewart."

Mr. Hogan, in explaining his action in championing the cause of Stewart by writing his friends, stated that his action was entirely self-inspired, and that Mr. Stewart, so far as he knows, has no knowledge of it.

"As Mr. Stewart's counsel in the oil cases and the subsequent perjury case, I had the opportunity to go over the entire situation, and know that Stewart has been shown an utter lack of consideration. I regard his trials as the worst bit of political persecution that it has been the lot of any man to contend with."

In his letters to his friends, Mr. Hogan points out that the best interests of the stockholders will be safeguarded if Stewart is returned to the chairmanship. He stresses the fact that the spokesman of the Rockefeller interests in "all his ballyhoo" for proxies has advanced no reason whereby the best interest of the stockholders would be advanced by the removal of Stewart.

SPEAKER DEFENDS MRS. M'CORMICK

Illinois House Leader Says She Had Nothing to Do With Dispute Appointment.

WOMAN ACCUSED HER

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Speaker David E. Shanahan, of the Illinois House of Representatives, today denied he was influenced by Ruth Hanna McCormick, congressman-elect, "or any other State official" in selecting chairmen for permanent committees of the house.

Recently, Mrs. Lottie Holmann O'Neill, of Downers Grove, charged she failed to get the chairmanship of the committee on education because of the "hand of Ruth Hanna McCormick."

"I had no communication of any kind with Mrs. McCormick," the speaker said, "I met her only once, and at that time did not discuss appointments. Mrs. O'Neill requested the chairmanship of the education committee and I could not give it to her.

"I have served in the house of representatives 34 years and have been elected speaker five times. This is the first time that I was ever accused in the public press by any member, of having been influenced by any public official to deprive a member of a chairmanship. The chairmen were selected by me. I alone am responsible. I have faith in them and will stand by them."

As the speaker finished quiet pervaded the house and no one offered comment.

Mrs. McCormick has also denied the charges in Washington.

"I sure was right—I lit a Lucky"

"So many people have made a fuss over me because in rowing back to the 'America,' after we had picked up the 'Florida' survivors, I was smoking a Lucky Strike. I can't see why there should be any excitement about this—it was the natural thing for me to do. Before we started out from the 'America' I made sure that my pack of Luckies was with me—I wanted the comfort and pleasure of Luckies no matter what happened. I sure was right. I'll have to admit that after we picked up the 'Florida' crew and started back, my nerves were completely let down. So I did the thing I always do at such times—I lit a Lucky. As long as I live, I'll never get another kick as I did from the sweet old toasted flavor of that Lucky as we were tossing about on the old Atlantic. I'm a hundred percenter when it comes to 'reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet.' I lay off the things that would make me flabby and light up a Lucky instead. There's too much action going on in my life to have me moving around with a lot of excess weight which I don't need. There's another thing about Luckies. The toasting process, in removing the impurities, is a blessing to us who follow the sea. It prevents throat irritation which is a constant nuisance to those who are regularly exposed to salt air."

The Children

By Edith Wharton

A sparkling serial story by one of America's foremost novelists at the gleaming heights of her power.

SYNOPSIS.

Martin Boyne, a civil engineer, who has been kept busy on projects in all parts of the world, is taking an ocean trip. He is looking forward to another fortnight of solitude when the steward places a chair next to his target "Mrs. Cliffe Wheater." Cliffe Wheater was a schoolmate of his at Harvard. His wife was a friend of those days. Boyne is puzzled by the varied types of children in the entourage and further mystified by its leader.

CHAPTER III.

THE luncheon-signal crashed in on this interrogation, and Boyne was left alone to make what he could of it. At the first sound of the gong his neighbor was on her feet, hardly heeding his suggestion that, if she had not already chosen her seat, they might meet at a table for two in the restaurant.

"Thanks a lot; but of course I lunch with my children." And he remembered with regret that their ocean-palace had a separate dining room for youthful passengers.

"Dash it—I should have liked a few minutes' quiet talk with her."

Instead, he drifted back to his usual place at a table of waifs and strays like himself: an earnest lady in spectacles who was "preparing" Sicily; an elderly man who announced every morning: "I always say the bacon on these big liners is better than anything I can get at home;" and a pale clergyman whose parishioners had sent him on a holiday tour, and whose only definite idea was to refuse to visit catacombs. "I do so want to lead a pagan life just for once," he confided to Boyne, with an ascetic smile which showed, between racking coughs, his worn teeth and anaemic gums.

Luncheon over, Boyne hurried back to his corner, hoping to find the seat at his side already occupied; but it was empty, and empty it remained as the long blue day curved down imperceptibly toward evening.

"Father and mother don't care to travel with the lot of us," the girl had said.

"Father and mother?" That, as far as Boyne could make out, could mean only the Cliffe Wheaters, his old original Cliffe Wheaters, in their before-the-letter state, as it were. In that case the thin eager girl at his side would be their daughter, their eldest daughter, born probably soon after a marriage which, some 13 or 14 years later, had produced the sturdy and abundant Chip.

"Very unmodern, all that." It gave Boyne a more encouraging view of the conjugal state than he had lately held, and made him look forward with a lighter mind to meeting the lady who awaited him in the Dolomites—the lady he had not seen for five years. It must certainly be pleasant to be the parent of a large reliable baby like Chip. . . .

But no sooner did he imagine that he had solved the puzzle of the Cliffe Wheaters than the image of the enigmatic trio, Zinnie, Bun and Beechy, disarranged his neat equation. The "steps"—who on earth were the "steps," and how and where did they fit into the family group which seemed, with Judith (hadn't they called her that?) at one end, and Chip at the other, to form its own unbroken circle? Miss Wheater, he remembered, had tossed him a few details about the two brown children, Bun and Beechy. "They're foreigners . . . Italians . . ." But if so, they belonged neither to Cliffe Wheater nor to his wife; certainly not to his wife, since Judith had added, in speaking of Bun: "His mother was a lion-tamer . . ." not as if using the term metaphorically, but as stating a plain social fact.

As for Zinnie, the little red devil, she remained wholly unaccounted for, and there was nothing in her clever, impudent face, with its turned-up nose and freckled skin under the shock of orange hair, to suggest any blood-relationship to the small Italians. Zinnie appeared to be sharply and completely American—as American as Beechy and Bun were Italian, and much more so than the three elder Wheaters, who were all so rubbed down by cosmopolitan contacts. The "steps," in fact, had the definiteness of what the botanists call species, whereas Judith, Blanca and Terry were like exquisite garden hybrids. The harder Boyne stared into the problem the more obscure it became.

Even the least eventful sea-voyages lend themselves to favorable propinquities, and in the course of the afternoon the gray-haired lady whom young Wheaters addressed as "Scopy" reappeared on deck, this time alone, and seemingly in quest of a seat. Boyne instantly pointed out the one next to his, and the lady, saying with an austere smile: "I believe ours are on the other side, but I can take this while Judith's resting," settled herself at his side in an attitude of angular precision.

As she did so she gave him a look of shy benevolence, and added: "I understand from Judith that you're a friend of her people."

Boyne eagerly acquiesced, and she went on to say what a comfort it was, when they were on one of these long treks with the children, to come across anybody who was a friend of their parents, and could be appealed to in an emergency. "Not that there's any particular reason at present; but it's a good deal of a responsibility for Judith to transport the whole party from Biskra to Venice, and we're always rather troubled about Terry. Even after four months at Biskra he hasn't picked up as we'd hoped. . . . Always a little temperature in the evenings. . . ." She sighed, and turned away her sturdy weather-beaten face, which looked like a cliff on whose top a hermit had built a precarious refuge—her hat.

"You're anxious about Terry? He does look a little drawn." Boyne hoped that if he adopted an easy old-friend tone she might be lured on from one confidence to another.

"Anxious? I don't like the word; and Judith wouldn't admit it. But we always have our eye on him, the dear boy—and our minds." She sighed again, and he saw that she had averted her head because her eyes were filling.

"It is, as you say, a tremendous responsibility for any one as young as Miss Wheater." He hesitated, and then added: "I can very nearly guess her age, for I used to see a good deal of both her parents before they were married."

It was a consolation to his self-esteem that the lady called "Scopy" took this with less flippancy than her young charges. It seemed distinctly interesting to her, and even reassuring, that Boyne should have been a friend of the Cliffe Wheaters at any stage in their career. "I only wish you'd gone on seeing them since," she said, with another of her sighs.

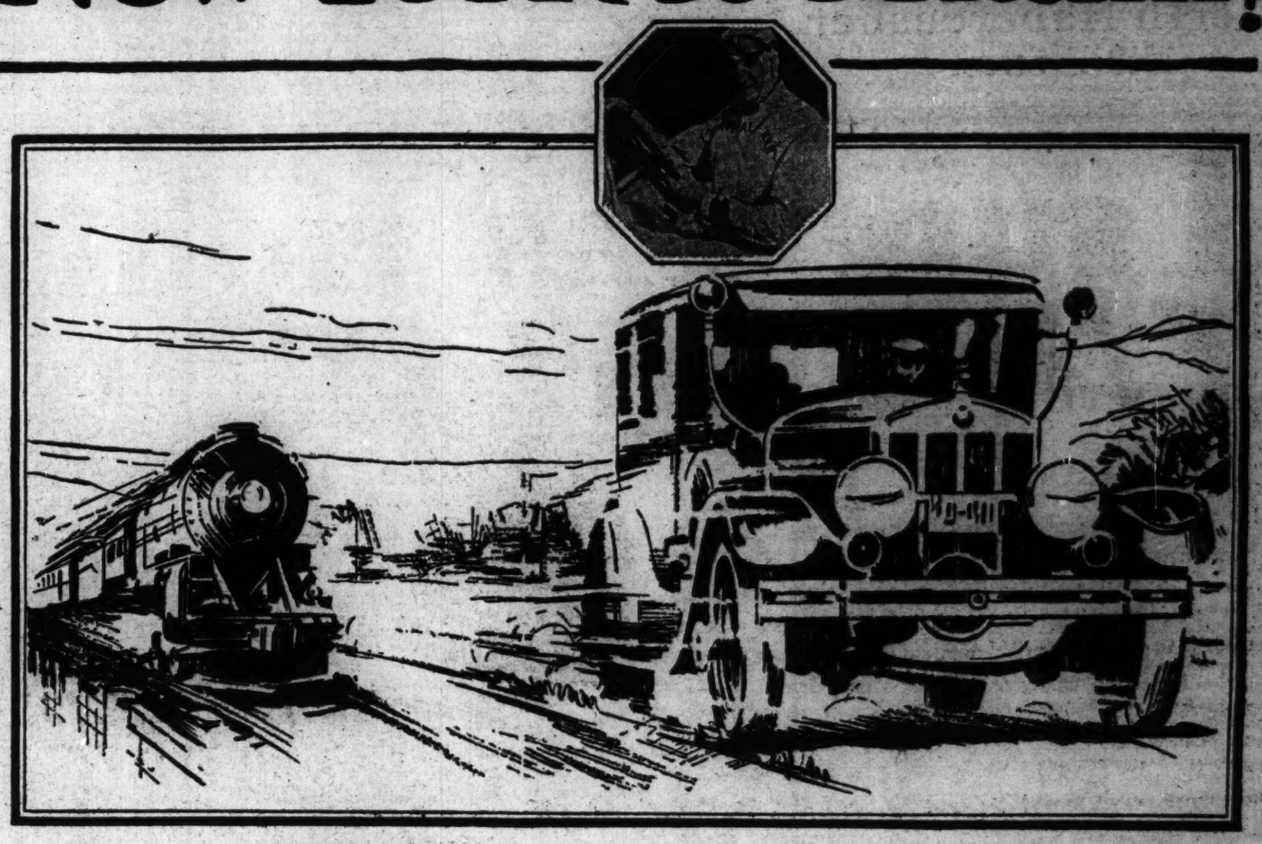
AMOCO-GAS helps FRANKLIN beat fastest train time from New York to Miami!



Out of New York at 12.30 A.M. January 15th--into Miami at 7.40 A.M. the next day, January 16th--that was the record run of "Cannon Ball" Baker in a stock model 135 air-cooled Franklin Sedan! Elapsed time, 31 hours and 10 minutes for 1,541 miles--an average of 49.44 miles per hour! And he beat the time of the "Miamian"--the fastest train between New York and Miami by nearly two hours--though travelling through traffic on a route 154 miles longer!

A marvelous demonstration of Franklin speed and endurance--and we're proud of the fact that AMOCO-GAS helped make this record possible. W. F. Kneip, President of the Baltimore Franklin Motor Car Co., requested us to stand ready to refuel "Cannon Ball" Baker's car with all possible speed and dispatch--and preparations were made to have a pump ready at a dealer's station on the Philadelphia road. There, in the dim light of dawn, Baker pulled up, filled up with AMOCO-GAS--the regular AMOCO-GAS supplied by the regular roadside pump--and whirled away on his record-breaking dash.

And here's the wire he sent us after his triumphal arrival at Miami:

AMERICAN OIL CO., Baltimore

My thanks to you for your co-operation and service during my recent record run to Miami from New York. It was good of you to have AMOCO-GAS ready for me at Baltimore and I am glad to advise that it gave me every satisfaction. . . . allowing me to keep up high averages. Congratulations on a worth-while product.

WAGNERIAN SINGERS TRIUMPH IN 'TRISTAN'

Famous Opera Is Given an Effective Rendition by German Artists.

ORCHESTRA WINS PRAISE

The favorable impression given by the German Opera Company on Monday at Poli's Theater in "Die Walkure" was renewed last night in an excellent presentation of Wagner's three-act love tragedy, "Tristan und Isolde," in which the company once more evinced its adherence to traditional methods in performing the immortal operas of that great master.

Juliette Lippe was admirable in the role or Isolde, a typical Wagnerian heroine, statuesque in figure, of winning personality and a voice, heroic in quality, well fitted for the strenuous vocal requirements laid upon an Isolde by the score. More than any other prima donna thus far presented by the visiting company, she looked and sang the part in which she was cast. Her voice had a lovely quality and she mastered the technical difficulties of her part with ease and poise.

Willy Ziiken was admirable as Tristan and his golden tenor tones with a robustness in the top register matched Isolde's in melodious harmonies and the emotions of the music drama. Early he won his audience by his beautiful singing in the cup scene and his dramatic arias in the final act while in the love duet in the second act, with amazing musical eloquence, their voices blended in an ecstasy of song that elicited prolonged applause.

Majestic in the "Liebestod."

In the "Liebestod" or "Love Death," one of the greatest themes, not only of Wagner but of all music, Mme. Lippe was majestic in her rendition of this impassioned melody with its grandeur of climax, making what has been called "the most ecstatic love song in the whole realm of music."

The orchestra accompaniment was at all times satisfying, and in its part in the Liebestod, under the able direction of Dr. Walter Rabl, one of Germany's leading Wagnerian conductors, sustained Isolde excellently. Inasmuch as the final judgment of "Tristan und Isolde" must rest in large part on the work of the orchestra, Dr. Rabl and his men deserve a large share of the credit for last night's performance.

Speaking of the orchestra, even though briefly, tribute must be paid to its more than adequate rendition of "The Prelude," known to all lovers of opera music and appearing on the majority of concert programs. It never grows hackneyed, however, because of its intrinsic musical merit.

Prelude Theme Charms.

Again and again the theme of the prelude was heard in the orchestral voices of the opera. The "yearning" theme, with which it opened the entire opera, reappeared again at the last in extended form.

As Brangaene, Sonia Sharnova was second only in feminine excellence to Mme. Lippe. She, too, knows her Wagner well, and there was a fine restraint in her presentation of her role that made her singing one of the high lights of the performance. In the second act her off-stage work was particularly meritorious.

Karl Braun, as King Marke, made the most of his time on the stage both vocally and histrionically. Marcel Salzinger as Kurwenal, Franz Egenieff as Melot, Waldemar Henke as the shepherd and Albert Marwick as the steersman, earned favorable mention by their good work. The male chorus in the first act displayed excellent ensemble unity and harmony.

The performance of "Tristan und Isolde" interrupted for the moment the performance of the "Ring" trilogy, which will be resumed Thursday night, when "Siegfried" will be sung.

There will be no performance of the opera company today. E. E. P.

Cases of Influenza Decrease in Week

Surgeon General's Warning Says Toll Is Greatest in Late Winter.

Marked decline in the number of influenza cases in the United States was noted yesterday by the Public Health Service, while at the same time Surgeon General W. Ireland estimated that one-eighth of the country's population has had the disease and warned that the critical period is still ahead.

The Public Health Service announced that reports for the week ended February 2 from eighteen States, the District of Columbia and the City of New York, totaled 11,305 cases, as compared with 25,433 cases during the preceding week.

Gen. Ireland bases his estimate on application of the ratio of attack from influenza and other respiratory diseases in the Army to the total population of the country. He autioned the public to continue to be careful, as it is during the late winter and early spring months that influenza and other respiratory disease take their greatest toll.

Man Asking Annulment Is Told to Pay Alimony

Edward R. Lowndes, jr., who recently petitioned the District Supreme Court to annul his marriage to Theresa Lorraine Browne, which took place Christmas eve, on the ground he was intoxicated at the time of the ceremony, was ordered to pay his wife $35 a month temporary alimony pending outcome of the suit, in an order signed yesterday by Justice Peyton Gordon.

In his petition, Lowndes declared he was "coaxed" into a taxicab by Miss Browne, whom he had known only two days, and driven to Rockville, Md., where they were married. He declared he was in a state of extreme intoxication and knew nothing of the marriage until eight days later. The wife, in answering the suit, charged her husband was in control of his mental faculties and had proposed marriage to her.

Britons Rush to Buy Influenza Insurance

London, Feb. 5 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The increasing influenza epidemic here, besides half emptying theaters, relieving traffic congestion and creating a shortage of nurses, doctors and ambulances to carry to hospitals victims who collapse in the streets, is responsible for a novel form of gambling on Lloyd's Exchange.

At Lloyd's for generations they have "bet on anything." The first rate quoted as 2 shillings 6 pence (60 cents), to pay £5 ($25) for each week the policyholder was kept in bed by the flu during the next three months.

Such policies became popular and the rate rose. Today the head of one Lloyd firm said he had himself underwritten 400 such policies at 5 shillings ($1.20). Tonight the rate has risen to 7 shillings 6 pence ($1.80).

2 MURDER CHARGES IN 44 INDICTMENTS

Slayer of Policeman Held on First-Degree Count by Grand Jury.

11 ACCUSATIONS IGNORED

Two murder charges were among the 44 indictments returned by the District grand jury yesterday to Chief Justice Walter I. McCoy in criminal division of the District Supreme Court. Eleven charges, including four of homicide, were ignored.

Accused of deliberately shooting and killing Patrolman John Francis McAuliffe on the night of January 19, Samuel A. Jenkins, of 1217 Thirty-fourth street northwest, was indicted for first-degree murder.

McAuliffe walked to the front of Jenkins' home to investigate a disturbance there. Jenkins, who had been drinking, fired at the patrolman through the front window of the house, fatally wounding him. Jenkins then attempted to kill himself. Both were taken to Georgetown University Hospital and the policeman died two days after the shooting. Before he died he requested his mother to see that Jenkins was not prosecuted, declaring he had forgiven his assailant. Jenkins recovered from his wounds and is now lodged in the District Jail.

Second-degree murder was charged in an indictment against William C. Flatt, colored, who was accused of striking Frederick J. Smith, also colored, with a brick on July 25, at 1530 Thirty-third street northwest, and causing his death.

James Jones and Stephen G. Hoffman were indicted on three charges of housebreaking and larceny each. Raymond Brown and George E. Rawlings were also accused of housebreaking and larceny. Grand larceny and joyriding were charges in two indictments against Lester J. Groves, while joyriding was charged against Walter Davis, Monroe Warner, Daniel Galloway, William Adams, Frank D. Green, John Jackson, William Estep, Luttrell Buchannon, Roscoe A. James, John R. Lohr, John F. Smith, Vaughn Lee Tomlin, Theodore E. Wilson, Malcolm Stewart and Albert S. Fowler.

Robbery was charged in indictments against Herbert Lewis, Lucille Harrison, Melvin Strothers, Richard Bundy, Milton E. Terry, Benjamin A. Branson, Theodore Crawford, Joseph Hardy, George W. McGoines, and James J. Healy. Violation of the motor theft act was charged against Malcolm James Stewart. William L. Moseley was indicted for assault with a dangerous weapon and assault with intent to kill. Assault to commit carnal knowledge was charged in two indictments against Charlie Ware. Charles Ransome was charged with assault with a dangerous weapon. Ralph Ballard was charged with forgery and uttering. Regina Blanchfield of larceny after trust and Paul A. Willis of two charges of false pretenses.

The jury exonerated Joseph Royston of blame for the death of Preston Kumler, who was killed in November at Twenty-eighth and M street northwest in a traffic accident. A charge of homicide against Sadye Hatton, colored, in connection with the fatal shooting of Joseph Miles, also colored, on September 7 at 2117 Virginia avenue northwest, was ignored.

Charles L. Bell, colored inmate of St. Elizabeths Hospital for the Insane was held not responsible for the death of Charles Stokes, colored, a fellow inmate. Roselle B. Thomas, colored, was exonerated in connection with the death of Catherine Payne, colored, who was struck and fatally injured by an automobile driven by the Thomas woman on August 20.

Other charges ignored were grand larceny against Rebecca Frye, Daisy F. Galloway and Nathaniel N. Galloway; false pretenses against Albert B. Webster; joy riding against Cornelius V. Sheppard and George E. Rawlings; statutory charge against Frank Johnson and forgery and uttering against Tom Lynch.

Doctor's Wife, Overcome By Gas, Is Recovering

Mrs. Dorothy Gladding, 24 years old, wife of Dr. Walter Gladding, an interne at the Emergency Hospital, is recovering at their residence, 901 Twentieth street northwest, from the ill effects of being overcome by gas that escaped from the kitchen range.

Mrs. Gladding, who has been ill, telephoned Dr. Gladding yesterday morning that she was feeling worse and asked him to come home. While waiting for her husband she decided to brew a cup of tea, lighting the range for this purpose. Then she fainted. When Dr. Gladding arrived he called the rescue squad, which resuscitated Mrs. Gladding.

RICH INDIAN'S WIFE DENIES USING RUSE

INSISTS ON IMMUNITY

Mrs. Anna Laura Barnett, wife of Jackson Barnett, millionaire Creek Indian, yesterday refused to waive immunity before the Frazier subcommittee of the Senate committee on Indian affairs. Her attorney, Charles H. Rogers, said that she had testified before the same committee in California during the recess of Congress and answered all the questions asked her.

Senator Frazier (Republican), North Dakota, chairman of the committee, declared Mrs. Barnett, in taking this step, was within her legal rights. Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, announced he would not ask her any questions, as he felt that the committee should not interfere with the courts by hearing her.

Mr. Rogers, after making a statement about the former hearing in California and speaking for his client, explained:

"This committee has seen fit to again subpena her to appear in Washington as a witness in that cause to testify. Mrs. Barnett has come here in response to that subpena and now appears before this subcommittee and freely offers to testify as a witness and answer any proper question.

"She has been asked by the committee to waive immunity from her right to challenge the use of her statement here made in any court or proceeding had elsewhere. This is a right guaranteed her by law. She did not come here of her own volition, but was brought here by force of a subpena, and it is certainly asking more of her to waive immunity than the committee has a just right to ask. However, she still offers to give her evidence, but subject to her right to the benefit of the law in that respect."

This closes the Barnett testimony.

John Fitzgerald, an Omaha, Nebr., newspaper man, who asserts he was present when the Barnett marriage took place, wired Senator Wheeler yesterday that Barnett did not know what he was doing when he took the vows of matrimony. As Senator Wheeler read the telegram, Mrs. Barnett said: "That's all false."

Fitzgerald has been subpenaed to appear before the committee.

Standard's "Melon" Sends Oil Stock Up

Indiana Company Shares Soar as Proxy Registration Closes.

Chicago, Feb. 5 (U.P.).—Influenced by the big stock "melon" cut Monday by directors of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, Wall street and Chicago traders witnessed an expected sharp rise in both markets today.

The upward trend, which at one time went as high as 6 points in New York and 10¾ points on the Chicago exchange, held until late in the day when reports of record production and further reductions in the price of gasoline caused a falling off.

Today was the last day for proxy registration of Standard stock to be voted in the annual election of officers.

The dividend was construed as a coup in favor of Col. Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the board, upon whom John D. Rockefeller, jr., has been waging an attack, seeking to have the chairman ousted at the stockholders' annual meeting on March 7.

The clash has been termed the "battle of proxies" with both sides endeavoring to strengthen their voting power in advance of the meeting at Whiting, Ind., next month.

Monkey Is Just Simian, Not Human, Court Holds

St. Louis, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—A monkey is just a monkey and has no human or legal status, Justice Elmer L. Moore held in an opinion here today.

The opinion concerned "Napoleon," a man-sized orangoutang, whose custody was at stake in an attachment suit brought by George T. Bishop, Inc., of Shreveport, La., against the animal's owner, A. Anderson, St. Louis showman, to satisfy a debt. The court held that the defense argument that the Darwin theory of evolution gave the ape a legal status was not sound and that an ape was property and could be attached.

However, the justice decided that the debt involved in the litigation had been paid and he freed "Napoleon" from the writ of attachment.

Thirty Bags of Beans Cause Life Sentence

Caro, Mich., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Theft of 30 bags of beans from an elevator at Unionville, near here, brought a life sentence in circuit court today for Frank Bower, of Kings Mill, under Michigan's habitual criminal law.

Bower admitted stealing the beans. He previously had been convicted of burglaries and automobile thefts, the bean theft being his fourth felony.

Hanneken Leading in Jiron With Rope Around His Neck

Lieut. Henry H. Hanneken, United States Marines (left), who after one month in Nicaragua captured Gen. Jiron, rebel chief and chief of staff to Sandino (right).

Capture Mere Incident to Marines' "One-Man Army."

(United Press.)

First Lieut. Herman Henry Hanneken, of St. Louis, the United States Marine Corps' one-man army, is in action again.

Today, Lieut. Hanneken, at the head of an elated band of Nicaraguan constabulary, is en route over the mountain trails of Jinotega, Nicaragua, to constabulary headquarters with a rope around the neck of Gen. Manuel Maria Jiron Runano, rebel chief and chief of staff to Sandino.

By the capture of Jiron, the shy, blonde, 6-foot marine has rightly won the title of "terror of bandits" and accomplished single-handed, a short month after his arrival in Nicaragua, what hundreds of other marines failed to do.

Previously Lieut. Hanneken killed Charlemagne Peralte, supreme bandit chief of Haiti, and Osiris Joseph, the notorious bandit leader of northern Haiti.

While Marine headquarters here awaited an official report of Hanneken's latest achievement, fellow officers who served with him in this country and Haiti told glowing stories of the young lieutenant's bravery.

Shy and Reserved.

There is nothing of the braggart in Hanneken's personal make-up. He is shy, reserved and seldom enters into the light banter of the service. Most of his spare time is spent in reading. He is an accomplished linguist and can speak both French and Spanish fluently.

His knowledge of French and the Creole tongue aided him in the killing of the two Haitian bandits and fellow officers said his ability to speak Spanish undoubtedly aided him in the capture of Jiron.

"Lieut. Hanneken's bravery borders on recklessness," Col. Douglas C. McDougal, who was the young officer's superior in Haiti, said, "but at the same time all of his great achievements have been carried out calmly and carefully.

"When he killed Charlemagne and lone-handed broke up the bandit group, every detail had been planned three months in advance."

In 1919 the bandit Charlemagne had long been a dart in the vanity of the Marines who were attempting to clean up Haiti. Hanneken conceived the idea that the bandit chief could be captured. At that time the young lieutenant was a sergeant of Marines and a captain in the Haitian gendarmerie.

Word was passed through natives that the garrison at Grande Riviere would be left unguarded on November 1 because of an American fiesta. Charlemagne, hearing the rumor, decided to attack and fell into Hanneken's trap.

Hanneken, Corp. William R. Button and twenty of the native gendarmerie disguised themselves as bandits and started for Charlemagne's camp, which scouts had located several miles from Grande Riviere. For three hours the two Marines, with faces blackened, and their native companions, passed several thousand bandits on the mountain trail en route to attack the village.

By imparting information he was carrying important news to Charlemagne, Hanneken successfully passed through five lines of the bandit guard.

Official Report.

The immediate attack on the bandit chief is best told in the official report of Josephus Daniels, former Secretary of the Navy, in recommending Hanneken and Button for the Congressional Medal of Honor, which both received:

"The sixth outpost was the immediate guard over Charlemagne, being about 30 paces from the person of the bandit chief. Advancing rapidly toward Charlemagne, who apparently had been led to believe that the persons approaching him were members of his band with reports of the assault upon Grande Riviere, Hanneken, armed with two revolvers, and Button, armed with a light machine gun, were suddenly halted by two bandits, who handled their rifles in a threatening manner. Believing no further time was to be lost, Hanneken opened fire upon Charlemagne, and Button with equal promptness turned his machine gun upon the remaining bandits. The surprise attack was a complete success and the dead body of Charlemagne and nine of his bodyguard were found in camp."

The death of the chief broke up the bandit band and peace reigned for some months. On April 1, 1920, by a similar surprise attack, Henneken killed the bandit leader Joseph and was awarded the Navy Cross.

Gen. Jiron, the latest victim of the one-man army, was a notable military figure in Central America. He was a native of Guatemala, graduate of a military academy, former chief of staff in the Guatemalan army and former governor of a Guatemalan province. He was regarded as the brains of the Sandino rebel movement.

Policeman Killed in Duel Over Drunken Woman

Maud, Okla., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—An argument over a woman prisoner, culminating in a revolver fight in the city hall of this boom oil town early today, resulted in the death of Grady Maloy, patrolman, and the wounding of Melvin Corbin, night chief of police.

The woman, known only as "Anna" was arrested for drunkeness by Maloy during the night, and the argument between the two policemen arose over the advisability of releasing her after two men had put up bond. Corbin declared the woman was too intoxicated to be released, and Maloy insisted she should be turned out. The shooting followed. Corbin is not expected to live.

Third 'Spot' Found Upon Foch's Lung

Case Aggravated by Indigestion, but Marshal Holds His Own.

Paris, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The third "spot" of congestion to appear in the lung of Marshal Ferdinand Foch developed today, yet he held his own despite this and also in the face of a restless night caused by an attack of indigestion. After the evening consultation of his physicians it was announced that his heart, which balked about three weeks ago, was doing its work well and that his respiration and general condition were unchanged.

The pulse, it was announced, registered 80 and his temperature was 99. The physicians emphasized that the condition of the lung was a disquieting factor.

Despite his pleas, all reading matter was denied to the distinguished patient today. For a short time this morning he was allowed to pore over a few maps and this afternoon his daughter, Mme Fournier, read to him from the current issue of a heavily serious monthly magazine.

Conquers Cold to Become a Bride!

A simple thing, in pleasant tablet form—but it conquers the cold. Quicker than all the things you hear are good for colds. Far better than "doping."

If you feel a cold coming on, this will end it with the first snuffle. If the cold has settled on you, perhaps run into "flu," Pape's Cold Compound will still clear it up if you take several tablets. Druggists ask only 35c for this real relief.

Bridge Game, Play by Play, Is Explained

Whitehead and Work and Two Women Teachers Demonstrate How Cards in Their Hands Should Be Handled; All Experts.

The foursome for yesterday's Radio Bridge Game, broadcast from Station WRC, was made up of Mrs. Oscar E. Busby, of Dallas, Tex.; Mrs. W. C. Ryan, of San Antonio, Tex.; Mr. Work and Mr. Whitehead. Mrs. Busby and Mrs. Ryan are well known throughout their native State, both as players and as teachers of Bridge.

These were the hands: Mr. Whitehead, Dealer, South—Spades, A, J, 5; Hearts, A, Q, J, 7, 6, 2; Diamonds, K, 6, 5, 2; Clubs, none. Mrs. Ryan, West—Spades, 9, 7, 2; Hearts, K, 3; Diamonds, A, Q, J, 10, 7; Clubs, Q, 10, 7. Mrs. Busby, North—Spades, Q, 6, 3; Hearts, 10, 9, 4; Diamonds, 4; Clubs, K, 9, 8, 4, 3, 2. Mr. Work, East—Spades, K, 10, 8, 4; Hearts, 8, 5; Diamonds, 9, 8, 3; Clubs, A, J, 6, 5.

Mr. Whitehead, South, the Dealer, opened the auction with one Heart; Mrs. Ryan, West, bid two Diamonds; and Mrs. Busby, North, passed. Although Mrs. Busby held the normal length of three cards of her partner's suit, which probably would be of use in ruffing Diamonds, of which she had only a singleton, her side strength was only a King and a Queen—insufficient to warrant an assist from one to two. Mr. Work, East, also passed. His Spade suit was not strong enough to warrant a betterment take-out of his partner's Diamond bid, for which he held normal support.

Mr. Whitehead, South, went to two Hearts. Mrs. Ryan, West, said three Diamonds—a bid justified by her four honors and the practical certainty of making her King of Hearts. Mrs. Busby, North, bid three Hearts as her partner's rebid without any encouragement from her showed strength additional to that indicated by his initial bid. Mr. Work, East, went to four Diamonds, an assist also warranted by his partner's rebid.

Mr. Whitehead, South, reasoned that with four Diamonds in his own hand, and both of the adversaries bidding that suit, his own partner must be very short—probably void—of it, and consequently in position to ruff. Therefore, Mr. Whitehead bid four Hearts.

Mrs. Ryan, West, doubled. Holding an apparently sure trick in Hearts, considerable additional strength, and having a partner with some trick-taking values, as shown by his assist, Mrs. Ryan's double was unquestionably correct. All passed, and Mr. Whitehead, South, became Declarer with his contract four Hearts doubled.

Mrs. Ryan, West, the initial leader, had the choice of three opening plays. Her own suit of Diamonds was headed by Ace-Queen. Her partner assisted Diamonds on the second round and might hold the King. If not, then Mr. Whitehead, South, probably held it, with protection. In that case, Mrs. Ryan saw that if she led her ace, Mr. Whitehead's King would become a winner. To prevent such possible happening, Mrs. Ryan avoided a Diamond opening, and selected Spades in preference to Clubs. She led the 9 of Spades. Mrs. Busby, North, spread her hand for Dummy, and Mr. Whitehead, Declarer, played from it the 3 of Spades.

Mr. Work, East, read Mrs. Ryan's 9 as the top of a short Spade suit. It could not be her fourth best, as a 9 is not led as a fourth-best card. When a 9 is fourth best of a hand, then the three higher cards held must be honors, and a suit with three honors is opened by the lead of one of them. With the Queen of Spades showing in Dummy, Mr. Work, East, marked Declarer as holding the Ace-Jack. As the play of Mr. Work's King would make Declarer's Ace and Jack and Dummy's Queen all winners, barring their being trumped, Mr. Work held off, playing the 4 of Spades. Mr. Whitehead, Declarer, won the trick with the Jack of Spades.

Studying his situation, Mr. Whitehead, Declarer, saw he would have to ruff three Diamonds in order to make his game contract. If he could do that, he might be able to limit his losses to three tricks—a Heart trick (since the King was marked in Mrs. Ryan's, West's, hand), a Diamond trick, and a Spade trick. The lead of a trump would prevent the ruffing of three Diamonds in Dummy, and thus stop game. Should Mr. Work, East, obtain the lead, his obvious lead would be a trump, because of Dummy's singleton Diamond. If Mrs. Ryan, West, were put in, she might not lead a trump, as it would cost her a trick to do so, if, as was possible, she had only two trumps to the King.

Mr. Whitehead, therefore, made a brilliant maneuvre by leading the King of Diamonds, quite naturally assuming that Mrs. Ryan, West, held the Ace. Thus he planned to keep the lead from Mr. Work, East, while at the same time placing Dummy in position to ruff Diamonds. Mrs. Ryan, West, played the Ace. Dummy the 4. Mr. Work the 3.

Mrs. Ryan would have liked to lead a trump, to reduce Dummy's ruffing possibilities, but was prevented by fear of sacrificing her King. She wanted to put her partner in, as she knew he would appreciate the necessities of the situation and would most certainly lead a trump through the Declarer. Having figured out the probable Spade situation, from her partner's low play to the first trick, Mrs. Ryan decided that her best chance to reach her partner was with a Club. Therefore she led her Queen of Clubs. Dummy played the 2; Mr. Work the 5; and Declarer won with the 2 of Hearts.

Mr. Whitehead, Declarer, then led the 2 of Diamonds for a ruff in Dummy. Mrs. Ryan played the 7; Dummy trumped with the 4 of Hearts; Mr. Work played the 8 of Diamonds. Dummy returned the 3 of Clubs; Mr. Work played the 6; Declarer ruffed with the 6 of Hearts; Mrs. Ryan played the 7 of Clubs. Again Declarer led a Diamond, the 5 spot; Mrs. Ryan played the 10; Dummy trumped with the 9 of Hearts; Mr. Work played the 9 of Diamonds. Dummy led the 4 of Clubs; Mr. Work played the Jack; Declarer trumped with the 7 of Hearts; Mrs. Ryan played the 10 of Clubs.

Declarer led his last Diamond, the 6 spot; Mrs. Ryan played the Jack; Dummy ruffed with the 10 of Hearts; Mr. Work discarded the 8 spot of Spades. Dummy led the 8 of Clubs; Mr. Work played the Ace; Declarer trumped with the Jack of Hearts; Mrs. Ryan overtrumped with the King.

Mrs. Ryan then led the Queen of Diamonds; Dummy discarded the 9 of Clubs; Mr. Work discarded the 10 of Spades; Declarer trumped with the Queen of Hearts. Mr. Whitehead, Declarer, then led his Ace of Hearts, on which Mrs. Ryan played the 3 of Hearts. Dummy the King of Clubs, and Mr. Work the 5 of Hearts. Declarer then led the Ace of Spades, to which all followed, giving Declarer his contract and game. Mr. Work, East, still held one trump, the 8 spot, which took the final trick.

Mr. Whitehead, Declarer, scored 64 trick points for four Hearts doubled; 50 points in the honor score for making his contract, and 40 for honors.

In his comments on the hand, Mr. Work praised very highly the lead of the King of Diamonds by Declarer at trick two—the sort of play that seems obvious when it is made, but which, as a matter of fact, is the sort of play that marks the superexpert.

This same hand would be bid a little differently at Contract. South would start by bidding two Hearts; the hand is much too strong for a bid of one to furnish sound information to partner. West would doubtless bid three Diamonds. North could furnish one raise for an initial two Hearts. East would risk four diamonds. South would say four Hearts. West would double. The play would be the same as in Auction.

Jane Claire Interprets the Mode

New York, Feb. 5, 1929.

LACE! What other material can suggest the fragile loveliness and luxury of this human elaboration of the spider web!

Ever since the afternoon we saw an old Frenchwoman sitting in the shadow of a great cathedral busily making lace, with hundreds of tiny bobbins which she flashed and twisted about so dexterously that we could not follow her movements, we have had increased respect for the creators of gossamer laces.

Lace, or lace in combination with tulle, chiffon and the like, is very much in the mode at the moment. The heavier laces lead, although some of the Chantilly (shan-tee-yee) laces used are extremely delicate.

Bright Colors in Favor.

Bright colors are in favor, especially for dinner gowns, and bright reds, blues and violets are not uncommon.

As typical of treatments being given lace for evening, we saw at the Maison Cheruit a striking model of the shiny cire (si-ray) lace, rather heavy and a lustrous black. The yoke and sleeves were left transparent, two long streamers of tulle were attached at the back of the bodice, and the skirt was given two ruffles of the same lace.

A surprise leaflet—that's what was made for you this week. In it we tell you how to make a lovely lace negligee coat, a double-front slip-on house apron, a belt and boutonnier set like the one you saw in a Paris shop, a quaint market bag that you can use for sewing, for books or as a beach bag—these are some of this week's surprises.

Poiret and art—and recently Poiret becomes modern and incorporates the artistry in garments, hitherto only associated with the stage and the screen, for any lovely lady who has the personality to wear them.

The blue crepe de chine afternoon dress I illustrated for you today shows you an unusual line both in the back and front. And for the unexpected and delightful in trimming, yellow crepe insertions are embroidered in black and silver!

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

ONE MORE.

His grandfather died in a tragical way
In a moment of mirth on a bright summer day.
Though he neither could swim in the water nor float
He insisted, though cautioned, on rocking the boat.

And there was an uncle who passed from the earth
Before he had fully established his worth.
To startle the folks in a spirit of fun
He blew off his head with an "unloaded" gun.

Another relation arose in the night
Too tired, or too lazy, to turn on the light.
He wanted cough mixture they kept on a shelf,
In the dark took up acid and poisoned himself.

"It runs in the family," somebody said,
"But surely by now all the fools must be dead.
With boats, guns and poisons all hidden away
The ones who are left on the earth ought to stay."

But he found a way which he thought should be tried,
Men had warned him 'gainst running a motor inside
A garage closed up tight, both of windows and door
He tried it. The fool-killer chalked up one more.

Old Spanish Melodies on Air Tonight

California's Folk Songs to Be Given First Time on WRC at 8 P. M.—Gene Austin, Star, on WMAL. Band on WSJV.

When conquistadors of old Spain rode gayly down El Camino Real in California they rode a-singing. As a heritage these conquistadors left to California melodies and folk songs that are very much alive today. On these old Spanish melodies and folk tunes a radio program has been built and it will have its initial presentation over a national network of stations, including WRC, at 8 o'clock tonight. The new broadcast program will be known as the Sunkist Serenaders and will be a regular Wednesday night feature.

An orchestra emphasizing strings and a mixed quartet will provide the music for the new presentation. While the old songs and melodies will be used frequently in the programs, more modern music with a Spanish treatment will be introduced. The songs of the Mexican border and old ballads seldom heard and never published will be introduced to radio listeners for the first time in this series, according to plans.

Elizabeth Mazur, soprano, and Vernon Jacobson, barytone, will again be featured as solo artists with the Jospe string quartet in an "Intimate Musicale" at 8:30 o'clock through WRC. Schubert's "Serenade" and Homer's "Sheep and Lambs" are listed as solos by Miss Mazur. Mr. Jacobson offers Russell's "Vale" and "The Old Road," by Scott.

The Jospe ensemble opens the program with the "Scherzo" from Dohnanyi's "C Minor Piano Quintet," later offering works of Beethoven and Boccherini to round out the musicale.

The Troubadours, radio's pioneer exponents of dance music, will offer a widely varied half hour over WRC at 9 o'clock, including "Who Wouldn't Be Jealous of You?" "If I Had You," "There's a Place in the Sun For You," "My Angeline" and "Maybe This Is Love," from "Three Cheers."

Music from current Broadway hits and a fast-moving program of less modern favorites will comprise the program of the Palmolive hour at 9:30 o'clock tonight. Among the musical comedy numbers will be "Tea for Two" and "I Want to Be Happy," from "No, No, Nanette;" "Just Imagine," from "Good News," and "The Girl Friend.

Olive Palmer's coloratura soprano solos are Rimsky-Korsakow's "Hymn to the Sun" and Cadman's "Land of the Sky Blue Water." With Paul Oliver, tenor, she will be heard in "My Heart Stood Still," from "The Connecticut Yankee;" also in a soprano-contralto duet, "Whispering Hope." Paul Oliver will sing "A Dream," by Bartlett; and Wood's "Brown Bird Singing."

The Slumber music program follows: "Solemn March," from "Oratorio Joshua" (Handel); overture to "Iphigenia in Aulis" (Gluck); bourree, from "Violin Sonata" (Bach); menuet and finale from "Symphony, No. 5" (Haydn); selection from "Lohengrin" (Wagner); "Album Leaf" (Wagner); "Ave Maria" (Schubert), and "Dreaming" (Strauss).

Gene Austin, tenor, will be the star of the La Palina Smoker at 9:30 o'clock tonight from WMAL. There is scarcely a home in any part of the country where Gene Austin's name is not known, for, in addition to being a popular singer, he is the composer of those well-known songs, "When My Sugar Walks Down the Street," "How Come You Do Me Like You Do" and "Voice of the Southland."

Leoncavallo will be the next musical composer to be honored in the "Musical Episode" hour, at 8 o'clock from WMAL. The dramatic incident to be presented will be the witnessing by Leoncavallo of the situation which inspired him to write "Pagliacci." Leoncavallo had a position in a cafe at Montalto, in Italy, where one night he witnessed the same drama among a troupe of players in the cafe, that he later incorporated into his famous opera.

An hour of dance music will close the program at 11 o'clock. Earlier in the evening several short features will be broadcast from the local studio, including Pauline Healy Shook, soprano; Grace Shannon, pianist, and Estelle Hunt Dean, soprano. The Panatrope Hour of Music will be heard at 6 o'clock.

The United States Army Band will open WJSV's evening program, followed by Mack Anthony, barytone; Alec Harris and his musical saw; Chick Godfrey, Singing Leatherneck; the Hilo Boys, the Hawaiian Melody Boys and others.

The Wardman Park Dance Orchestra from 10 o'clock to midnight is WOL's principal offering for the day.

LATE PRICES RALLY FROM FEEBLENESS

RAILS GENERALLY YIELD

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The stock market was inclined to feel somewhat feeble today, but recovered considerably during the session after generous potions of good news were used. More than a score of issues closed at new high levels, although a liberal sprinkling wound up 1 to 10 points lower.

Takings of more than $15,000,000 in gold in London by New York bankers, the largest since the resumption of the flow of the yellow metal in this direction, was particularly stimulating, as it brings the total of the current movement up toward $30,000,000. Call money held at 7 per cent all day, but was available in the outside market at substantial concessions from the official rate. The tone of time money was again somewhat easier.

Aviation and Copper shares led the upturn, responding to the air mail flight of Col. Lindbergh in Central America, another ¼ of a cent increase in the domestic price of copper, and an increase in the annual dividend rate of Anaconda Copper from $6 to $7.

Uneasiness Over Credit.

The uneven tone of the market was ascribed to uneasiness over the credit outlook and professional selling. Call money has held at higher levels this week than was anticipated. While the new gold shipment was greeted enthusiastically in many quarters, it also aroused fears of an increase in the Bank of England's rediscount rate, which would draw funds from the market, and might be followed by a higher rate here.

Trading was moderately quiet, total sales holding close to 4,000,000 shares for the second successive day.

The aviation shares responded to the flight of Col. Lindbergh in a manner reminiscent of the way they were sent soaring by his New York-Paris flight. Wright Aero mounted 20 points to a new peak at 299. Curtiss climbed 7 points to a new top at 173½, and Packard moved up 6 points.

Most of the coppers mounted 3 to 8 points. Anaconda, American Smelting and Howe Sound breaking into new high ground. Webster Eisenlohr, which is reported to have harbored a large short interest, was whirled up more than 17 points.

Other Substantial Gains.

Union Carbide, American Can, American & Foreign Power, Coca Cola, International Business Machine, Chrysler, Timken Roller Bearing and Vanadium made substantial gains. Simmons sold up about 5 points on reports that the directors will institute stock dividends at the March meeting.

Rails generally yielded to profit taking. Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line, Canadian Pacific, New York Central and Nickel Plate sagging 2 to 3 points. Chicago Northwestern shares again touched new highs, however, the preferred advancing 9 points, and Jersey Central added 2 points more to its peak price.

Case Threshing dropped 8 and Chemical Gas & Electric B 10 points. Allied Chemical, DuPont (new), National Biscuit, Mathieson Alkali, Peoples Gas and Macy lost 2 to 5 points.

Foreign exchanges were quiet, with sterling holding around yesterday's levels. The peseta recovered ¼ of a cent.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—General selling out on the part of holders of future deliveries here led to a break in all grain values today at the last. Reports of arrangements to bring liberal amounts of wheat to Chicago from Omaha and corn from Kansas City did much to start the selling movement, and to reveal that, for at least the time being the markets here were without adequate support.

Closing quotations on wheat were weak, 1¾c to 2¼c net lower, corn 1¼c to 1½c off, oats ¼@¾c to ½c down, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a rise of 15c.

Lowest prices of the day were the rule at the finish in every one of the grain pits here, before that, however, that both wheat and corn at Missouri River markets were being sold for shipment to this city, and by two roads. This was displaying an upward trend here. Corn was showing the greater strength, helped by indications of a renewal of corn export demand, which, like that from Great Britain for corn from this country said to be on about a working basis. Evidence of better export call for wheat from North America was also apparent, with world available stocks of wheat exported cut down nearly 6,000,000 bushels as compared with a week ago.

Efforts, however, to realize immediate profits on advances both in corn and wheat were largely responsible for pulling the props from under quotations. Earlier, the two cereals had received considerable upward impetus from forecasts of another cold wave. Advices were at hand, meanwhile, telling of continued heavy feeding of corn on farms, especially in Iowa, and of unlikelihood of any increased movement of the corn crop during February. There were also Nebraska reports of lack of snow covering for wheat and of soil badly blown.

On the other hand, late gossip was current that advances in the corn market had shut off the export demand for corn. An additional bearish factor was announcement that a leading industry which has been buying corn here in good-sized quantities had suddenly withdrawn from the market. Besides, country offerings of corn to arrive here were of fair volume. Oats followed other grain, and reacted after an early bulge.

For the most part, provisions were slightly easier on account of selling for warehouse interests and for packers.

MOST BONDS' PRICES SOFT; TRADING DULL

FEDERAL LIST UNSTEADY

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Prices slipped downward today in the dull trading in the bond market. A few scattered issues, however, made substantial gains in sympathy with stock and favorable trade news, but the recent convertible market leaders fell back on profit taking. Volume of sales declined to $9,616,000, slightly under yesterday's total.

Porto Rican-American Tobacco 6s, which are convertible into Congress Cigar common, were again pushed into new high territory, closing for a net gain of 1¼ points. New Haven convertible 6s were another strong spot, touching a new high at 126, but losing most of their gain under profit taking in the closing dealings.

Anaconda Copper 7s dropped 1½ points despite an increased dividend rate on the common stock and a further advance in red metal. Three other recent leaders in the convertible—Allegheny Corporation 5s, American International 5½s and International Telephone 4½s lost ground.

Utilities as a group sold off, Public Service of New Jersey 4½s slumping nearly 5 points. Other issues to display weakness included Western Union gold 5s and American Natural Gas 6½s, the latter touching a new 1929 low.

Philadelphia Co. gold 5s improved.

Wickwire Steel issues, the convertible 7s rising 2 points, ran contrary to the general trend of the industrial list. Tennessee Copper & Chemical 6s continued their advance under stimulus of approval of a new bond offering and retirement of part of its funded debt. Certain-teed 5½s dropped to a new low at 78 for the year, and International Cement 5s turned heavy in the late dealings.

Italian industrials declined in the mixed foreign list. Pirelli 7s losing 1½ points and Montecatini 7s with warrants a point.

LOUGHRAN WINS DECISION OVER EMANUEL ON COAST

Western Five Second in Series

Business Bows, 26-22, in Final Contest of School Race.

Central in Triumph Over Eastern by 23-22 Score.

By GARRETT WATERS.

IN a brace of games just as closely contested as most of those which have marked the 1929 high school series play, Western yesterday gained undisputed possession of the runner-up position by defeating Business, 26 to 22, while Eastern lost its chance to tie and dropped back to third place by bowing to Central, 23 to 22. This double-header, played on the Tech court, ended the series.

Although Central won the opener from Eastern by a single point, this does not give a true picture of the relative strength of the teams, for the Mount Pleasant Five appeared to have quite an edge until the final stages of the game, when Eastern staged a rally which all but gave it victory. The Western-Business clash was close, for the most part, the Stenographers trailing by but 2 points at the half, 12 to 10, but the team from "across the creek" had much the better of the argument in the final periods.

Coach Sanborn resorted to his old habit of using an army of players for Eastern against Central and none of these performed in the flashy manner which has characterized the team's play in other games. Maybe it was the day or the conditions.

Central Made Ten Field Goals to Five for Eastern.

Eastern played well but Central played better as the final score brings out. Proof of this is that Central made ten baskets to Eastern's five during the entire game, while Central's three good foul tosses overshadowed Eastern's twelve. These twelve foul tosses for Eastern, however, figured largely in that team's futile spurt in the final going.

Central collected a 3 to 2 lead in a slow first quarter when Lampson opened by making good a foul toss, while Romig dribbled down the floor for a "snowbird." Two foul tosses by Harrell gave Eastern its two points.

Fisher made it 5 to 2 for Central when he sank a basket from under the net at the start of the second quarter, but Wood kept Eastern in the running with a dribble and shot for a basket. Fisher's foul toss gave Central a 6 to 4 lead a moment later, but Wood tied things up by half-time with two throws from the 15-foot line.

Missed Free Toss by Cappelli Costs Eastern a Tie.

Lampson put Central into the lead once more after the intermission with a basket from under the net, while Cross increased the advantage to 10 to

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, Va., Feb. 5.—Washington and Lee won its only home game of the week tonight, downing Maryland, 42 to 18. While the Old Liners were holding the Generals to 2 points under their previous low score, the local team was forcing the invaders to accept the lowest count of any opponent so far this season. As a result of tonight's battle, Dick Smith's hardwood artists maintain their "point-a-minute" title, their average for the nine games played being 50 points, and invade Kentucky and West Virginia at the end of the week with their record untarnished.

Both teams were cautious and slow to start tonight, and for a while it looked like the battle would be a repetition of that at College Park Saturday, when Maryland ran neck and neck with the Generals until after the start of the second half.

Washington and Lee Leads, 22-13, at Intermission.

W. & L. pulled away for a 14-4 lead, however, and at half time was holding the advantageous end of a 22 to 13 count. The invaders scored two field goals and one foul in the second half, while the winners were adding 20 points to their total. The crowd yelled for another basket as the end neared, but the Blue and White could not locate the meshes to equal their previous low mark of 44.

Leigh Williams, center, who led the scoring with a dozen points, accumulated 8 in the second half to lead the attack. Capt. Lowry, the Generals' leading scorer, was off form tonight, scoring but one field goal, and Cox caught him during the battle, to make each man's total stand at 120 points.

Gaylor, Madigan and Capt. Dean scored 4 points each to lead the Old Liners, but Shipley's men could not get their attack functioning properly at any time.

Johnson Honor Guest At Men's Club Dinner

Walter Johnson, who has developed into quite a "spell binder" since his appointment as manager of the Nationals, is booked as the feature speechmaker at the "Father and Son Dinner" to be held at 6 o'clock tomorrow night under auspices of the Shepherd Park Men's Club, to be held in the chapel at Georgia and Alaska avenues northwest.

Fans in the Takoma, Silver Spring and Shepherd Park sections are planning to attend in large numbers and those from other sections of the District are invited. Tickets may be obtained at the chapel. As this is the annual "Father and Son" dinner of the club, Walter Johnson, jr., also will be present.

Spring Grid Practice Announced for Harvard

Cambridge, Mass., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Plans to start the Harvard spring football practice on March 18 and continue it for three weeks, were announced by Athletic Director William J. Bingham today when he returned from a Western trip. Bingham said he had several football conferences with Head Coach Arnold Horween in St. Louis.

Horween, Bingham said, will come to Cambridge to take charge of the spring work. The athletic director said that Horween was not prepared to name his assistant coaches and probably would not select them until the spring work was well under way.

Almost the Naked Truth

By JAMES S. COLLINS.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—Too busy, presumably, with its efforts to eradicate cigarette smoking and Sid Terris, the New York State Athletic Commission at its meeting today ignored a violation of its own game laws by Col. John S. Hammond, who has clipped the wings of the Hartz Mountain canary, Max Schmeling, and intends to imprison him for two years or more in the gilded Garden cage.

The white-haired colonel is a kindly man, and undoubtedly will feed his pet a fattening ration of set-ups until he is prime for a championship killing, but the fact remains that he flew in the face of a commission edict in signing up the German heavyweight for more than one bout at a time.

The commission frowns on the practice of tying up a prospect in restraint of trade, but it never seems to frown in the direction of Eighth avenue and Fiftieth street. The rule against guarantees, for example, is held sacred by the commission except where the Garden is concerned.

Richard's Dummy Agreements All Commission Asked.

The late Tex Rickard would show any Tom, Dick or Harry the checks covering flat guarantees that he gave to his performers, and what he was paying Tunney, Heeney, Mandell, McLarnin, &c., was everybody's business but the commission's. All that the complaisant commission asked of Mr. Rickard was that he file with it dummy articles of agreement wherein it was made to appear that the principals were fighting on a percentage basis. Other promoters, however, learned to their cost that the commission did not forbid guarantees just to indulge in its passion for issuing edicts.

One shudders to think what would happen to John the Barber, for example, if he flaunted a commission rule without so much as a "by your leave" to the Messrs. Farley, Muldoon and Brower. But John the Barber is—well, John the Barber, for one thing—and Col. Hammond is head Gardener. Not, of course, that it matters to any one not in the racket.

Schaaf's Manager Says Risko Was Boiled Down for Max.

Phil Schlossberg, former heavyweight champion of the Navy and now manager of Ernie Schaaf, the 19-year-old youngster who whipped Johnny Risko in Boston recently, was one of many observers who predicted that Risko's fight with Schmeling would mark his last appearance on the big time. Nor did Schlossberg base his prediction solely on the fact that his own man had beaten the Clevelander.

"Risko was all washed up when he entered the ring against Schmeling," says Schlossberg. "Anybody who saw him licked by Schaaf and Jimmy Maloney in Boston knew he was not the man he was a year ago. Schaaf had him going twice, but didn't know enough to polish him off. The body beating Ernie gave him, to say nothing of the pounding he got from Godfrey, softened him up some for Schmeling, but that was not all. I have no reason for offering alibis for Risko, but I know

Schaefer Wins Over Grande; Cochran Beats German.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 A.P.).—Young Jake Schaefer, son of Old Jake, the "wizard of billiards," needed all his amazing ability tonight to defeat Felix Grange, French champion, in the round robin tournament for the world 18.2 balkline billiard title. Schaefer won 400 to 305.

Marking his first appearance in the tournament, the former champion came from behind with runs of 51, 46 and 135 in the fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth innings, to head off the challenge of the forceful Frenchman. Grange had the Chicago star trailing, 257 to 292 caroms, in the fifteenth inning, when Felix ran up his high string of the night, 118.

In his next turn at the table Schaefer shot 135 billiards before a difficult cushion shot stopped him, 8 caroms short of the game total of 400. He quickly ran out the winning string in his seventeenth inning after Grange counted 13 in his last try.

The inning score:

Schaefer—1, 2, 48, 4, 4, 0, 2, 1, 27, 51, 11, 0, 9, 51, 46, 135, 8—400.
Grange—7, 3, 41, 3, 78, 21, 2, 0, 7, 1, 2, 0, 7, 2, 118, 13—305.

Cochran Wins, 400 to 283, From Eric Hagenlacher.

Running up a high string of 158, Welker Cochran, of Hollywood, Calif, defeated Eric Hagenlacher, of Germany, 400 to 283, in the afternoon match. Cochran's high run in the eighteenth inning brought him within one carom of 400. He ran out in the next frame.

Cochran cut loose after Hagenlacher took the lead in the seventeenth inning with a run of 85. The German came to the table with the balls in perfect position after Cochran had fouled by failing to drive an easy carom out of balk territory.

When Cochran returned to the table with the count 274 to 241 against him, he loosed the most brilliant play of the two games played so far in the round robin tourney. He nursed the balls in brilliant fashion until he was within one carom of running out of the game but missed an easy one-cushion shot for the final point.

The inning score:

Cochran, 0 3 11 35 0 0 30 22 0 47 0 1 40 29 1 14 8 158 1—400.
Hagenlacher, 40 4 1 19 0 10 1 98 0 1 1 2 0 6 0 6 8 6—283.
High runs—Cochran, 158; Hagenlacher, 98.
Cochran's average, 21 1-19; Hagenlacher's, 15 13-18.

Boston Garden Not to Release Schmeling From O'Kelly Fight

BOSTON, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—After denying New York reports that Max Schmeling, German heavyweight, had been given permission to cancel his Boston bout with Con O'Kelly on February 15, Boston Garden officials today threatened to appeal to boxing commissions generally to suspend him if he failed to fulfill his contract.

"There has been no official release of Schmeling's contract, and fight with O'Kelly will come off on February 15 as scheduled," Huntington R. (Tack) Hardwick, chairman of the Boston Garden's executive committee, declared.

Both Hardwick and Eddie Mack, the garden's boxing promoter, denied that their organization had entered into any kind of an agreement with the Madison Square Garden Corporation regarding Schmeling's release, and both agreed to ask the Massachusetts Boxing Commission to suspend the German in this and every other affiliated State, if he failed to delay his return to Germany until after he had fought O'Kelly in this city.

Schmeling, according to reports, plans to sail from New York on February 15, the day on which he agreed to meet O'Kelly.

American Five Wins, 35-29, Over G. W.

Methodists Pressed to Lead, 21 to 18, at Half Time.

La Favre and Schloss Star for Winners; Snow G. W. Ace.

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY'S Quintet found consolation in defeat last night in the American University gymnasium. American U. won the game, 35 to 29, but in doing so found a much improved George Washington as its opponent.

The contest was in the nature of a return game. George Washington played and handled itself woefully in the first meeting, losing by a one-sided score, but last night it made amends for its poor showing and demonstrated to American U. that it could play basket ball.

And American U. felt the improved form of George Washington. Going into the fray as though it had an easy game on its hands, the Eagle team soon found that it was in for a battle. George Washington five started with a rush and kept up the rush for the entire first half, tying the score three times after American U. had worked itself into the lead. At the intermission, American U. held only a 21 to 18 advantage.

American U. Five Has Slim Margin in First Half.

Fine, Allshouse, and Snow kept a merry tattoo on the rims in keeping George Washington in the running in this first half while it was Snow who featured the team's play in the second half. Snow, in all, scored five baskets and three foul tosses for 13 points.

Jack LaFevre was the big star for American U., aided and abetted by Leon Schloss. LaFevre registered six baskets for 12 points to lead while Schloss counted four baskets and four foul tosses to tie his teammate in the matter of points scored.

The first half which was played very fast and which brought out the new strength of George Washington, was opened by Fine of the latter team when that player sank a basket from under the net for 2 points. He duplicated a moment later to give his team a 4 to 0 lead while Snow increased the advantage to 5 with a foul toss. A similar toss by Lichliter gave American U. its opening score. Schloss brought the Eagles score to 3 with a "snowbird" while Burgess tied the count at 5-all with a long shot from the center of the floor.

Score Changes Hands 3 Times; Methodists Draw Away.

From this point on the lead and the score changed hands three times with Snow tying it at 8-8 once for George Washington and LaFavre putting American U. ahead another time, 13 to 12. Gray tied it on another occasion at 16-16 for George Washington, while Schloss brought American U. into the van shortly after, 19 to 18, with a typical "Schloss" basket. Lichliter for American U. sank a basket from under the net and Allshouse for George Washington duplicated to give the game its 21 to 18 figures at the termination of the half.

George Washington came within 2 points, 24 to 22, at one time after the intermission, but slowly but surely dropped behind as play progressed, although they continually hacked at the rims to keep American U. working at all times before the finish. Kessler, LaFavre and Burgess inserted timely baskets toward the close to put the game on ice for the Eagles.

Stribling to Obey Edict Forbidding Airplaning

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—W. L. Stribling, announced tonight that he will obey Jack Dempsey's injunction against flying an airplane or riding a motorcycle until after his fight with Jack Sharkey here February 27.

"I was going to get a lot of recreation out of my plane before the fight, but it looks like I'll have to use an automobile or 'shank horses' if I want to feel the breeze in my face," the Georgia fighter said. The injunction requested yesterday by Dempsey's attorneys, had not been served on Stribling tonight.

Stribling is doing road work nightly, but will start his ring training at the Miami Beach Kennel Club Friday. In discussing the injunction tonight, Stribling said he was sorry Dempsey had insisted on his staying on the ground.

"I'm feeling fine," he continued, "but I need a little bit of flying now and then to keep me in good trim."

"I don't think there's any doubt but what I'll win the fight," he said, when he was asked his opinion of the possible outcome.

Fordham, Undefeated, Plays C. U. Five Tonight

Washington will be host today to the ranking college basket ball team of the East. Fordham University's Quintet, winner of its last eighteen games, twelve of which were won this season, invades the Brookland Gymnasium for a game with Catholic University's hapless five which has succeeded in winning only one of its nine contests this season.

Georgetown engages the Gallaudet Five in the only other local college game of the night, while Maryland is meeting the Virginia Military Institute at Blacksburg.

Fordham plays the Cardinals tonight fresh from its victory over Loyola last night at Baltimore. The game was a clash of unbeaten teams and the New Yorkers dealt Loyola a 43-to-30 defeat with consummate ease.

NEW GENERATION DISTURBS PROFOUND SERENITY OF BASEBALL OWNERS' MEETING

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—The aging dogs of the magnates of the National Baseball League have trod the slippery flags of Peacock Alley at the Waldorf Astoria for the last time. The magnates held their annual meeting for the ratification of the league's playing schedule for 1929 today.

In the stiff, comfortless chairs along Peacock Alley, which came to be known as Poppycock Alley, in doubtful compliment to the solemn deliberations of the magnates, there sat young things of a new generation, wasting, with their knees crossed and their legs in a variety of shapes, revealed as far north as the knees, at least.

The young things who sat, waiting in the same chairs when the magnates first met at the Waldorf must be grandmothers now, some of them. That was 22 years ago when some of the magnates, who are old boys and beginning to prepare their baseball properties for delivery to their heirs with the least possible tribute to the inheritance laws, had an eye for a well turned ankle, especially after champagne cocktails in the sweep of Dead Man's Curve in the bar.

Reveal Nothing More Than Knee Caps and Well-Turned Calves.

There were dashing females even in 1907, who said "Cut it out," "Sure Mike," and "Twenty three, skiddoo," but I doubt that the most dashing of them ever showed quite as much charm of leg as the young things who sat there today, very youthful and demure and waiting for their fathers, brothers, or fiances, no doubt.

The world is all wrong, apparently. In old Mr. Garry Herrman's gallivanting days he had to buy tickets for a hippy show to see as much limb as the girls displayed in the alley today and old Mr. Anthony Comstock probably tried to close the production. And now Garry is so old that he doesn't even come to the meetings any more.

But I am not lording it over old Garry. In time, no doubt, I will drag myself along some new Poppycock Alley and muse upon the change of times and fashions and the brassiness of the young things as compared with those who sat waiting there today, revealing nothing more than well-turned calves and kneecaps.

Dreyfuss 46 Years in Baseball and Never Caught a Ball.

The younger magnates did something handsome for Mr. Barney Dreyfuss today. The skinny little business man who owns the Pittsburgh firm never seems to grow any older. But he never was much of a hand to spank the bar down at the curve in the old days and blubber: "See, what the boys are, hip-ff, gonna have." So he is still attending the meetings, even the trivial schedule meeting, which the American League abolished as unnecessary, and walking quite spry along Poppycock Alley, looking neither to the right nor left.

The younger magnates became a touch sentimental and elected Mr. Dreyfuss honorary vice president of the league because he was the last active survivor of the original meeting at the Waldorf. For 46 years he has been in baseball, from a beginning in Louisville where Hans Wagner and Tommy Leach played for him. Now they and all his old players who drew the customers who paid the gate receipts are gone.

No Man Ever Hurt Punching Keys of Cash Register.

Garden Bans Broadcasting Of Sharkey-Stribling Bout

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb 5 (A.P.). The Stribling-Sharkey fight at Flamingo Park Arena will not be broadcast over radio, it was announced today by W. F. Carey, vice president and general manager of Madison Spare Garden Corporation. Carey would not amplify his statement to give reasons for the decision until later.

"Baby" Stribling, W. L.'s younger brother, and Andy Callahan, a member of the Sharkey camp, have been signed for one of the preliminaries to the main battle on February 27, Jack Dempsey announced today. The pair have contracted to enter the ring at 138 pounds as junior welterweights.

Stribling today moved up the schedule on his road work on a local golf course to 5 o'clock, so that he might fill a dinner engagement. Sharkey spent most of the day on the golf links, although he took out time enough to go through a light workout at his training quarters for the benefit of news cameramen.

Canzoneri-Sangor Set For Ring Bout Tonight

Chicago, Feb. 5 (United Press.).—Tony Canzoneri and Joey Sangor tonight announced themselves ready for Wednesday's ten-round bout, which will bring them together in the first of the battles Promoter Jim Mullen has planned to eliminate the junior lightweight title.

Mullen plans to conduct an elimination series in which both Tod Morgan, junior lightweight champion, and Andry Routis featherweight champion, will participate. The final bout would be for the featherweight championship.

Canzoneri is favored slightly to win from Sangor. Tony has a deceptive style of infighting which wreaks havoc with an opponent's body and there are many who believe Sangor will not be able to keep him away. However, Sangor has plenty of backers.

Lack of Sportsmanship In Grid Stands, Says Yost

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Football players "are infinitely more sportsmanlike than are the spectators," said Fielding H. Yost, director of athletics at the University of Michigan, speaking today before the Sportsmanship Brotherhood at the Town Hall Club on "More Sports and Sportsmanship."

"Before intercollegiate athletics can mean all they should mean," he declared, "spectators, students, critics and school authorities must accept the word of the officials as final. So long as spectators object to the ruling of officials they are not educated to the proper degree of sportsmanship."

Yost also registered hearty disapproval of students in the stands who criticize an athlete for mistakes made "under the stress of a big game with 50,000 pairs of eyes focused upon him."

"Nations have succeeded in democratic government in almost exact proportion to their participation in competitive games and athletics," the speaker said in conclusion.

St. John's Five Routs Baltimore U., 40-22

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Feb. 5.—Led by Bob MacCartee, star basket ball player from Washington, St. John's College routed the Baltimore U. Five here tonight, 40-22. MacCartee scored five field goals and a like number of fouls in the first half. St. John's used its substitutes in the second half.

BRENTWOOD HAWKS WIN.

The Brentwood Hawks, led by Wanley who scored 18 points, defeated the Peck Memorial Five last night, 39-30.

Sharkey in First Work For Stribling Battle

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 5 (United Press).—Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight, had his first workout here today for his fight with Young Stribling February 27.

He divided eight rounds between rope skipping, punching light and heavy bags and shadow boxing. Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, said workouts would be held Wednesday and Thursday and then Sharkey would go to Tampa to appear in a three-round exhibition Friday night. Jack Dempsey also will go to Tampa.

Sharkey's training quarters are on the apron of the Miami Beach Dog Track, unprotected from the sun. Sharkey said he liked the sun after his workout, commenting on his eighteen months in the tropics as a sailor.

Heydler to Shift Dates For Sunday Ball in Hub

New York, Feb. 5 (United Press).The 1929 National League schedule, drafted weeks ago, was adopted officially at the annual meeting here today. The magnates voted to allow President John Heydler to make any necessary changes in the schedule which may grow out of the Sunday baseball problem at Boston.

The Braves have not yet obtained a permit to play Sunday baseball, but it is expected that the license will be granted at the next meeting of the Boston city council.

Barney Dreyfuss, of Pittsburgh, was elected to the office of honorary vice president. The National League previously had combined the offices of president, vice president and treasurer.

Only one new umpire appeared on the 1929 staff as announced by President Heydler. He is C. A. Majorkurth, who officiated in the Pacific Coast League last season. The 1929 staff is composed of twelve men.

Profits of Golf Small, Judge Told by Hagen

Los Angeles, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Golf is all right for pleasure, but not so good for making money, Walter Hagen, professional, told Superior Court Judge Marshall McComb here today.

At the time he had a separate maintenance agreement with his wife, Edna Hagen, under which she seeks to collect $8,000, he was making considerable money selling Florida real estate, he said, but added that he lost that job and now must depend on his golf income. He had asked that the agreement be set aside, but the court ordered Mrs. Hagen's suit brought to trial.

Phil Scott Challenges Heeney To Fight for "World's" Title

LONDON, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Phil Scott's financial backer today offered to post side stakes of £2,000 for a fight for the world heavyweight title between Scott and Tom Heeney, the New Zealand blacksmith. The fight would be staged in England during the second or third week of May. The offer was made to Bernard Mortimer, one of Heeney's numerous managers, who has cabled Heeney in New York for a decision.

Scott's backer, W. J. Ward said the Heeney-Scott fight must be held in England. Scott himself declared he wants to meet the Australian here.

"I believe it would be a great boost for the fight game in this country," he said, "for two British contenders for the world's title to meet."

Scott considers himself the most likely contender for the heavyweight title by virtue of a decision over Heeney. The Australian, as Tunney's last challenger, is considered the logical claimant of the world's title itself, according to British fight followers, now that Tunney has retired.

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Charley Harvey, Tom Heeney's American manager, when informed today of the offer made in behalf of Phil Scott for a "world's championship" fight in England between Scott and Heeney, said "Heeney would be glad to meet him."

"I am not much interested in the side bet laid by Scott's backer, though," Harvey added. "What I am interested in is the gate. Provided the terms are all right for Heeney, the fight may be arranged."

Champ Beats Young Foe in Limit Bout

Loughran Jabs Way to Victory; Knocked Down in Seventh.

Champion, Displeased With Judges, Threatens to Withdraw.

By JAMES S. SHEEHY,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 5 (U.P.).—Tommy Loughran, the Philadelphia light-heavyweight champion, won a ten-round decision from Armand Emanuel, of San Francisco, before more than 10,000 fans, who packed the Olympic Auditorium here tonight.

Loughran, the master boxer, spared Emanuel with a fancy assortment of lefts and rights to win a decisive victory and earn the right to meet Francisco Uzcudun, or possibly a shot at the winner of the Sharkey-Stribling bout.

Both fighters were over the light-heavyweight limit.

The bout was delayed more than an hour by the refusal of Loughran to enter the ring because he was dissatisfied with the two judges selected. Earlier in the evening he had thrown a bombshell into the plans by threatening to cancel the bout. At the last minute he agreed to fight with Referee Abe Roth as the sole judge of the outcome. Los Angeles newspaper men had been selected by the promoters as the judges.

The Philadelphian was the aggressor throughout and he consistently beat Emanuel with a stinging left to the jaw and body. His years of ring experience carried him to victory and in the late rounds he had the Jewish boy's rister missing frequently.

Blocks Armand's Attack With Dazzling Exhibition.

Loughran took the first two rounds by a shade but the San Francisco boy came back in the third and connected several times with rights to the head and found the same target with a straight left.

The fourth was even but Loughran captured the fifth and sixth with comparative ease. Loughran stayed in the center of the ring and made Emanuel circle him.

Late in the seventh round Emanuel caught Loughran off balance and floored him, but it was more of a slip than a knockdown.

The light-heavy-weight champion took the seventh, eighth and ninth rounds and gave a dazzling exhibition of blocking off his rival's attack.

New York, Feb. 5 (United Press).—Big Bill Tilden may make his first appearance on the amateur courts at the Heights Casino tournament, Brooklyn, starting next Saturday, if he is reinstated by the United States Lawn Tennis Association at the meeting of the executive committee at Boston Thursday.

Tilden is in New York, filling a stage engagement, and has tentatively accepted an invitation to play in the Brooklyn tournament if the ban on him is lifted by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Raceland Track Sale Held Legal by Court

Greenup, Ky., Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Sale of the Raceland track, near here, to the S. & S. Lyric Co., of New York, for $300,000 was confirmed today by Circuit Judge Halbert. He also ruled that betting at the track had been legal under Kentucky's pari-mutuel law.

The State of Kentucky had opposed confirmation of the foreclosure sale of the plant, owned by the Tri-State Racing Association, and officially appraised the plant at $400,000. Charges that the pari-mutuel betting was illegal also had been made.

Negro Fighter Dies Following Knockout

Seattle, Wash., Feb. 5 A.P.).—A boxing card was abruptly ended here tonight when Eddie Cartwright, Portland negro, died shortly after he was knocked out by Cecil Geysel, of Seattle.

Cartwright went down for the fatal knockout after a series of blows to the chin. Efforts to revive him in the ring after he was counted out failed. In his dressing room physicians and firemen attempted to revive him with a pulmotor.

Geysel was held for questioning. It was the third round of the fight.

BILL DRAFTED TO PROHIBIT MUTUELS IN MARYLAND

Measure Hits Wagering at Tracks

Plan Would Prohibit All Gambling After June 1 in State.

Bill Has Support of "Church People" and Labor Federation.

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 5.—The operation of pari-mutuel machines and gambling of all kinds in or around the race tracks of the State would be prohibited after June 1 by a bill which has been prepared for introduction in the House of Delegates. A heavy fine and mandatory prison sentence are provided for violations.

The measure was drafted for Delegate Irvin C. Hamilton, of Allegany County, who is president of the Maryland Federation of Labor. He said it had the solid backing of the State Federation as well as the American Federation of Labor, "church people" and a number of influential persons.

$5,000 Fine and Year in Jail For Violations Proposed.

Under the bill the officers of the corporations owning race tracks are held jointly responsible for enforcement of the antibetting law. Violators are liable to a fine of $5,000 and a sentence of one year in jail. The license of the track where the offense occurred also would be suspended for a year. The text of the bill follows:

"On and after June 1, 1929, it shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to set up any machine for the purpose of receiving or paying money on horse races at any of the racing tracks in the State of Maryland. It shall also be unlawful for an individual in or around any race track to accept any money for the purpose of betting on any horse race, and gambling of all kinds (as defined by Webster's Dictionary) is prohibited in or around any of the race tracks.

Sponsor Confident Bill Will Be Passed by House.

"The officers of the corporation owning the race tracks shall be held jointly responsible for the enforcement of this section on the track controlled by them and shall be amenable to the penalties for any violation.

"Any person or corporation violating the provisions of this section shall, on conviction, be subject to a fine of $5,000 and be sentenced to one year in jail and the license of the track where the offense took place shall be suspended for the term of one year."

Reports have been current since the present legislative session began that an antirace track betting bill would be introduced, but the form and the backing were not known. Mr. Hamilton said he felt confident that his bill would be passed by the house.

register, and Mr. Dreyfuss, after 46 years in baseball, has yet to catch a ball. In his branch of the business as in the managing branch of the prize fight industry a man can last a long time if he keeps away from the violent moistures.

Mr. James J. Johnston is as good today as he was in 1900, although some of his fighters have been thinking from right to left for many years. Like Mr. Johnston Mr. Dreyfuss has been crouching on the steps for 46 years, yelling, "Tear in to him; he ain't hurting us." His fingers are remarkably straight after 46 years in the national game.

The Waldorf Astoria will be torn down within the year and there will be time enough to recall the congestion at the curve of the bar where the magnates, all but Mr. Dreyfuss, used to mumble, "See what the boys are, hip-ƒ, gonna have."

WILDERMUTH TO MEET WILLIAMS IN 3 SPRINT RACES

Star Dashmen To Clash in Series

Both Entered for 40, 50, 60 Yard Races at N. Y. Saturday.

Canadian Flash "Beat Gun" at Boston, Is Charge Made.

A DECISIVE test of the sprinting ability of Percy Williams, Canada's Olympic hero, and Karl Wildermuth, Georgetown flash, recently named All-American 60-yard dash man by the A. A. U., is scheduled for next Saturday night, when the two will be among the field in a series of dashes which will feature the Millrose A. A. games at New York.

The Millrose meet, regarded as the outstanding event of the metropolitan indoor season, will bring Williams and Wildermuth together in three sprints, at 40, 50 and 60 yards. They will be the favorites among a field that will include the pick of the country's sprinters, among whom will be Bob McAllister, the "Flying Cop" of New York, who took Wildermuth's measure in a sprint series two weeks ago.

The meet will mark Williams' second race in the United States following his double Olympic triumph at Amsterdam last summer, when he outraced America's best in sensational fashion to win both the 100-meter and 200-meter events for Canda. Last Saturday in the Boston Athletic Association games the slender Canadian demonstrated faultless form in his debut before American critics and unleashed a powerful burst of speed to lead Wildermuth across the wire by 2 feet in a 40-yard dash.

Williams Beat Wildermuth at Boston by Late Spurt.

It had been expected in many quarters that the Georgetown flyer would head the Canadian in a 40-yard race owing to the remarkable speed with which Wildermut gets away from the mark, but Williams caught him 5 yards from the tape at Boston and the 2-foot margin of victory indicated the tremendous power in the Canadian's finish.

The 60-yard distance has been Wildermuth's best event for the past two years. The Georgetown junior has been recognized as the indoor champion at that distance in both 1927 and 1928, and Williams will be asked to beat America's best when he engages Wildermuth at 60 yards.

The series of sprints indicates that they will afford a conclusive test of the Canadians' ability. It was said after the Boston meet that Williams "beat the gun" even though he had to come from behind to win the race. Williams was off to fast starts in both his Olympic victories and it was not charged then that he "beat the starter," but the cry was set up following his victory in his American debut.

O'Reilly Says Canadian Will Have No Chance to "Beat Gun."

Coach John D. O'Reilly, of Georgetown, yesterday declared that Williams would have no chance to "beat the gun" against expert starters at the Millrose games and that if the Canadian "beat the gun" in all three of the 40, 50, and 60 yard sprints then he was truly a more remarkable runner than he is credited with being.

Georgetown will be heavily represented in the Millrose games which will attract the best performers in the East. Besides the mile relay team which lost to New York University last Saturday at Boston, the Hilltop will enter its Freshman quintet in a medley race. Leo Sexton, decathlon hope of the Hilltoppers, has been entered in the shot put and high jump. Bert Adelman, shot put ace, will also compete as will Eric Kjellstrom, crack hurdler.

Jim Kennedy, sensational Georgetown miler, has been entered in two meets during the next five days but will forego the Millrose games. He will race in the mile at the Newark A. C. tomorrow and will enter the three-quarter event in the Manhattan A. C. games on Monday.

Gerber and Narlesky Sign Red Sox Contracts

Boston, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—The signed contracts of shortstops Walter Gerber and William Narlesky arrived today, Bob Quinn, president of the Boston Red Sox, announced.

Gerber was a regular last season and Narlesky was purchased from the Mobile club in the Southern League. Beside this pair, the Red Sox will have two others trying for the shortstop position when the training season starts at Bradenton, Fla. Grant Gillis and Bob Reeves, who came from Washington in the Buddy Myer trade, are both anxious to succeed Gerber, Quinn said.

Sid Terris Is Cleared In Fight Investigation

New York, Feb. 5 (United Press).—The investigation of the recent Sid Terris-Babe Herman bout ended today when the New York State Athletic Commission gave Terris the check, which has previously been held up.

Terris entered the ring a 6-to-1 favorite over the California lightweight only to be knocked out in the sixth round after leading all the way. "Was Herman really trying?" Commissioner Jame. Farley asked Johnny Keyes, Herman's manager. "Well, he knocked out Terris," Keyes answered. Farley couldn't get around that answer and the investigation ended.

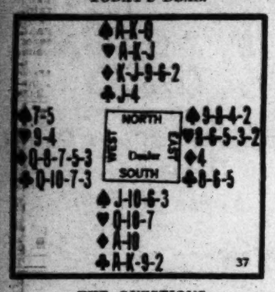
TODAY'S DEAL.



THE QUESTIONS.

1. What should the bidding be at Auction?
2. What should the bidding be at Contract?
3. What should the play be to the first trick?

THE ANSWERS.

1. At Auction, South should bid one No Trump, which would obtain the contract. North is so strong that a preempting jump is unnecessary.
2. At Contract the bidding should be: South one No Trump, West pass, North six No Trumps. South bids one No Trump with four suits stopped and a count of 15—two more than enough for the declaration. North, with a count of 21 (no Tens being included in his count), has the requisite strength to jump one No Trump to six. When jumping from one to more than three do not count Tens; jump to four with a count of 16, to five with 19, to six with 21 and to seven with 26. There are some who would hesitate about jumping partner's one No Trump to six with an unstopped suit in the hand, but with the requisite count of 21 (without Tens) there is no need to be nervous on that score because the partner must have that suit.
3. To the first trick West would lead the Five of Diamonds; Dummy would play the Deuce; East the Four and South would win the trick with the Ace. South wins with the Ace instead of with the Ten, so that late in the hand, when leading that suit, he will be able to overtake in the Dummy and make at least two more Diamond tricks. As a matter of fact, South is looking forward to the possibility of a squeeze in the hand. The Declarer is sure of twelve tricks and hopes for a possible thirteenth by aid of the squeeze. As West happens to have the Queen of Clubs this squeeze is obtainable. The Declarer leads four rounds of Spades and three rounds of Hearts, and the three discards forced from the West hand make it necessary for that hand to unguard either Diamonds or Clubs.

Animals of Long Ago.

III. "FLYING LIZARDS."

AMONG the interesting creatures of long ago are those which we call "flying lizards." Their remains prove that they had wings, but the wings had no feathers.

Flying Lizards "on the Wing."

Flying lizards were of many sizes. Some were as small as sparrows. Others were the size of hawks, and still others were larger than any bird which flies at the present time. Their bones were thin and light, but very strong. It is not known just how they flew. Probably they sailed most of the time. When they did flap their wings their flight was more like that of a bat than of a bird.

The largest flying creature of the present time is the albatross; but it does not measure more than 12 feet from the tip of one wing to the tip of the other. Some of the flying lizards were 20 feet from wing-tip to wing-tip! Their bodies were not large, however, and it seems that no flying lizard ever weighed more than 25 pounds.

One interesting thing about the flying lizard is the history of its "little fingers." Its ancestors are believed to have been lowly lizards, crawling on the ground. They had front feet or "hands" with five "fingers" of sensible size. No doubt they used to jump into the air for insects.

In time webs grew between the little fingers and the body. Those webs helped the lizards flap the air when jumping from the ground.

Scientists believe that the "little" fingers kept growing longer and longer, until they were far longer than the others. The webs grew with the finger bones. By and by this kind of lizard found that it could jump into the air and stay there by flapping the big webs. The little fingers had become the outside bones of wings!

Flying lizards of the present time do not have wings, and are not of the same family as those of which I speak. The present flying lizards glide on the air, using webs stretching from leg to leg.

I WENT FROM ONE DEAL TO ANOTHER, ALWAYS PLAYING FOR BIG STAKES, ALWAYS WINNING, UNTIL WHEN STILL A VERY YOUNG MAN, I WAS A MILLIONAIRE — THEN I LEARNED THAT MONEY DID NOT BRING HAPPINESS? —

ENOUGH MONEY IS A BLESSING, TOO MUCH IS A CURSE. I FOUND ITS LOAD OF RESPONSIBILITIES TOO HEAVY FOR THE SHOULDERS OF A YOUNG MAN WHO WANTED TO ENJOY LIFE — SO I DECIDED TO BECOME POOR AGAIN.

I TOOK MY FORTUNE TO THE TABLES OF ALL THE WORLD-FAMOUS GAMBLING CASINOS AND PLAYED RECKLESSLY — BUT MY PHENOMENAL LUCK HELD, AND I WON.....

THEN I TRIED STOCK SPECULATION, MAKING FANTASTIC, FOOLISH INVESTMENTS, LITERALLY THROWING MONEY AWAY — BUT THE TOUCH OF MIDAS REMAINED, AND IN TWO YEARS I INCREASED MY CAPITAL TEN-FOLD..... 2-6
Poor Mr. X! He just couldn't get poor! Aren't you sorry for him?

Revenue Freight Loading.

Loading of revenue freight for the week ended January 26 totaled 926,188 cars, an increase of 23,524 cars over the corresponding week in 1928, but a decrease of 17,691 cars under the same week in 1927, according to the statement prepared yesterday by the car service division of the American Railway Association.

Compared with the preceding week, this was a decline of 5,692 cars, with decreases being reported in the total loading of grain and grain products, live stock, coal and coke. All other commodities, however, showed increases compared with the same freight.

Miscellaneous freight loading for the week totaled 320,077 cars; coal loading, 209,453 cars; ore loading, 8,567 cars; coke loading, 12,652 cars, each representing an increase over the corresponding week in 1928. Grain and grain products loading amounted to 47,938 cars; live stock, 26,836 cars; merchandise less than carload lot freight, 240,826 cars; forest products, 59,839 cars, in each case a decrease under the same week last year.

Loading of revenue freight in 1929, by weeks, compared with the corresponding periods in the two previous years, were as follows:

Ruling Satisfies Banks.

General satisfaction was expressed at the various banks yesterday upon the decision of Justice Josiah A. Van Orsdel, of the District Court of Appeals, who on Monday ruled that a refund of $18,874.43 is due the Riggs National Bank in the test case filed with respect to the inclusion of Government bond interest in the gross earnings tax return.

On the advice of the taxation committee of the District of Columbia Bankers Association, virtually every member bank in the city had paid this tax under protest when it last came due. Should the District Commissioners decide not to carry the matter to the highest court, Justice Van Orsdel's ruling will mean that each of these will have a valid claim for a refund corresponding to that which the Riggs National Bank will draw.

Guided by counsel of Frank J. Hogan, attorney for the District Bankers Association, and also counsel for Riggs in the test case just decided, the taxation committee last summer provided special forms on which each of the member banks might file their June 30 returns under protest. Given heart by the decision of Justice Stafford, of the District Supreme Court, last May in favor of the Riggs, the member banks this year presented a united front in the matter, pending the appeal.

In these forms the banks contended that the following items for which they were assessed were under the law "nontaxable:"

Interest on bonds, notes and certificates of indebtedness issued by the United States Government, nontaxable as to principal and interest, with two exceptions.

Interest on State, municipal and county bonds issued by States and political subdivisions of the United States.

Dividends on stock of Federal Reserve banks.

Interest on Federal farm loan bonds.

Interest on bonds of the War Finance Corporation.

Interest on United States Panama bonds.

Interest on bonds issued by the governments of the territorial or insular possessions of the United States.

New Insurance Now a Barometer.

With nearly three cents out of every dollar of the American income being expended for life insurance premiums, the writing of new life insurance has come to be a barometer of business and economic conditions, according to Gage P. Wright, president of the Business Economic Digest.

Life insurance, he said, has now reached a development where it may be considered almost a "consumer commodity." During 1929, he predicted, the amount of life insurance in force in the United States will pass $100,000,000,000. Life insurance effective at the end of 1928 was approximately $95,000,000,000, according to figures computed by Dr. W. A. Herridge.

New Hibbs Boardroom Opened.

Carrying to completion interior alterations which have been in progress at W. B. Hibbs & Co., the management has opened a spacious new boardroom at the rear of the first floor, double the size of the old one, finished in walnut, and equipped with new boards carrying the complete New York stock quotations. Seats, removed for want of space from the former quarters, have been reinstalled in the new, providing ample accommodation for the throngs of clients and spectators which daily frequent the room.

New Safe Deposit Boxes Installed.

John M. Riordon, executive vice president of the Bank of Commerce & Savings, announced yesterday that 400 new safe deposit boxes are being installed in the institution's vault. With the demand for the boxes exceeding the supply, the bank for some time has maintained a waiting list in connection with its safe deposit department. The present additions will meet the demand for the present, Mr. Riordon said.

Many of our readers have failed to avail themselves of the charge account which have been opened for them by the classified department. Pick up your phone, call Main 4205 and say "Charge it" to the young lady who takes down your advertisement.

New York Bankers Import More Gold

London to Ship $15,700,000 in Few Days Aboard Fast Liners.

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Approximately $15,700,000 in gold was engaged in London for the account of New York bankers today, the single day's takings exceeding the total of previous engagements of about $13,000,000 on the present movement.

The first gold to be imported from England since last fall, a shipment of $7,500,000, arrived last week, and $5,500,000 is expected on the Majestic tomorrow. Virtually all of the gold taken today will be shipped on the liners Mauretania and Paris, sailing tomorrow, and will arrive next week, swelling the total movement to $28,700,000.

The largest consignments today were $5,000,000 for the Irving Trust Co. and $3,700,000 for Brown Brothers. The shipments have resulted in the discount on sterling of more than 1½ cents a pound, which enables bankers to make a substantial profit whenever fast liners are available to bring the metal.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—An early decline under renewed liquidation, which apparently was influenced by lower Liverpool cables, was followed by rallies on trade buying and covering in the cotton market today. After selling off to 19.58 early, May sagged to 19.60 and closed at 19.66. The general market closed firm at a net decline of 1 point on March, but generally 1 to 9 points net higher.

The market opened steady at a decline of 3 to 7 points in response to the disappointing Liverpool cables and rather unfavorable Manchester trade advices. March sold off to 19.52. July to 19.24 and new October contract to 18.97 in the early trading, or about 6 to 7 points net lower, under further liquidation of old long accounts and some Southern and local pressure.

Lower prices seemed to bring in more trade buying, particularly below 19.60 for May. After the initial offerings had been absorbed, prices turned steadier. Trade interests brought March at a discount of about 6 or 7 points under May, which helped to relieve the market of near-month pressure.

Offerings were comparatively light during the middle of the day. March sold up to 19.63, July to 19.37 and the new October contract to 1910, making net advances of about 3 to 6 points. Demand tapered off on this bulge and prices reacted partially in the later trading. March sold back to or a shade under the early lows. Other months just about lost their advances, but the market stiffened again somewhat in the last few minutes on renewed covering and talk of an improved technical position.

Cloing prices were at about the best figures of the day on the new crop positions and within 3 or 4 points of the best on the old crop months. Liquidation of March contracts continued more or less steadily throughout the day. At the close March was 8 points under May, compared with a difference of 6 points at the close of yesterday. The widening of the March difference was accompanied by talk of further arrivals of cotton here from the South, presumably for delivery.

Private cables reported that trade calling and scale-down buying had absorbed liquidation in Liverpool and said there was only a limited inquiry for cloth, with yarns freely offered.

Port receipts today, 28,930. United States port stocks, 2,174,511. Exports, 36,313, making 5,774,316 this season.

What the Elementary Schools of Washington Are Doing Educationally

XVII. MUSIC.

Aims and Purposes.

The aims of music instruction in our schools is to provide for the children a fair background and experience in music; to build up in them an intelligent appreciation that leads naturally to an increasing love and demand for the finest music that suits their stage of development; to guide and stimulate them to grow in their ability to recognize, judge and select fine music which they can perform in the school, the home, the church and the community; to impart knowledge and develop a reasonable degree of skill in reading the simplest songs that children love to sing. It is our purpose to foster group singing, to discover special talent and provide instrumental training in the upper four elementary grades; to foster vocal and instrumental ensemble performance because of its socializing force, its art value to the community, and because it indicates to pupils a means of worthy leisure time employment.

Methods of Instruction.

The music that is presented to our children is of two kinds; first, songs of the finest art quality, which they sing from their books—based upon the universal folk songs, standard hymns and art songs written for children by master composers; and, secondly, fine, but simple, masterpieces which are sung or played for them, and their attention directed, in an informal way, to the form and design, to the rythm, to the beautiful melody or the simple harmony, through which children are stimulated to self expression in creating their own responses. As the children listen to fine music, they are guided in their effort to set up standards by which they can judge and select the best music for their programs. For this purpose, a list of beautiful songs for sacred, patriotic and general occasions is assigned to each grade. In all grades, the music program revolves about the classroom work, which, in turn, grows out of the needs and interests of the children. At the point where a group of children exhibits the need and interest, the pupils begin, in grades IV, V, and VI, to teach them to read music, by presenting a few simple songs that lay a foundation for more advanced music reading. This is done in order to insure proper growth, from grade to grade, to meet individual needs and interests, and to free our children, to the fullest extent of their capacity, for reading and interpreting the fine music that they have learned to love. Each year, children, who show special ability and talent, are given instrumental lessons in classes after school hours, under the auspices of the Music department, with the Community Center Department cooperating.

Time.

The time allotted to music in our schools compares favorably with that in forty-eight other representative cities of over 100,000 population. The average time in the other cities referred to is 452 minutes per week for the six elementary grades, while in Washington, there is a total of 435 minutes per week. The apparent time shortened in the latter is more than compensated by the practice here of linking the music program with the social studies, for better emphasis.

Results.

We have been able, in a general way, to check upon the results of the teaching of music by applying the standards of performance which we have set up, and by noting the ease with which music on programs for public and school affairs is being prepared without borrowing time from the other subjects. It is to be noted that musical programs of decided musical worth and high social value are rendered by large groups of children of the different school levels, to the delight and entertainment of their parents and the patrons of the schools. This fact is evidenced by the enthusiasm and happiness with which children enter into the Thanksgiving, Christmas, Easter and May Day programs and plays, which are mere samples of the enrichment that is brought to the personality and every-day experiences of our children through this fine art subject. Objective tests, based upon our local music programs are being constructed, and will be used to measure, more definitely than we now can measure, the results of instruction in music, and as a basis for discovering special talent and ability and for grouping our pupils for better teaching.

SENATE BILL GIVES EXTRA MILLION FOR FUNDS OF DISTRICT

Report Shows $10,000,000 Total as U. S. Share of Capital Upkeep.

PUBLIC SCHOOL AID ADDED TO MEASURE

Teachers' College Proposal One of 3 Amendments to Be Offered.

A Federal contribution of $10,000,000 is provided in the District of Columbia appropriation bill as it was reported to the Senate yesterday by the appropriations committee. This is $1,000,000 more than the Federal contribution recommended by the House.

The total of the bill now is $38,465,415, which is $252,265 more than it carried when passed by the House. The District would pay all but $10,000,000.

Of the sum added by the Senate appropriations committee, $144,000 is for the public schools and $108,900 is for additional street repair work.

When the bill is taken up in the Senate within the next few days, Senator Bingham (Republican), of Connecticut, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee that is handling the measure, will offer three amendments from the floor.

Three Amendments Proposed.

One of these will provide that the two normal schools here be converted into teachers colleges to give a four-year instead of a two-year teachers' course. This change was strongly advocated by school officials.

In reporting out the bill, the Senate committee struck out a provision throwing open 75 per cent of the teachers' positions here to teachers from the various States. However, it is expected that this provision, or at least a modification of it, will go back when the bill goes to conference.

The committee also struck out a House provision requiring the Board of Education to convert the present Business High School into a colored elementary school when a new high school building is completed.

The committee inserted an item of $110,000 for a site for a new elementary school for colored pupils in the Northeast section.

When the bill comes up, Senator Bingham will propose an item of $150,000 for an additional building at the Tuberculosis Hospital for the use of tubercular children.

In rewriting the bill the Senate committee, in addition to providing $110,000 for a site for a colored elementary school, provided $34,000 for the employment of additional school teachers in the District.

Other increases provided in the bill follow:

For a motor field wagon for the highways department, $265; for sewers in the vicinity of Michigan avenue and Thirteenth place, $12,000; for a stenographer for an associate justice of the District Supreme Court, $2,600; for Children's Hospital, $4,000.

For street repairs and paving in the Northwest section: Western avenue, Forty-first street to Chevy Chase circle, $21,000; Tunlaw road, Thirty-seventh street to Beecher street, $10,800; Benton street, Tunlaw road to Huidekoper place, $7,400; Observatory place, Benton street, Tunlaw road to Huidekoper $1,600; Eighth street, Tuckerman street to Underwood street, $6,200; Tewkesberry street, Seventh street t Eighth street, $5,400.

Paving in Northeast.

For paving in Northeast Washington: Douglas street, Queens Chapel road to Twenty-second street to Twenty-third street, $5,000; Neal street, Bladensburg road to Holbrook street, $6,500; Newton street, Rhode Island avenue to Eastern avenue, $14,000; Myrtle avenue, Central avenue to Walnut street, $12,800; Evarts street, Twentieth street to Twenty-second street, $8,800; Summit lane, T street to Todd place, $2,900.

For paving in Southeast: Twenty-third street, Minnesota avenue to Q street, $6,500.

Street repair items, which had been approved by the House, but which were stricken from the bill by the Senate committee, were as follows:

Northwest section—Upton street, Thirty-eighth street to Wisconsin avenue, $3,900; Forty-second street, Jenifer street to Military road, $9,900; Eighteenth street, Allison street to Webster street, $4,900.

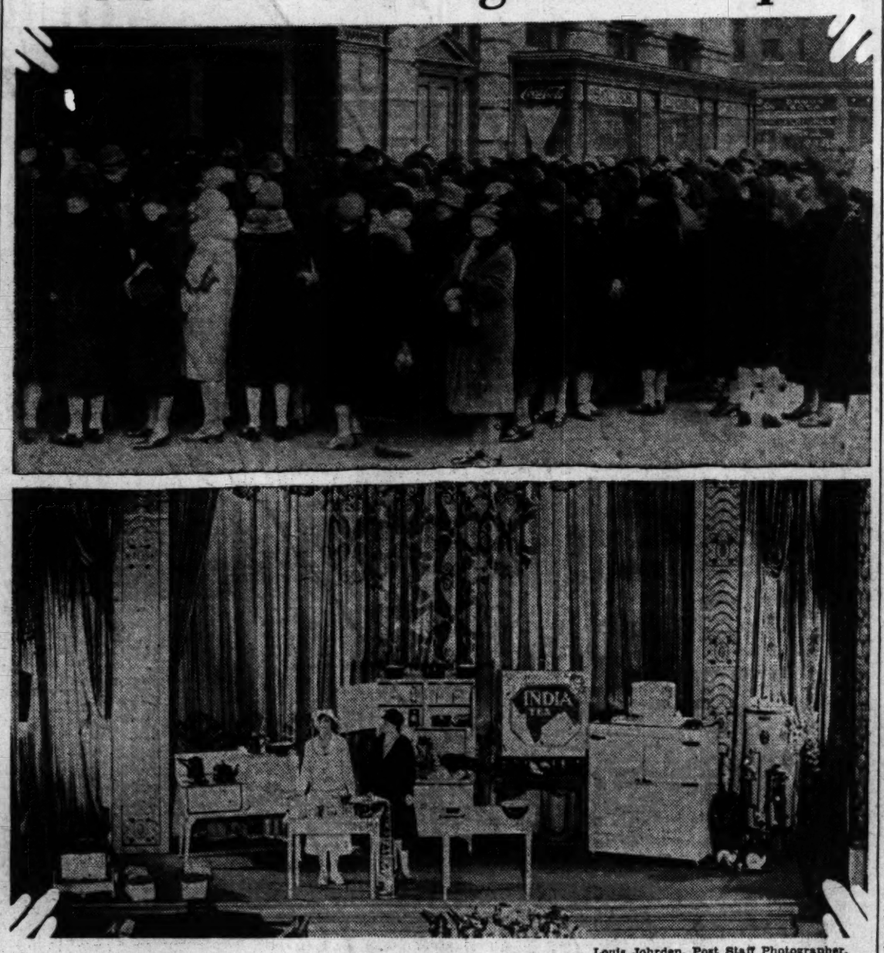
The committee also struck out an item of $3,800 for the salary of a business manager of the District repair shop.

Another provision that went out was one fixing a limitation on the amount that may be paid to policemen mounted on their own horses, motorcycles or bicycles. With it went a provision which would prohibit the sale of automobile tags to motorists until their personal taxes are paid.

Under the terms of an amendment that is to be offered by Senator Bingham, the Washington Railway & Electric Co. will be required to pay for part of the paving on the Anacostia Bridge.

The committee did not provide the $165,000 for salary raises for District employes, which had been demanded by Representative Casey (Democrat), of Pennsylvania.

1,500 Women Fill Ambassador As Post Cooking School Opens



Louis Johrden, Post Staff Photographer.

Views at The Washington Post Cooking School. Upper—A portion of the group who attended. Lower—A view of the stage, with Mrs. Francis T. Northcross, the director, in white apron and cap, and Mrs. Philip S. Smith, president of the Twentieth Century Club, who introduced her.

Nearly 1,500 housewives and mothers, business and club women and social leaders, all interested in the American woman's responsibility of home making, filled the Ambassador Theater yesterday afternoon at the opening session of The Washington Post Cooking School, conducted by Mrs. Frances Northcross. There were many girls present, including brides and those who soon expect to assume the duties of home making.

Mrs. Northcross was introduced by Mrs. Philip Sidney Smith, member of the Washington School Board, who complimented The Washington Post and the cooperating merchants and manufacturers on the service to the people of the National Capital they are rendering through the school. Mrs. Smith announced that she will be present at each of the sessions, to be conducted from 2 to 4 o'clock today, tomorrow and Friday.

Mrs. Northcross, who has been here several times to conduct the annual Washington Post Cooking School, then greeted the women, many of them having taken her course before. The stage was attractive, through generosity of Washington merchants, with modern refrigerators and tables and cabinets with deep rose cooking utensils, to give the proper inspirational decorative note, which Mrs. Northcross regards as an artistic asset to a well-equipped kitchen.

To be a good cook, the lecturer declared, it is necessary to understand the culinary art of our grandmothers, along with modern scientific knowledge. The poetry to be found in brewing a cup of tea or mixing herbs in delectable concoctions places the cuisine among the arts, she indicated.

Yesterday's menu included roasted chicken with dressing, cranberry mold, angel cake, nut bread, essentials in making good tea, foundation gelatine recipe, wafers, baking powder biscuit and orange mousse.

Each of The Washington Post Cooking School guests was furnished with a program, on which was printed a full list of the menu and the recipes for making them.

Although the hour for the opening of the school was placed at 2 o'clock, many of the women arrived as early as 1 o'clock and several had asked permission to bring their cooks.

Besides demonstrating the recipes, Mrs. Northcross pointed out the essentials of a balanced daily diet as conducive to health and enjoyment of the family. She also explained the essentials of marketing and buying as she gave each demonstration. She stressed that all the goods used in the demonstrations are to be found in local stores, as well as the equipment and utensils with which she works. Mrs. Northcross also pointed out the necessity of good cookbooks and measuring facilities in successful cooking.

A musical program will be given at 1 o'clock today and the cooking school will begin at 2 o'clock. Most of the women who attended the school yesterday announced that they would return today and all the other days of the schooling.

The following merchants and manufacturers are cooperating to make the cooking school a success: The American Stores, groceries, vegetables and fresh meats; Boyce & Lewis, Inc., Wilbur Coon shoes; Browning & Baines, Inc., Orienta coffee; the Carry Ice Cream Co., ice cream; the Calumet Baking Powder Co., Calumet baking powder; Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., telephone extensions; Allan V. De Ford Co., canned goods; the General Baking Co., Bond bread; Graham-Paige Co. of Washington, motor cars; Gude Brothers Co., florist; the Hub, Sellers kitchen cabinet and porcelain-topped tables; the India Tea Growers, tea; S. 3 POLICEMEN FACE BRUTALITY CHARGE

Cited for Appearance Before Trial Board, Accused of Attacking Family.

WARRANT WAS DISMISSED

Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, yesterday cited three police officers to appear before the police trial board on charges of brutality in a free-for-all, which involved the whole family of William F. Carpenter, when the police sought to serve a warrant on Joseph, the 21-year-old son of Carpenter, at his home at 491 H street southwest at 1 o'clock last Saturday morning.

The men cited to appear before the trial board were Precinct Detective S. F. Gravely, Precinct Detective Rupert McNeil and Policeman Melvin P. Creel. The first two are assigned to the Third and the patrolman to the Fourth Precinct.

Hesse Hears Accusations.

The action of the police chief was taken after he had listened to the story told him by Carpenter and his son. Hesse first received a telephone report from Lieut. W. E. Holmes, of the Third Precinct, which did not indicate any fault on the part of the policemen involved. Later he asked Carpenter and his son to come to his office and tell their side. When they had done so, Hesse ordered the accused policemen before the trial board.

"I am going to stand behind my men and support them to the fullest on every proper occasion, but I do not intend to stand for the assault of citizens by police, as is charged in this case," Maj. Hesse said. "I do not, by that statement, intend to convey my belief that my men are guilty of assault in this case. But the charge has been made and those making it are willing to repeat it under oath, and I am going to let the trial board sift the evidence."

Charge Later Dismissed.

The warrant for young Carpenter charged him with petit larceny. The charge later was dismissed. Carpenter was sought by police at his home Thursday night. Admission to the home was refused because they had no warrant. They returned late Friday night with the warrant.

The elder Carpenter said they refused to show the warrant, but broke in the door, grabbed his son and struck him, broke the balustrade from the stairs in his home, broke a floor lamp and did other damage, including bruising himself and his son, Joseph, and the latter's brother, who came to the family assistance when the fight started.

Woman, Married 52 Years, Asks Court to Divorce Her

A marriage that endured 52 years went on the rocks yesterday. Suit for limited divorce was filed in the District Supreme Court by Mrs. Annie Dickle, of 1323 Riggs street northwest, against her husband, Jacob Dickle, of 311 First street southeast. They were married June 1, 1876, at Freeburg, Ohio.

Through her attorney, Clifford P. Grant, Mrs. Dickle charged her husband with cruelty. In 1902, she declared, her husband compelled her to maintain separate quarters by means of locked doors while living under the same roof.

At length, she declared, as a result of his violent outbursts of temper, she took up a residence apart from him.

One child was born to the couple in May, 1882. Mrs Dickle declared. She asked the court to grant her adequate alimony, asserting her husband has an income of more than $300 a month, derived from a pension, a position at the Capitol Building, and from investments and real estate.

FEDERAL WORKERS URGE INQUIRY INTO SCALE FOR WOMEN

HELP OF PRESIDENT SOUGHT IN MESSAGE

Attention Is Called to Act of 1923 Providing Equal Rights in Plants.

Asserting the Personnel Classification Board has discriminated against large groups of women Federal employes, the national executive council of the National Federation of Federal Employes yesterday requested President Coolidge to direct an investigation bringing about parity of compensation between the sexes in the wetting division of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing and the mail equipment shop of the Postoffice Department.

The council composed of officers of the federation from here and all parts of the country, in session here this week, campaigning for legislation bettering working conditions of Federal employes, called the Chief Executive's attention to the fact that the classification act of 1923 provided in determining rates of compensation which employes shall receive, the principle of equal compensation for equal work, irrespective of sex shall be followed.

Charge Refusal to Obey.

The Personnel Classification Board although charged with the duty of administering the act has, council members declare, by refusing to recognize this principle, discriminated against these groups of women employes.

The appeal of the women of the wetting division has been pending before the board for more than five years and during this time it has twice rejected it, in spite of the recommendation of the Treasury Department that the appeal be granted. Men doing work of like responsibility in this establishment have been granted higher allocations by the board, council members say.

They state that women concerned in the appeal are performing very responsible machine operation and those in the mail equipment shop are engaged in operating machines sewing heavy canvas mail bags. While both groups are allocated in Grade 1 of the clerical-mechanical service, it is the council's contention they should be located in Grade 3, or at least Grade 2, in which men holding positions of similar character have been placed.

Council Attends Dinner.

Man Given Year in Jail For Duping Undertakers

Convicted of passing five worthless checks on undertakers, Morrill C. Lucas, colored, was sentenced by Judge John P. McMahon in Police Court yesterday to serve a year in the District Jail and pay a $250 fine or serve an additional 90 days. He was also held under $1,000 bail for grand jury action on two charges of forgery.

Lucas is alleged to have collected $235 from undertakers in the city by telling them the body of his sister was being shipped to this city from New York for burial and placing funeral arrangements in the mortician's hands. In each instance, after his sad tale was accepted, he would tender a worthless check to the undertaker and obtain change.

Uninvited Guests Dupe Trade Banquet Diners

Arrayed in Impeccable Garb But With Improper Dice, Strangers Are Said to Have Harvested $1,000 When Detected.

For at least a dozen prominent Washington business men who attended the annual banquet of the Board of Trade at the Willard Hotel Saturday night it was an expensive experience.

Two uninvited guests, it was learned yesterday, ingratiated themselves to the extent of fleecing these prominent business men of about $1,000 in cash following the dinner, which was attended by Capt. George Fried, commander of the U. S. S. America, the Italian Ambassador and a long list of other notables.

Following the formal dinner and entertainment a group of tired business men decided to indulge in a little gentlemanly gaming. Dice was suggested, and it appeared there was not a dissenting voice.

How the two professionals found their way into the game no one seems to be able to explain. But there they were in the suite engaged for the purpose, attired in tuxedoes and ready to be good fellows with the next one.

At first the game seesawed back and forth, with no one winning consistently, but after a while Lady Luck began to show favoritism. The strangers began winning, and before their duplicity was uncovered they had pocketed something in the neighborhood of $1,000.

A prominent Washington physician discovered that the strangers had introduced into the game a set of dice that would not stand investigation. It is said there were too many "fives" and "twos" on them.

Well, here was an embarrassing situation. Should the police be called? Horrors! no. That meant publicity. The names of the persons involved were too important to get mixed up in a thing like that.

Developments came fast. The strangers had no credentials. They did not belong to the Board of Trade. They had not been invited to the dinner. If they cared anything for their physical comfort they had better beat a hasty retreat. And they did just that—with $1,000 to split between them.

Members of the trade body suffered from a similar experience while attending a shad bake at Sherwood Forest in May of 1927. An uninvited guest got into the fold and won $300 with "loaded dice" before he was detected.

This time, however, the members were not so timid about publicity. Rending the air with shouts of "Stop him! Stop the crook!" a hundred men began a mad chase for the fleecer, but he eluded them.

CONTEST IN SENATE ON MERGER LIKELY

Committee Split Over Details for Traction Plan; Blaine Opposes Majority.

DELAY MAY BALK ACTION

The chamber of the Senate will be the arena in which the fight over a local street car merger will be waged in the future, and a spirited contest is anticipated there.

The Senate District committee made a favorable report on the merger resolution at a meeting yesterday morning after voting down all amendments offered by Senator Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin. Blaine was the only one who voted against the favorable report.

Today Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), of Kansas, chairman of the committee, will submit to the Senate a report embodying the reasons he and other members of the committee except Blaine think the resolution should be adopted without amendments.

Senator Blaine will submit a minority report, telling the Senate why it should refuse to approve the resolution unless it is amended.

The prospect, therefore, is for a fight that may evolve into a time-wasting filibuster, the result of which will be the wrecking of the merger project so far as the short session is concerned.

Valuation Plan Issue.

The principal amendment offered by Blaine would provide that the utilities companies here be evaluated according to the "prudent investment" theory rather than according to the "reproduction cost" theory.

While several members of the committee are in favor of the Blaine amendment, they think it ought to be taken up as separate legislation. Tacked onto the resolution, they say, it would cause a controversy that would certainly prevent action on the resolution itself.

Other amendments rejected by the committee were suggested by William H. Roberts and William McK. Clayton, of the Federation of Citizens Associations, providing as follows:

"That the existing traction companies be made to turn over their depreciation reserves to the merged company; that the franchise of the merged company be limited; that reduced fares be provided for school children, and that the merged company be directed to provide free transfers from cars to buses and vice versa."

Maltbie Plan Approved.

The resolution approved by the committee yesterday was drafted after six months of study and negotiating by Dr. Milo R. Maltbie, New York utilities expert, who was hired by the committee. While no official announcement has been made, it is understood that the terms laid down in the resolution have been approved by the traction companies.

The resolution permits the traction companies to merge, but without a fixed valuation, although they had asked a $50,000,000 valuation. It also provides that the present car fare shall be continued for a least two years. The old resolution carried only a one-year guarantee.

Senator Blaine yesterday chided his colleagues for following Dr. Maltbie's recommendations so faithfully. He also said that they had shown poor judgment in promising Dr. Maltbie the job of supervising the proposed new valuation of the traction companies.

"I am afraid," said Blaine, "that he wilted with that golden apple held out in front of him."

Other senators defended Maltbie's ability and pointed out that he always had been regarded as an anticorporation man.

Alien Sues to Recover Million in War Seizure

Otto Heine, who described himself as a friendly alien, yesterday filed suit in the equity division of the District Supreme Court seeking to recover $1,012,843.17 which he alleges is due him as the result of illegal seizure under the trading with the enemy act.

He alleges further that the sum represented by 900 shares of capital stock of the Elsemann Magneto Co. was seized by the alien property custodian under the impression that it belonged to Robert Bosch, of the Bosch Magneto Co. He named Walter O. Woods, United States treasurer, Howard Sutherland, alien property custodian; the American Bosch Magneto and the Bosch Magneto Corporations as defendants.

HERO LACK DECRIED BY BISHOP FREEMAN

Prelate, Honored at Laymen's Banquet Holds Church Mechanism Obstacle.

G. W. PEPPER IS SPEAKER

Religion needs more heroism, no more mechanism, the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, told the 450 laymen of the Episcopal Church who tendered him a testimonial banquet last night at the Willard Hotel.

The danger facing the church today, he said, is an overemphasis on its organization and machinery, and "if I had my way I would scrap 50 per cent of this impedimenta."

Bishop Freeman admitted that a certain amount of organization is necessary for the proper functioning of the church, but he pleaded for a "fresh demonstration of the living Christ who stands before mankind as the supreme hero."

"Church Jobs Sought."

"Many people are seeking today some kind of occupation with the church, Bishop Freeman said. The larger portion of them want to sit on boards and commissions and tend to the administrative functions. The work of such boards and commissions is relatively unimportant beside the major work of "exemplifying the life of Christ," he said.

He likened the administrative side of the church to the machinery of making laws. Laws without ideals, he said, are inoperative, and added: "What we need is not more laws, but more law-abiding citizens. Let us perfect that which we have, rather than create new organizations, machinery and laws."

The bishop was preceded on the program by Dr. William C. Sturgis, former educational secretary of the department of missions, and George Wharton Pepper, chairman of the executive committee of the Washington Cathedral.

Parochialism Deplored.

Dr. Sturgis urged laymen to forget parochialism. "One of the worst features of the church is the feeling of parochialism," he said, "and, with the exception of indifference, I know of no one thing that does more harm."

He said the first and primary loyalty should be to the parish, but that a churchman should view the parish as a unit of a world organization. "What can any man know of his church if he knows of nothing but his parish?" he asked. "Loyalty to the parish should be the beginning of a larger loyalty."

Dr. Sturgis stressed the adaptability which the Episcopal Church had shown through the ages and its unity.

Pepper said the critical attitude with which a great many people view the church could do the church no harm and could do the critic a lot of good "if the attitude is not negative."

Five Doctors Face Trial On Liquor Sale Charges

Five local colored physicians were held for Police Court action by United States Commissioner Needham C. Turnage yesterday on accusations of making false returns of liquor prescriptions, prescribing more than a pint of liquor to a patient within ten days, and issuing prescription without making a physical examination of a patient.

The defendants were: Drs. Isaiah B. Horn, Pinyon Cornish, William A. Goodloe, J. R. Contee Cook and Samuel L. Starks. Each was liberated in $500 bail. Roland L. Burroughs, prohibition agent, testified that he called on each of the physicians and asked for a perscription to liven up a card game he was having at his home. In each instance, he declared, he succeeded in obtaining a liquor prescription.

ANTISALOON LEAGUE SCORED BY DEFENSE IN DRY LAW HEARING

Intimidation Is Charged to Official by Attorney in Police Court.

PROSECUTION AFRAID OF JOBS, ASSERTION

Alleged Change in Records Leads to Fiery Attack on Thomas Jarvis.

An open accusation of intimidating the prosecutor and policemen involved in a liquor trial at Police Court yesterday was hurled at Thomas B. Jarvis official of the Antisaloon League, by John H. Burnett, defense attorney.

After denouncing the league in general as a meddlesome organization, Burnett charged that Jarvis was virtually conducting prosecution of the case and the prosecutor and police witnesses were following his directions in fear of losing their positions.

The trial was that of Anthony Acquilon on charges of transporting and possessing 76 quarts of liquor. He was arrested on November 23 at Fourth and C streets southeast by the police vice squad and accused of having the liquor in an automobile.

Jury Unable to Agree.

The jury deliberated heatedly for two hours and reported to Judge Robert E. Maftingly shortly before 6 o'clock that they stood hopelessly deadlocked. It was reported that the jurors had voted 7 to 5 for acquittal.

Jarvis, who is assistant legislative superintendent of the league in addition to being field secretary of the Citizen Service Association, was in the courtroom when his name was brought into the case.

Burnett asked Assistant District Attorney R. P. Camilier, the prosecutor, if he had not changed a written report of the arrest made by Detective William P. Burke, of the vice squad, after a consultation with Jarvis at the noon recess. The report stated that 80 quarts of peach brandy were seized and testimony held only 76 quarts were involved in the case.

Camilier admitted he had talked with Jarvis during the recess period and changed the written report, but not at Jarvis' instructions. The prosecutor also admitted that the dry official said he did not like the manner in which Burnett was handling the defense.

Richard Cox and George McCarron, also members of the vice squad, were asked during their stay on the witness stand if they had not colored their testimony because of the presence of Jarvis in the courtroom. Both paused at length and were excused from the stand without an answer.

In his argument to the jury, Camilier declared Burnett had brought Jarvis' name into the case because he had no defense. He charge that trial of the case had taken too long because of the defense attorney's tactics and ridiculed the defense.

Charges Fear of Jobs.

In his argument to the jury, over the heated objections of the prosecutor, Burnett charged:

"The assistant district attorney and the others in this case acted in the manner they did because they were afraid to act differently. They were afraid that the Antisaloon League would be the cause of them losing their jobs.

"This man Jarvis has come into this court and is sticking his nose in this case when he has no right and no business to do so."

Burnett compared the dry league to a "vampire of ancient time," declared the league forced itself in offices and positions where it had no business as the "vampire forced itself upon a victim and sucked its blood."

Burnett was at one time an assistant district attorney.

Mme. Sigrid Onegin Charms in Concert

Contralto Pleases by Her Dramatic Ability as Well as Voice.

Mme. Sigrid Onegin, contralto, widely heralded as the logical successor to Mme. Schumann-Heink, appeared in concert yesterday at Poli's Theater under the local management of Mrs. Wilson-Greene.

From her opening number by Mozart to the Verdi aria with which the program closed Mme. Onegin charmed her audience with the rare beauty and mellow quality of her voice, her gift of dramatic interpretation in singing and in certain songs, the realistic character touches she gave to them.

The outstanding number of her program, the applause for which caused her to give an encore, was "Nobles Seigneurs Salut" by Meyerbeer. This spirited aria from "Les Huguenots" gave Mme. Onegin the chance to exhibit the full strength of her voice and her dramatic ability.
